ZEO TEAM WINS DEBATE FROM THE BARNARD LITERARY SOCIETY

JUDGES WERE UNANIMOUS IN AWARDING THEIR DECISION.

Zealophie Society Has Won Three of the Five Debates Held with Representatives from Columbia.

The Zealophie Literary Society won a debate over the Barnard Literary Association of Columbia University in their annual debate, held in Price Hall last night. Zeal opposed the affirmative side of the proposition, the Barnard constitution should be so amended as to vest the power to impose a general income tax. Zeal argued that an income tax, being direct, would raise a number of indirect taxation and would put the duty of taxation on that part of the population least able to pay. They endeavored to show that such a tax would not only be unfair but also in harmony in that it could not be shifted. The Barnard team tried the heart of their argument upon the impracticality of an income tax from the standpoint of the statistical collection, while Zeal met this with the point that where tax payment must be secured, tax rate may be evade, but that, as a matter of fact, most laws are enforced.

Both teams were strong. White did the best work for Zeal and Whitehead was the star for Barnard. Sketch of the Barnard team, showed considerable interest in their collection, with both Paxson and Carreau making favorable suggestions. The crowd felt that the whole the Zeal men went at the crucial points of the question very directly, and were clearer and more positive than Barnard's. The Barnard team, in a June debate, was held to be between the two societies, Zeal now having three and Barnard two.

The members of the two teams last night made an excellent showing. The Paxson and Carreau are members of the Zealophie Literary Society, and are prepared with all the necessary parts of the debate. The Barnard team is made up of those who have taken part in the debate in the past, and are able to present the arguments in a clear and convincing manner. The Zealophie team is considered to be the stronger of the two, and it is expected that they will come out on top in this debate.

WRESTLING TEAM’S SCHEDULE

First Meet Held To-Day at Kensing- ton Y. M. C. A. in Gymnasium.

Plans for the wrestling team for this season have been almost perfected. A good schedule, including meets from trips, is being arranged, and all the members of the team are working hard to meet the challenges of the season. The team will be held to a strict schedule throughout the university, with practices taking place every day after school. The team is expected to do well this season, and is looking forward to a successful year.

MICHIGAN LETTER.

Ann Arbor, Mich., December 10th.—The great Michigan Union dinner is now an event of the past. It will live in the memory of every man who was present. Covers were turned in at ten o'clock, the music was an inspiring one, to see the gray- haired alumni and the Freshmen seated side by side, full of enthusiasm and love for alma mater. They were responded to by a musical program was rendered by the Mandolin and Glee Clubs. The club-house project, which has been such a vital one to all Michigan men for some years past, was the exciting theme of most of the talks. Great enthusiasm was caused when the announcement was made that the first definite step had been taken—once for all—towards the fulfillment of the Union’s plans.

In connection with the Union dinner a portrait of President Angell was presented to and received by the students and alumni. The work was that of William M. Chase, the famous New York portrait painter. The ceremonies were singularly impressive. The initiates were present from many universities and colleges, and a number of letters and telegrams from others were also present.

The Sociological Club of the University has recently entered a new field—that of practical investigation. Some of its members disguised himself as a alien in the slums and tenement districts of Detroit. The Club plans in the near future to carry on some definite form of settlement work.

One of the guests at the Michigan Union dinner was Professor Jeremiah W. Jenks, head of the Economics Department of Cornell University. While at Ann Arbor he spoke before the class in economics as "The Trust Problem." Some of his remarks were unusually pertinent at this time, when there is so much criticism of organized wealth. He said: "I should encourage great fortunes so long as they are working in the rendering of equivalent services to society." Its real cure of the present industrial situation is the inherent worthlessness of our social and political structures the one who has the power to take advantage of the fact. He would remedy this by promoting a better understanding of the natural purposes of life, and the human willingness to pay reasonable wages for services rendered and just prices...
The Pennsylvania reaches its majority to-day. Twenty-one years ago—on December 15, 1885—it first appeared with this legend: "Published weekly throughout the college year by the undergraduates of the University of Pennsylvania.

The new paper was founded to represent the whole University, the Philomathean Society having consented to give up the publication of "The University Magazine," which was managed exclusively by members of that society, in order that the students of all departments might have an influence on the University paper. Accordingly the first editorial board was made up of men from the several schools. Edward M. Jefferys, '86, was editor-in-chief; William C. Poe, '88, C. B. manager; the associate editors were George A. Lang for the Medical Department, Frank B. Griffin for the Dental Department, John S. Adams for the Law Department, and Richard W. Hickman for the Veterinary Department. The Post-Graduate Department was represented by J. T. Durham and G. K. Yorsh. The remainder of the board, all from the College, was made up of G. O. Horwitz, '86, G. W. Pepper, '87, W. R. Hopkins, '97, Margaret Wither, '98, and E. J. Pers, '89.

In the light of events since the birth-day of The Pennsylvania there is a bit of interesting prophecy in an editorial in the first number urging an extension of the Law course from two years to three. Says The Pennsylvania of 1885: "There is nothing truer than the remark made by Professors Pepper when introducing Canon Farrow to the University on December 24 that we have here the framework of a great university, and it only remains to fill it in."

Those who bowl nowadays when our football team loses a game should compare notes with the following. In reviewing the football season of 1885 The Pennsylvania says that the "last pitcher," the trainer appeared on September 20th "as if he found a set of men knowing little or nothing about football and most of them unwilling to receive instruction. Few of them cared for hard training, and the chief difficulty arose in the men not wishing to prac-

Grand—"Girls Will Be Girls."

What the "Toronto World" said about "Girls Will Be Girls," Tuesday, November 6th. The same company will be seen at the Grand Opera House during this week.

"A laugh, a hurrah, a scream, is the best way to describe the musical comedy, "Girls Will Be Girls," at the Grand this week. It is a splendid medley for that tired crowd. Last night everyone enjoyed the performance. The comedy is clear-cut and refined, not allowing one dull moment. Al Leach was just a bit fancier than usual. His eccentric dancing, his character portrayal of the game-loving professor, and his singing, have endeared him to the audiences. The Brompton Sisters, or huskbacks, are a revelation, and they show conclusively what can be done by dressing. Maud Gray, a soprano, Charlotte Towe, who helps, and Lily Dean Hart, also assisted in keeping the audience in the best possible spirits. • • • The chorus poses delightful singing voices."

Malaise will be on Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday at the usual popular prices of $25 cents through the entire house, every night reserved.

Mechanical Engineers' Smoker.

The Mechanical Engineers gave an informal smoker in the third floor of their new building last evening. The large room was beautifully decorated in the University colors and pennants, making an ideal place for an entertainmen.

The different classes sat in circles and amused themselves by giving class yells, tending to frighten or encourage each other.

Addresses were made by Vice-President E. F. Smith and Professors Spangler and Marburg of the Engineering School. College songs were sung along with popular songs of the day.

There were close to two hundred students present, filling the large reception room, in which the smoker proper was held.

After the singing and speeches were over a buffet lunch was served.

The Marmon—

Demonstrates Superiority of An Air-Cooled Cylinder with Gears in Low Speed

A fifty-mile run up and down Broad Street, with the LEVER LOCKED AT LOW SPEED by the Marmon Air-Cooled Car. This test is the severest to which an air-cooled car could be put, and it has PROVED that the cylinders of a Marmon car will remain cool even when the car is geared at low speed, no matter how steep the hill to be climbed. The strain to which the engines were put can be imagined—they averaged 80 revolutions a minute.

THE MARMON IS THE ONLY CAR IN THE WORLD WHICH HAS SUCCESSFULLY MADE THIS TEST.

Mr. Frank R. Rutherford, Secretary of the Pennsylvania branch of the R. P. C. A., locked the lever in low speed gear before this run was started.

AN 8-CYLINDER MARMON MACHINE, THE ONLY 8-CYLINDER CAR IN THIS COUNTRY, WILL BE EXHIBITED AT THE PHILADELPHIA AUTOMOBILE SHOW. WATCH FOR IT!
