The Cercle Francais wishes to announce that M. Anatole Le Braz, of Paris, and author of "Le Petit Breton," will lecture at this University on Sunday, December 4th, on the subject, "La Renaissance Celtique en Europe: Ses caracteres; son influence." This is one of the series on "La France Provinciale," now being given by M. Le Braz before the branches of the French Alliance of the United States and Canada.

Mr. J. R. G. Rosearnace, a prominent alumnus of the University, has generously offered to share the expense of producing such an able lecturer.

Junior week was inaugurated under most auspicious circumstances with the performance of "The Ham Tree" at the Chestnut Street Theatre last night. At being University night the entire theatre was draped with Red and Blue bunting, and many upon the "gags" were introduced, much to the enjoyment of the typical Pennsylvania auditors which filled the house to overflowing, every seat in the parquet and balcony being sold to the best performance. One of the boxes was occupied by the Provost and Mr. Dr. Smith, while in the others were various fraternity.

The second ministrations of a Flavie and Heath, well named "the kings of the air," in the title role, attracted the audience in a continual uproar with their comic jokes and comic actions. F. H. Fields as "Sherlock" is second only to the principals with his feats of juggly and B. Bow-ers as "Ernest Everhard," the hero, won rounds of applause by his many references to Pennsylvania, as did Carolyn Gordon and Belle Gold in the leading feminine roles.

The first scene, the exterior of a country hotel in the South, opened with an athletic chorus, many of the members being decked with Red and Blue bunting for the occasion.

The song "Desolation," caught the ear of the crowd until Bowers appeared wearing a red sash and a large "J" over it. Upon this moment, the actor caught the audience and much applause greeted him as he sang "Sweethearts in Every Town," and introduced a body of local hits.

MacIntyre and Heath soon began their bantering, and in speaking of his horse being a "good rogue" the latter replied, "He ought to be good. He has been trained by Mike Murphy, who has developed him into quite a "kicker."" Thus many similar jokes took the house by storm.

In the opening chorus of the second act, "Sweet Old Manhattan Isle," the leading feminine role was played by Miss Charlotte L. Allendorf, of New York.

The Alumni and Student body with their wives were entertained on Donation Day at the University Hospital. The University Hospital was covered with decorations and pennant a few days prior to the big dinner, and the nurse's work was most interesting as it was a large number of nurses that were present.

Graduation Exercises and Donation Day at the Hospital Yesterday.

Donation Day at the University Hospital yesterday was a marked success. It was a perfect occasion. The weather, so far as I know, was probably the most interesting of the day in the history of the University, and the dinner was a very successful one. In the promotion of the event, however, the work was done by a large number of people, and the nurses were present in force. The nurses were present in force.

The program consisted of a general discussion, papers read during the evening.

Junior Cane Committee. There will be a meeting of the Junior Cane Committee to-day (Tuesday), at 2.30 and 1.15 o'clock in Room 205, College Hall. Signed: E. R. Hoever, chairman.

As the University football game with Yale on November 17th marked the close of the football season, the undergraduate interest has been turned to the winter activities. The men who have earned the "Varsity" football are now playing in the Yale game are: A. N. Hoagland, ’97; E. H. W. Harlan, ’98, and L. C. Wiser, ’98. Of the men who composed the "Varsity" this year the following will be last by graduation: North, H. L. Dillon, D. G. Herring, J. L. Conney, A. N. Hoagland, and W. H. Dashi.

The University association football team was defeated by the Staten Island and Cricket Club by the score of 2 to 1 in a hard-fought game, played on University Field Saturday. The individual work of the team was good, but lack of concentrated action cost Princeton the loss of the game.

The list of the series of cross-country races, held for the three cups offered by the Daily Princetonian, took place last Wednesday. The first cup was won by Captain J. L. Elveh, ’07, the second cup by E. H. Kelly, ’99, and the third cup by E. H. Kelly, ’99. Basketball practice under the direction of Captain Halliday, ’97, and E. R. Turner, ’08, began in earnest last Monday, and has continued with varying success. It is yet to early in the season to estimate the work of the men.

The work of the wrestling teams was also begun last week under the instruction of Captain E. O. Howell, ’97. That the interest has been marked is attested by the fact that forty-three candidates have reported. A University chess tournament will be played before the Thanksgiving recess, to determine the men who will compete on the University team in the intercollegiate matches.

Bibliographical Club to Meet.

A meeting of the Bibliographical Club will be held at the University Club on Saturday, December 1st, at 8.15. Dr. Witmer will speak on "Recent Literature on the Psychology of Sex." After the address a business meeting will be held to perfect re-organization for the year.

THE PHILADELPHIA ELECTRIC CO.
Tenth and Sansom Sts.
Grand Opera House—"Down the Pike."
Among the big musical comedies of the season is again numbered "Down the Pike," in which the Mays have made such a hit the past two seasons. For some time Johnley and Emery Ray have held the stage as two of the leading comedy exponents in musical farce, and in "Down the Pike" both have unequal opportunities for further display of their peculiar talents. Mr. Ray's quavery, squeaking voice and unusual stretch of mouth and limbs has placed him in a class by himself. He will be seen as "Casy," the eccentric janitor in a big apartment house, and when he is seen with many couples on account of three different tenants disputing themselves to represent the janitor. Mixed ideas in the theme used for building up "Down the Pike" is needless to say that fun and laughter reign supreme from the rise to the fall of the curtain. Emma Ray will be seen as Mrs. Russell Keene, a strong-minded, jealous woman, whose husband has a fondness for pretty stiff negligees. She hires a detective to watch him, and from there on the action is spirited enough to suit the most fastidious. "Down the Pike" will be presented at the Grand Opera House for this week only.

Special Holiday Offer.
To the students of the University and members of the teaching force the Bureau of Publicity makes the following additional offer. No orders will be received under this proposition after Thursday, December 20, and the order must be accompanied by a check for the purchase of the first copy of the "University of Pennsylvania Illustrated," either outright or under the combination offer, the purchaser may get all additional copies at a discount of 10 per cent, provided such order for additional copies is received at the same time as the order for the first copy.

"University of Pennsylvania Illustrated" is the most beautiful book of the University of Pennsylvania ever published. Its printing alone cost nearly $600, the work consists of 154 pages and 152 pictures, completely illustrating life at Pennsylvania. The pictures are printed on the very best etched copper plates, the paper being 94 by 11/4 inches. The volume is handsomely bound in red silk cloth, stamped in blue and gold. Price, $2, express prepaid.

"Old Penn" is the official weekly publication of the University of Pennsylvania, and is the only paper which keeps the students, the alumni, and the friends of the university fully informed of what is going on. Price, $1 a year.

No alumnus or student should be without a copy of the new Official Guide of the University of Pennsylvania. It consists of 140 pages, containing a brief description of every building, its cost, architecture, use, etc.; a small half-tone cut of all the buildings; a copy of every organizational record and memorial; a list of the oil paintings, books, rare volumes, and the most complete classified list of all University societies, clubs, associations, publications, etc. Price, $1.50.

Combination offer: The Bureau of University Records, Philadelphia, and DeLong, a Philadelphia Penn has the three publications mentioned above, so that they may be purchased at one time. It is a most attractive form for the applicant for admission to the University of Pennsylvania. Until after the holidays, therefore, the Bureau will send all three publications to any address, express prepaid, for $2.50.
