MUCH PROMINENT TALENT IN CANDIDATES FOR THE ELECTIONS

The first try-out for players in the preliminary plans of the Mask and Wig Club was held last night at the club house, 516 Race Street.

According to the Mask and Wig custom the men who compose the cast of the annual production are chosen from those who make the best showing in the preliminary performances in the fall. Two or more separate acts, acting the same play, compete for a final cast, comprising the best men in all the acts, is selected, this to form the principal line-up of the preliminary play. The members of the annual production are then chosen from the selection.

An unusual number of prominent candidates were in the race for the past part they presented anecdotes or songs, although a few gave dramatic readings. Much good dramatic talent in their recitations and several showed promise of very good voices.

Stage Manager Morgan is very much pleased with the prospect of as much material to choose from. The preliminary play was held some time in the middle of December, but as yet no definite date has been announced. A list of the successful candidates who will be retained will appear in Monday’s Pennsylvania.

The following is a list of these candidates who have reported:

The work of the Penn team was considered by The Pennsylvania and the students at the meet yesterday in the Houston Club, and taken to the football game in the afternoon.

For preparation in the game on Saturday, secret practice was held on Franklin Field yesterday afternoon, only a few people being admitted to the grounds while the team was put through the pace.

The full board of coaches were present and concentrated their efforts on preparing several faults which the Varsity exhibited. Miller was kept at quarter and Crooks and Burnside at the ends, while Townsend and Som-}

COMMUNICATION.

The interested shown in Doctor Gordon's Alaskan expedition on behalf of the University will undoubtedly be welcome upon his return and the relation of his adventures and discoveries. Doctor Gordon has already added largely to the Museum's collection of relics and folklore of the Esk- imos. He will bring back with him much more valuable material. His home coming will be the more pleasant because of the anxiety long felt over his safety. We are glad that word has at last been received from him.

By no means has the agitation in favor of an eight o'clock chapel hour been dropped, as our correspondent seems to believe. We think as he does that the project should be pushed at once by those undergraduates who are in favor of the change. Many men believe that the change should not be asked for before next year or next term at the earliest. It is not known whether it could be put into operation before the beginning of another college year and some men question whether they would desire it before next year. It is a new some time since the idea was first broached in the columns of this paper. It has had a sufficient period for consideration on the part of those who would be affected by the new hour. Lyric—"Fascinating Flora." Next Monday evening at the Lyric, "Fascinating Flora," the musical comedy which for five months, including the heated period of the past summer, was a favorite at the Casino Theatre, New York, will begin an engagement in this city and will be presented just as it was during the Broadway run, with Adele Knatchbull, the "Dresden China fairy," as the fascinating prima donna of the same name and the same exact cast of musical comedy favorites in the principal roles. The characters are R. H. Barnacle, Joseph W. Herbert and Gustave Kerfer. Mr. Bearne, who is the general stage director for the Students and who was instrumental in securing a speedy measure of the success of "The Social Witches" and "The Tychics," collaborated with Mr. Herbert upon the book. The score was furnished by Gustave Kerfer, that brilliant composer, whose tuneful favorites have probably done more to establish the fame of the Casino than the combined efforts of all the other musical writers who have contributed to the quartet of a century of Casino shows. The wellfold story revolves around Adolph Albrecht, director of the Paris conservatoire of music, and his wife, Flora Dival, a comic opera prima donna. Their flirtations and jealousies lead them through a series of complicated but amusing situations. From Paris the scene passes to New York and from there to Manhattan Beach, each act being mounted in the most lavish manner. Miss Ritchie in this instance is said to be doing quite the best work of her notable stage career. Her, gorgeous vocal, are marvels of the vocalists of the most famous female of Hollywood. Her song style include, "The Subway Romance," "Splash Me" —"Good Old Yankee for Me," and "I'd Rather Two Stop Than Walls," a chorus large numerically and most with the pretty girls of the Casino is promised. There will be matinees on Wednesday and Saturday.

Adelphi—Anna Karanina. Virginia Harned, who has successfully created such great emotional roles as Trilby and Lita, and who is said to be one of the greatest of Casinos, will be seen in a dramatization of Tolstoy's "Anna Karenina," at the Adelphi Theatre for another week, beginning next Monday night. Not only does the talent of the actress and the grandeur of the great Russian writer's masterpiece both unite to form a notable dramatic event, but expectations are decidedly whetted by the fact that this bootleg version of "Anna Karenina" is inevitable to be seen in New York this season. John Mason, Robert Warwick, Albert Gran, Ann Warrington, are but a few of the prominent players in the large cast required for this drama. Sale of seats today.

Grand Opera House. Nat M. Wilde, as Happy Holmes, the trump, in the latest musical produc- tion, is the attraction at the Grand Opera House this week. Mark II. Swan has cleverly devised mirth-provoking situations following each other in rapid succession, throughout the three acts of the play, while Nat Wilde has not lost sight of a single opportunity to make a laugh by his witty interpretations of the part of the trump. The production has been sumptuously staged, and the well-knawn cast of principals is backed by a score of pretty singing and dancing girls, costumed in the most modern styles of the best New York and Paris designs. Songs and ensemble numbers are pretty and catchy, while the major march numbers are pretty and inspir- ing.
