Spirited Mass Meeting in College Hall Chapel

Captain Taylor said: "For four months, when the crew is on the river, it never has a cheer as the football team does. Only fifteen men have come out besides three of last year's crew. Now we must get athletes, and we must get them honestly, out of the student body, and it is up to you. On Dr. McFarlane's examination list are big men who never come out for a college team. They try to get out of Pennsylvania without giving anything in return. It is our duty to come out for a team and fail to make it; but the worst thing a man can do is to come out and heartily for exercise. It is the spirit we need.

After the meeting Sophomore Presi dent Rogers asked his class to come out and cheer their basketball team when it plays the Freshmen next Saturday, and then to stay and cheer the Pennsylvania-Cornell game.

The affirmative will be upheld by C. G. Bandman, '97 C, and W. Schenckhorn, '97 C, while the negative speakers will be T. C. Caver, '97 C, and G. Thompson, '97 C. Roy A. Hulst has been appointed critic for the evening.

Park—"Mets in the Alps."
Al. H. Wilson, the golden voiced singer," is at the Park Theatre this and next week in a new play of pic- turesco Switzerland, entitled, "Mets in the Alps." The play is admirably adapted, and affords Mr. Wilson op- portunity to display at best his acting and singing qualities, and is provided with a number of interesting and ex- citing scenes, including an effective snow storm, the rescue of the hero by a handsome St. Bernard dog and mons from the boasted House of Horrors, and a duel in a mountain pass in the Alps. The scenic effects are unusually good, and are instructive as well as interesting. A number of interest- ing character types are introduced in the play, which contribute materially to its success. Mr. Wilson is pos- sessed of a fine singing voice, and dur- ing the action of the play renders sev- eral new songs of a popular char- acter.—Adv.
