S. Todd Has Acute
case of Spinal Meningitis

Business Manager of the Pennsylvania Hospital.

Illness Diagnosed on Monday as Influenza—Death of Spinal meningitis.

S. Todd, 37th Ward, of the Pennsylvania Hospital, a victim of spinal meningitis. He was taken there from his room at the dormitories Monday afternoon in the ambulance, and his illness was diagnosed as influenza.

Todd became gradually worse until about one o'clock Wednesday morning, when he became delirious. It took physicians and several nurses to hold him in bed until he could be strapped down. It was then that the symptoms of spinal meningitis, one of the most fatal of contagious diseases, were recognized. The sick boy's parents were notified by telegraph at once, and are said to be on the way to Philadelphia. A aunt is Todd's only relative in this city, but no one is allowed to see him present.

Yesterday Todd's condition showed a slight improvement, and it was possible to give him some food. The doctors are, however, in effec to encourage his recovery.

Wrestling Team Candidates.

Candidates for the wrestling team should report for practice at the Gymnasium to-morrow afternoon. The college meets are not far off, and no one can afford to lose any time in preparing for them. Wrestling has become an important intercollegiate sport, and Pennsylvania will have a good chance to win the championship. Some students support the team by coming out and trying for it. Signed: J. L. Mason, Physical Director.

FRIDAY, JANUARY 4, 1907.

The following extract from a recent article in the “New York Sun” on intercollegiate football for 1906 is worth reading, not because it is overthrowing in praise for the Varsity, but because in its brief space it contains facts which are almost self-evident truths:

“The wonderful rally made by the Pennsylvania eleven after a most disheartening early season was one of the brightest spots of the season of 1906. Slow to appreciate the value of learning the fine points of the new game, the back, when the proper man to play for, but when they did take the bull by the horns, the result was a close and exciting game.

“The palette of despond in splendid style.

“The selection of the team will be made as follows. Any student of the University may enter the preliminaries, open to January 15th, for a series of ten games, at the close of which the team having the highest averages will compose the Varsity team.

“The interval class games are progressing favorably, the College freshmen at present leading the College Juniors by one game.

“The semester schedule, which begins Monday, is as follows: Monday—’08 C. vs. ’07 D. Tuesday—’09 D. vs. ’07 M. Wednesday—’07 M. E. vs. ’08 M. E. Thursday—’08 M. E. vs. ’09 D. vs. ’07 C. vs. ’08 M. Friday—’09 D. vs. ’07 C. vs. ’08 M. Chemistry.

“Surgical Research Fund.

“A prize of seventy-five dollars will be awarded to a member of the third-year class in Medicine presenting, on or before January 1, 1908, the best essay based upon the results of original investigations in Surgical Anatomy, Surgical Pathology, or Surgical Physiology. The observations must be upon patients in the surgical service of the University Hospital, upon the material in the Anatomical Laboratory, Laboratory of Surgical Pathology, or on Experimental Surgery.

“All those desiring to compete for the prize must present to the Committee an outline of the subject to be investigated and the basis of their investigation on or before April 1, 1907.

Garrick—"The Squaw Man."

William Faversham, in Edwin Royle's play, "The Squaw Man," remains at the Garrick. The play tells a story of interest. An English army officer, for love of his cousin's wife, and to save her from disgrace, shoulders the responsibility of a crime actually committed by her husband. His disgrace and turn up as a ranchman in a Western State, where in loneliness and loneliness he has married an Indian girl, whose devotion has won his affections.

In the news comes that the "squaw man"—as they call a white man who weds an Indian woman —has inherited a title, and the suicide of the Indian wife in despair at the prospect of a life parted from her child, leaves him free to marry the woman he has always loved. Lithco & Co. have given the play a series of colorful stage settings, and have surrounded the star with a cast of efficient players. Julie Opp has the part of the English woman for whom the hero suffers disgrace and expatriation. Samuel Morison appears as the Indian wife, said to be one of the most picturesque Indian characters yet presented on the stage, and Frederic Watson as Tahwatsan, an Indian chiefman, has scored a pronounced success. W. H. Bart impregnates a cowboy desperado.

"Lord Chancellor Thurloe."—Henry Flanders, Esq., delivered another of his series of lectures at Price Hall yesterday afternoon, his subject being "Lord Chancellor Thurloe." Mr. Flanders described Lord Thurloe as possessing a pair of piercing black eyes, buoyant eyebrows, and a terrible voice. He was "rude, gruff and sometimes cruel." His reputation was established by his success in the trial for the legitimacy of the son of Lady Jane D'Artigues. Mr. Flanders also told a number of anecdotes about Lord Chancellor Thurloe, which helped to make the lecture the most entertaining of the series.

Dr. G. B. Gordon Makes Address.

Dr. George Byron Gordon, Instructor in Anthropology, addressed the Anti- quandian and Numismatic Society last night. He gave an account of the Eskimos of Alaska and the Aleutian Isles, based on his observations while on an expedition for the University last summer. He showed a large number of new and interesting pictures. Dr. Gordon is making a thorough study of the Eskimos, and will go to the North next again summer.
