News of the Colleges.

Yale has received two requests of $100,000 each, one from the estate of Edward West Currier, of New York, the income to be paid deserving students needing assistance, and the other from the estate of William C. Kegiston, of New York.

John W. Currie, ’96, and on Yale Varsity, will coach Annapolis next fall.

Harvard has introduced polo, and a team will play against Yale on the Moseley Hunt Club grounds in June.

The latest polo team representing the Crimson was that of 1897.

Students at Lehigh, Stanford have formed the Students’ Transfer Committee, and will do a general Kangaroo, and express business among underclassmen. The cause of such a move lies in the fact that the local concerns doubled their prices for handling truck and suit cases.

Wall Scaling Exhibition.

In the annual spring gymnastic and athletic exhibition to be held on Franklin Field next Wednesday there will be a special feature a wall scaling exhibition. Three teams of ten men each will be organized, and leaders will be appointed to coach and drill the candidates. Men of 130 pounds or less are urgently requested to come out and try, reporting to Mr. Mason in the gym. There will be a practice on the wall at 4:20 every day, except this morning, when it will be at 11:30 o'clock.

1907 Record Announcement.

At the recent meeting of the 1907 Record Committee final preparations were made to send the report in press this week. Practically all the work has been completed, which promises to be a feature of this year’s record. The colored inserts are especially effective, and will be more numerous than ever before. On account of the Easter holidays the time in which subscriptions will be accepted has been extended until today, after which the price of the Records will be $2.50. Subscription cards may be secured from any member of the committee.

Architectural Society.

At the regular monthly meeting of the Architectural Society in College Hall last night the following were initiated with appropriate ceremonies: Chubb, Caldwell, Collins, Austin, Noyens and Potter.

Grand—"The Red Feather."

In Reginald DeKoven and Charles Kipko's comic opera, "Red Feather," which is at the Grand Opera House this week, the score is pleasingly varied, none of the numbers being of the ballad order, some of them humorous and some of them of superior musical worth, coming very near to the grand opera standard, but the key-note of the whole is martial, the resultant effect being startling to the last degree. In all there are two hundred and twenty-one numbers, numbering solos, duets, trios, madrigals, marches and choruses. Of these the best known are: "The Little Milliner," "Lessons in Verse," "The Song of the Guards," "To Call Them Mine," "The Merry Cavalier," "The Rose and the Breeze," "Garden of Dreams," "The Demiurge Ghost," and "In Vine Veritas." After Cherubin Stimson, the prima donna, has been surrounded by a thoroughly adequate supporting company of seventy people. Manager Davis gave most careful consideration to the vocal abilities of all whom he selected for the organization, and prides himself upon having secured one of the best singing companies that has been sent on tour since the days of the Aline Nellis Opera company.

The matinee will be on Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday, at the usual popular price of 25 cents throughout the entire house.
