The regular Saturday morning practice will be dispensed with today. The team will report as soon after three o'clock as possible Monday afternoon, at which time it is hoped a large number of new candidates will turn out.

FOOTBALL GAMES, BUT THE PENNSYLVANIAN WILL BE SOLD ON THE FIELD AND WILL CONTAIN THE OFFICIAL LINE-UP.

VARSITY PLAYS BUCKNELL THIS AFTERNOON AT 3.30

CAPTAIN ROBERT O. FOLLEWILL will present the team, and judging from his past performances, should make a good showing. The men who have been laid up with slight injuries have reported again with the exception of Paxxis, who is suffering from a badly wounded knee. The Freshman eleven will meet the team from State Normal School as a curtain raiser.

Marathons for Penn-Bucknell Game.

Twenty men are wanted to act as marathons at the Pennsylvania-Buck- nell game today. Apply at the office of the Athletic Association. Signed: C. Pemberton, Jr., treasurer.

Bible Study for Dental Men.

Bible study will be held for dental men to-morrow morning at tea o'clock.
Lively football is expected today on Franklin Field when the University will line up against Bucknell, with whom our team has not played for several years. The result of the contest may help in a large degree toward a comparison of Pennsylvania with some of the other big teams in the East, for Bucknell will also meet Princeton, Carlisle and Lafayette. Last year Princeton had a hard task with Bucknell, and as the latter team is supposed to be better than that of last year, the game today will undoubtedly not be won without a struggle on the part of the University eleven. Last Monday Bucknell defeated Carnegie, a team that always causes Pennsylvania plenty of trouble. The Princeton-Bucknell game will be played on Wednesday, October 9th, when a comparison of scores may be interesting.

By authorization of the Athletic Association THE PENNSYLVANIAN will hereafter be sold on Franklin Field at all football games as the official program. The football copy will contain special football features besides the regular lineup for both teams. It is intended later in the season to enlarge the paper and give our thousands of readers at the field interesting news of the football team and notes of football at other colleges, which they will not be able to obtain elsewhere. It is hoped that this departure will surely add to the circulation of this paper on football days. For lively and up to date sporting news that can be depended upon for accuracy THE PENNSYLVANIAN will have no competitor. "Old Penn," the weekly paper published by the faculty, will also be sold at the field; and may interest those who want to read a record of the University events during the week, as well as alumni and faculty news. But patrons of this paper must not confuse "Old Penn" with THE PENNSYLVANIAN, which is published by the undergraduates, and contains the University news up to date.

The status of cross-country running at Pennsylvania is nearly advanced to a higher position. Last year our team was a close second to Cornell, as which institution cross-country running holds almost an equality with rowing so far as the importance of the sport goes. Yesterday twenty men reported for the University team on the first call, and many more are expected out in the next few days.

The chances for winning the championship this year may not be as bright as last year, although there will probably be more institutions represented than there were last year. At present Pennsylvania, Cornell, Harvard, Yale, Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Princeton and Columbia are represented. If the report holds true, there is a chance that Michigan and Byrnes will be added to the number. The meet is to be held at Princeton again, and according to the suggestion that emanated from Cornell, each college is to enter more men and have more qualify for the teams.

Hitherto the colleges have been sending seven men to the line for the start on the condition that the first four in each shall compose the team for the college. It was suggested by Cornell that hereafter nine men start from the line and that six men shall constitute a team. The intention is to improve the quality of college running by making it necessary to develop a large number of good men. If it had been possible to count the last six men in the championship last year, Cornell would have been an easy winner if it was calculated. Bohack, Colpitts, Magoffin, Beebe and Noble, who finished second, fifth, seventh and respectively, Cornell had Lemon, Thatch and Trench. Pennsylvania, by finishing Jones first, Root third and Hawkins fourth, had Cornell very much benefited. It was the fact that the fourth Pennsylvania man to finish was Stanton, who was away back in seventh place, that spoiled the University's chances. As it was, Pennsylvania scored twenty-five points and Cornell twenty-two. If Cornell had been scoring the first six men last year, the Ilians would have had a total of fifty points against seventy-three for the University, a difference of twenty-three, instead of twenty-two.
