DR. JAMES T. YOUNG SPEAKS ON THE LABOR QUESTION

PREDICTS DECLINE IN NATIONAL CULTURE AND PROGRESS.

Too Long a Labor Day—Causes Labor to Lose Interest in Politics—A Socialistic Party is the Result.

"The long labor day will soon create a dominant socialistic party in this country, as the Wharton School, in his lecture on the labor question last night, he predicted a decline in national culture and intellectual progress and a deed efficiency in business unless some radical reforms of present conditions be effected."

Dr. Young discussed the question of hours of labor from the point of view of society. He said: "This problem goes beyond the economic efficiency question into that of the effect on society. In the first place, a long daycut off the hours of culture for the worker. By setting the labor day at twelve hours on educational advantages are destroyed for boys from the ages of twelve or thirteen years. Age limit should be fixed at sixteen years and the hours of labor reduced to eight or an inferior class of society will be produced."

The possibility of social development is seriously hampered by a long-hour day. It seems almost paradoxical that one of the greatest by-products of our present manufacturing system is a race of people who are going backward instead of forward. We cannot, as a people, afford to allow the situation to go on behind without evil to the nation as a whole."

MICHIGAN'S TEAM HAS ARRIVED.

Men Seen in Excellent Condition, Garrett's Will Be Acting Captain.

The Michigan team, with substitutes and coaches, under Coach Yost, arrived at West Chester in their private car from the East at three o'clock yesterday afternoon, and were driven at once to the Union Tree to, where they will be quartered until Saturday.

The sixteen men which compose the squad showed no signs of fatigue from their long trip, but seemed in the best condition, both mentally and physically. It had been raining all morning, and when Coach Yost's men arrived it had turned to rain. The squad were given any practice on account of the bad weather and their long trip, but took some exercise indoors and were then given a rub down. Coach Yost will put his men through a short practice today which will be the last before to-mor-row's game.

The absence of Captain Curtis, who broke his leg in last Saturday's game, and the star full back and around athlete of the West, will captain the team in the game tomorrow.

The whole Michigan team feel that Pennsylvania is going to put up a hard and stubborn fight, but they feel confident of the outcome.

The following are the men which compose the squad which arrived yesterday: Hoefl, Eyer, Davidson, Chap-

ton, Graham, Newton, Hammond, Magoffin, Workman, Bishop, Gar-

rells, Runnels, Ehrin, Wright, Leather, Evans, Streible, Karaga and Patrick.

Southern Club Meets.

The regular monthly meeting of the Southern Club was held last night in Room 21, E. P. Smith House. Several new members were elected and various other business attended to.

MICHIGAN LETTER.

Ann Arbor, Mich., November 13th. The hard luck which has relentlessly pursued the team of 1906 reached a climax Saturday afternoon when Captain Curtis, the backbone of the whole organization, broke his left leg in a practice game with the scrum. It is probably true that a glow hangs over the campus at Ann Arbor would be standing the case mildly. It is known that the play was built around Curtis, and when the news of his injury became generally known, every hope of winning the Pennsylvania game vanished.

Michigan could only play three or four of the men who are desirous for one reason or another, prospects would be considerably brighter, but the Western Conference rules lay a heavy handicap on Michigan which Pennsylvania is not forced to bear.

Casey, the star halfback, is ruled out in a narrow interpretation of the rules, and other good men are also chained to the side line through the operation of regulations which do not affect Pennsylvania. Patrick, the tackle who took Curtis' place in the Chicago game last year, is disabled with a sprained knee, from which the physicians say he may never recover.

When Coach Yost returned from Philadelphia Sunday night he said Michigan had not one chance in ten to win next Saturday. However, the men are all determined to put up the best kind of a fight, and every inch will be hotly contested.

The Cross-Country Club held its annual handicap race Saturday. The distance was over four miles, and was a typical cross-country course, including hilly sections as well as level stretches. Ford Bowe won the championship cup. This trophy was presented by Wright, Kay & Co., and is to be won three successive years by one man in order to have it come

VARSITY PRACTICE GOOD IN SPITE OF THE BAD WEATHER

A SPIRITED SIGNAL PRACTICE SHOWS MUCH IMPROVEMENT.

General Rounding Off of All Weak Points—Improvement in Catching and Running Back Passes.

 Vũ Torki (Spooky) To The Pennsylvania.

Window Justin. X. November 15th.—In spite of the rain this morning, which fell here all day, the 'Varsity was put through a hot drill during the afternoon. The practice, which lasted about an hour, consisted of drilling the back field men on catching and running back passes and of fast signal practice. The ground was slippery and soggy and the ball was hard to hold, but there was no fumbling, and the formations were run off smoothly and fast, and the whole team looked well sys-temed by snappy work.

As the weather was so disagreeable during the morning the men were kept inside, and the coaches took advantage of this to get them together on different plays on paper with the men individually and show them what they should do to back up different formations which Coach Yost's men are likely to use, and also drilled them in their own formations.

All of the men are in fine physical condition, and are determined to put up the best game of their lives on Saturday.

Coach's Hedges. Morice and Mitchell arrived this morning, and will remain until Saturday morning, returning with the team. Dr. Wilson, the team's doctor, will be on the campus, but will come back to-morrow and watch the game.

A few of the men work back to college room and study, and turned at noon, and every member of the 'Varsity was in the line up.

The coaches have laid the work for to-morrow along the same lines as pursued to-day.

Wharton Association Meets.

The Wharton Association met yesterday afternoon in Lawn Hall. A special invitation had been extended to the members of the Freshman Class, and all cuts were excused for that period. A large number of the first-year men attended.

Dr. Young, Director of the Wharton School, was first to address the meeting, and laid special stress on the necessity of having the high school students urged them to join some student organization, such as the various religious clubs, social clubs or debating society. He especially emphasized the work of the Wharton Association in propagating the adoption of the honor system and in getting new students to come to the school, and urged the men to join in this work.

Among the other speakers were Wayne Hummer, president of the Freshman Class; Charles Brown, chairman of the Committee on Speakers, who announced that Franklin Spencer Edmonds, Esq., would speak in the near future, as would J. G. Morgan, of New York; William J. Nash, chairman of Committee on New Students, and Walter C. Neely, who spoke in behalf of the Committee on Weak Students.

Both on Phones  Lecture by Henry Flanders, Esq.  Henry Flanders, Esq. gave an interesting appreciation of the character and work of Samuel Chase, Associate Justice of the United States Supreme Court, in the Law School building at two o'clock yesterday afternoon.  Mr. Flanders is widely known in his profession, being one of the greatest living authorities on admiralty practice.  Yesterday's lecture was the first of a series of which is a continuation of a similar series delivered last year. One lecture will be given every Thursday, except during the holidays, from now until the middle of February.  The jurists whom Mr. Flanders will present this year are Gabriel D. Dudden, James Forfeild, William Johnson, John McLean, James M. Wayne, James Wilson and Henry Baldwin. Judge of the Supreme Court Lord Thurlow, Lord Eldon, Lord Erskine, Williams Plimpton, and Chief Justice Gibson. Dean William Draper Lewis, in presenting the speaker yesterday, said that the series would deal with the "leading legal personalities of the age."  Mr. Flanders' talk embodied the most salient facts of the life of Justice Chase, who was a Marylander, his father being an English clergyman who had settled and married on the Eastern shore. There is no record of Chase's ever having spent a day in school, his education being carried on by his father. He was, however, a severe student, ruling law with the purpose of improvement and not for the purpose of practicing it. He afterward entered upon the practice of law and became one of the earliest leaders of the people proceeding and during the war for independence. He opposed the adoption of the constitution, but Washington appointed him to the bench of the Supreme Court in recognition of his services to liberty, which Mr. Flanders said was the "passion of Chase's life, though he did not always accord to the men who were brought before him for trial." Indeed the justice was in the habit of making up his opinion beforehand in political cases, as illustrated in several anecdotes by Mr. Flanders. Said the speaker: "Any important person who reads his career must feel that his temperament was wholly unsuited to the bench. He was a man of warm impetuous feelings, and under the excitement of those feelings nothing would restrain him. He showed great ability in ordinary cases where his politics and prejudices did not interfere. He was on the bench fifteen years, and during that time two cases of great moment were decided. His opinions in both cases show that he was a thinker, a man of strong and vigorous intellect."  Chase's many violent acts and statements, especially his characteristic of the administration of President Jefferson as "tyrannical," led to this impeachment, John Randolph presenting the impeachment. He was, however, acquitted and had many friends until his death in 1811. "For," said Mr. Flanders, "he had courage, and after all it is courage that wins men, and it is particularly courage that wins women."  W. D. Defeat 50 M. at Bowling.  Yesterday afternoon W. Cross-Country Trials. The trials for the cross-country team run at the intercollegiate meet, to be held at Princeton the day before Thanksgiving, were held in Fairmount Park yesterday afternoon. The conditions under which the meet was run were quite satisfactory that it is unlikely that the trials will be repeated.
