CORNELL FRESHMEN DEFEATED BY PENNSYLVANIA FRESHMEN

EXHIBITION OF 1906 FOOTBALL BY FUTURE VARSITY STARS.

Regan Showed Wonderful Generalship and Made a Sensational Ninety-Yard Run for a Touchdown.

The Freshman victory over the Cornell Freshmen was a well-earned one, and brought the new football game before the spectators in the best exhibition seen on Franklin Field this season. The Freshman, under the generality of Regan, completely mastered the forward pass, and at all times displayed a remarkable ability to hold the ball. Line plunges or mass plays were cut out of the goal, as both teams seemed to be about equally capable of stopping them. Their ability to handle the ball gave Cornell's Freshmen pass to a Pennsylvania man nearly every time he was in the game, the ends being equally quick in "swiping" the ball.

The back field was especially fast, and formed the wing interference so effectively that Regan was enabled to gain fifteen to twenty yards on quarter-back runs. He played one of the best and most sensational running back punts seen this season. Macklin's punts were not up to standard and for distance, but were high enough to enable the ends to get down under. Runners at right half played a good line-blocking game, and was strong on defensive playing.

The 1910 team wiped out last year's defeat by the Cornell Freshmen in a well-earned victory. The team was strong as a team and at all times played for the one object of advancing the ball.

Saturday's Football Games.

The results of the collegiate football games played on Saturday are as follows:

Michigan, 16; Vanderbilt, 0.
Cornell, 23, Western University of Pennsylvania, 0.
Princeton, 47, Dartmouth, 6.
Yale, 16, West Point, 0.
Harvard, 9, Brown, 5.
Indiana, 9; Syracuse, 5.
Lafayette, 14; Washington and Jefferson, 6.

Very truly yours,

The Pennsylvania invites all members of the University to contribute to this column. It is not responsible for the sentiments expressed.

Athletic Association Directors.

To the Editor of The Pennsylvania:

Dear Sir:—I wish to bring to the attention of the undergraduate student body the immediate necessity of making nominations to the Board of Directors of the Athletic Association. No member can be nominated to the Board of Directors who is not a member of the Athletic Association in good standing. No member whose dues for the current year are unpaid can be nominated. The name, class, and department of each undergraduate student are necessary.

I ask The Pennsylvania to give prominence to this announcement because, as far as I know, no announcement has been made, that the undergraduates failed to send in their nominations for the Board of Directors was itself obliged to fill the vacancies.

Again, Pennsylvania is noted far and wide for its atmosphere of progress and energy, which are elements in the university which develop every activity. Few universities have made such material advances in so short a time. The Pennsylvania has not only made magnificent advances in buildings, but in the material things which have grown, but in the personnel of the university. The contributions of every class, of every course, in her general scope and in her world, our University has expanded.

And yet in the matter of student government, a part of it at least, has not gone forward; in this respect Pennsylvania

MONDAY, NOVEMBER 5, 1906.

Nobody can be expected to sing a song he does not know. If the cheer leaders want good cheer and good singing, they should hold mass meeting about five times a week.

If a Freshman thinks he has more work than he can do, then is the very time for him to add to his labors by going out for track, football or some other activity. The Freshman who is not in something is a "dodo one."

The "knockers" in the grandstands are generally pretty quiet when it comes to cheering and singing. A little less "knocking" and a little more expenditure of energy in the right direction would be appreciated by the team.

The Wharton School certainly has the missionary idea. Evidently the Arts Association does not think the College needs more students, as it is allowing the Wharton Association to monopolize the eminent men that can speak in public.

FRESHMAN VICTORY.
The Freshman football team on Saturday demonstrated the effectiveness of the new game, and gave an exhibition of 1906 football that was as interesting as anything seen on Franklin Field this year.

The most noticeable feature of the game was the snap and spirit infused into the plays. It was a real Pennsylvania team that played the Cornell Freshmen.

October “Alumni Register.”
The October number of the “Alumni Register” contains in frontispiece an unusually good cut of the Engineering building, followed by a compre-
holistic account of the plan and equipment of the new home of the largest department of the College.
Under “Alumni News” the “Register” mentions the fact that during the summer Dean Kirt, of the Dental Department, Dr. E. O. Hanrahan, 92
D. and Dr. Richard Rothruhmekeu, Philosophy, visited various alumni societies scattered over different parts of Europe. Dr. Rischuhulein, during several months stay in Germany, took occasion to visit the universities at Berlin, Leipzig, Tubingen, Stuttgart,
and Gottingen, and addressed the students on “American Universities.”
He had with him a set of lantern slides of this University, which were much appreciated by the German students.
The “Register” suggests to classes
contemplating the erection of a suitable memorial on University grounds
that a memorial gate would be deeli-dly appropriate on the south side of the campus on Spruce street, half way between Houston Hall and the power plant. The gate should be made to correpond to the gates of the Clus.
93 C, between Houston Hall and the Hare Laboratory.

HONOR SYSTEM.

men are not democrats. Now it strikes me that when a body of Americans go into a class room for examination and, apparently admitting that all are liable to a charge of dis-honesty, subject themselves to the political service of an instructor, they dis-spirit which is decidedly non-democratic. The members of that class had no hand in choosing the lecturer. He was placed there arbit-trarily by other people; his powers are not limited by the voice of those in his charge. In submitting to a government which has no hand in their independence, and in so doing sacri-cifice their individuality.

After all the hours spent in the class room do form a definite part of college life, why should we not apply here the same systems of ethics which hold in the rest of life? Is there any reason for supposing that a man who is acknowledged to be perfectly honest and honest outside of the class room will assume a different character as soon as he comes under an instructor's cycle? There is no great an gno difference between our codes of morals as men and as students?

Why not place every man upon his honor and fairly, in college examinations as well as in the other tests of life? A man's ability to judge between right and wrong, and his strength to withstand temptation, should not be impaired by his mat-riculation in a university such as ours.

Home systems have been successful in a large number of American universities for years. Why shouldn't Pennsylvania not display her "spirit of progress" and step into line with the leaders? What Princeton, Virginia, Williams, Yale, and many other American colleges can do, Pennsylvania can do as well. Our ideals of ethics are not lower than those of our sister institutions. It is in a system for usning them out that we fall short. The movement which has begun in the Wharton School should not be allowed to stop there. Arts men and engineers, too, for suppose, and spread the system over the whole college. The moral strength of a class will do the same sooner or later. Let us all pull together for the fair name of Pennsylvania. H. W. ARTH.

The "Beat" Team Lost Game

The University's football game was defeated by the Philadelphia and State Tigers Saturday by the score of three gulls to seven. The Wharton team was handicapped by the absence of Bricke, the goalkeeper, who has a sprained ankle.

Tennis Tournament

Two very exciting sets were played in the tennis tournament Saturday be-
