THIRTEENTH ANNUAL GAME
ARMY AND NAVY HAVE COMPETED 80 FAIR TWELVE TIMES.

West Point has Come Off the Winner in Six Contest and Annapolis in Five—1903 Game Resulted in a Draw.

This afternoon's game between West Point and Annapolis is the thirteenth annual contest between the two academies. Of the twelve games played thus far one resulted in a tie, the Army won six and the Navy five. The contests without exception have been evenly contested and only three times has the loser failed to score. Annapolis is credited with ten of the thirty-eight victories.

In 1908 the first game was played.

Army Right Half-Back.

The Navy team, leaving the night before the game, reached West Point at three o'clock in the morning, were nevertheless able to completely oust the cadets, 24-6. Preparation was more serious and earnest in 1908, better training by the Army players won the game 24-6, although at the end of the first half the score was a tie. The game was played at Annapolis.

Systematic coaching began in 1892. Amidst the first half ended in a tie but the Army was now troubled with the same thing from which the Navy had been afflicted the year before—"twiddled head"—and the midshipmen pulled out an easy winner, 12-6, with not a man injured during the game. This was the last game played at West Point. In 1893 the scene shifted

ARMY AND NAVY MEET TO-DAY

1907 FOOTBALL SEASON TO BE CLOSED ON FRANKLIN FIELD.

Climaxing Social and Athletic Event of the Fall Will Be Attended by Alden Gowy and Navy Dignitaries.

The last act in the football drama of 1907 will be played this afternoon at Franklin Field when West Point faces Annapolis. From the standpoint of sport the game will be a close and well-contested one. The Army for so long disdained dynamite, 24 to Yale, 96, and lost to Cornell by the creditable score of 34-16. Altogether, in 1892 the cadets have piled up a total of at least 125 points to opponents' 116. The Army on the other hand lost to Swarthmore, 9 to 8, but the "midshipmen," held Harvard to a 64 to 6 score and defeated Lafayette 176 and Gaud 64, whereas that the future admirals, the score being 6-4. At the games Annapolis has accumulated a total of 112 points while Army opponents have accumulated 141.

From a social standpoint this afternoon's game will be one of the hedging events of the year. Pressure of official business will necessitate the absence of President Roosevelt, but his daughter, Miss Edith Roosevelt, will represent the White House. Ad

American Academy to Meet
"Lessons of the Recent Financial Crisis" the Subject for Discussion.

"Lessons of the Recent Financial Crisis" will be the general theme of the opening evening of the American Academy of Political and Social Science, which will be held in Wickersham Hall, Juniper and Walnut streets, on Monday evening. This is the initial session of the year 1907-8, the academy has been fortunate in arranging a symposium in which three of the leading financial authorities of the country will take part.

The speakers will be as follows:
Mr. Frank A. Vanderlip, New York City, Vice-President of the National City Bank, and former Assistant Secretary of the Treasury; Hon. William B. Halaby, Washington, D. C., Comptroller of the Currency. Charles H. Trout, Washington, D. C., Treasurer of the United States; Mr. Jacob H. Schiff, New York City, senior member of the firm of Kuhn, Loeb & Co.; Mr. William W. Kilborn, New York City, President of the Chase National Bank, and former Comptroller of the Currency; Mr. Isaac N. Seligman, New York City, member of the firm of J. H. Seligman and Co. The other members of the committee will be Mr. William A. Nash, New York City, President of the Produce Exchange National Bank.

Students who desire to attend this evening's general public are invited to apply at the office of the American Academy, Room 256, Logan Hall.

1907 Record Assignments.

In preparing the literary articles for the College Record assignments and summaries have been made in but few cases. For the most part two or more officers have been called upon to each of the articles. The best in each of the competiting articles will be selected by the literary sub-committee after copy has all been handed in, and if necessary a new article will be composed which will combine those excerpts. In this way the quality of the literary contributions to the record will probably be greatly improved. Individual letters have been sent out to each of the men in the Senior Class, who have been requested to write articles, stating the length that these articles are to be made. The official list is as follows:

Arts and Science, Kerren, Wanger, Marley, Wharton, Neddy, Henry, Kilbain; Mechanical and Electrical Engineering, Enge, Walle; Civil Engineer, Rone; Industrial Architecture, Holmes; Chemistry and Chemical Engineering; art: class directors; Bickham; class dances; Dixon; class "scraps", Hendree, Keeley, Shoemaker; debating, Wanger, Reeves; Mask and Wig, Laverly and Dixon; Chippendale Creations, Bowes, "Red and Blue," Enge, Kane; "Punch Bowl," Jones, Wanger; The Pennsylvania, Neddy, Lowes, Reeves; musical clubs, Harker; Phi Beta Kappa, Wanger; Junior Week, Laverly; Chippendales, Wanger; Zelo, Kilbain; Deutscher Verein, Bechtle; Celtic Franchise, Holland; football, Bickham; Shoemaker; bowling, Enge, Shoemaker; track, Bickham; baseball, Hendree; Dean's trophy, Shoemaker; May Day sports, Enge. JUNIOR DALL A BIG SUCCESS

First of the Class Dances for 1907-08 is Held in Weighman Hall.

An unusually large representation of Philadelphia's society makes and matrons to lend their prestige, the annual Junior Ball, held last evening in Weighman Hall, to very properly considered an unqualified success. The room was tastefully decorated in Red and blue while autumn decorations seemed out of place in the formal adornments. Graceful fusion of modern Japanese elements, draped from the ceiling of palms and myro- nges, ranged at regular intervals, their soft greens and rich browns giving color to the room. Graceful fusions of modern Japanese elements, draped from the ceiling of palms and myronges, ranged at regular intervals, their soft greens and rich browns giving color to the room.

B. D.Blake's orchestra furnished the music. About one hundred couples were on the floor, the Senior and Junior Chances being the classes with the largest representation, as it usually the case. Supper was served until an hour after eleven.

The dance reflects great credit upon the entertainers, chairman. S. Townes, Jr., whose efforts to make it successful were unmitigated. This is the first time the dance was given by 1908 and the second Junior Ball to be held in Weighman Hall. The Class of 1908 Record, it is to be held at Junior Hall in the gymnasium, and the innovation previous year, and temporarily that it may never be regarded as an established custom.

"League Island Navy Yard, Philadelphia, Pa., November 19, 1907.

"Editor-in-Chief of The Pennsylvania:

"Dear Sir,—It is with great pleasure that I reply to your letter requesting me to write briefly concerning the coming football match between the Army and Navy on Franklin Field.

"Without exception all naval officers are keenly interested in this contest, and I, with the rest, earnestly hope for victory for Annapolis. But victory or defeat, I personally admire the game which fosters the spirit of courage and manliness—qualities which both our Army and our Navy must cultivate to the highest degree, that we may keep unimpaired those records of the past of both services, so glorious both in war and in peace.

"Very truly yours,

unmarried Outley, who was the first officer killed in the Spanish War, kick- ing a most brilliant goal. The Army scored a touchdown ten minutes later but failed to kick an easy goal, so the Navy led the field the winner, 8-4.

For some unaccountable reason the sidelines were now desecrated, and for five years the two academies did not meet. In 1901, the officials concurred the happy thought of holding the Game on a neutral ground, and Franklin Field was naturally selected as the least commodious, accessible and satisfactory meeting place. From that time on the West Point-Annapolis Game has become a social events, the event of equal rank with the Pennsylva-alia and Princeton-Yale contests.

West Point won in 1897 by the score of 11-7, thanks largely to the heroism of Captain Johnson. The Lightning of the Navy turned the tables in 1898 and won, 11-7, a fact buck field and two superb finals being responsible for the victory. The tide again turned in 1899, when Army won, 14-9. Both academy teams had previously defended Pennsylvania on their own field. The star of the game was Quarter-Back Daly, of West Point, who for two succeeding years had played quarter at Harvard in all-America style.

The 1902 game was never in doubt.
West Point outclassed and outplayed Annapolis, and had little difficulty in winning, 22-6. The superb work of Cadet Bunker at half-back in this game won him a place on Walter Camp's All-America. The score in 1903 was equally overwhelming, 28-5, in favor of the Blue. The midshipmen came back strong the next year, however, and during the first half threatened to break the Army's win-ing streak. Luck favored the cadets, however, and the Army finally won 11-9. An attempt of this game was the touchdown scored by Tipton, the Army centre. After a fumble by the Navy full-back, Tipton kicked the table toward the Navy goal line. Though unable to pick the pigskin up, because he was so hotly pursued by Navy players, Tipton kept running and kicking the ball the entire length of the field and finally fell on it after it had crossed the goal line. Tipton made the All-America in 1904.

The following year Brokaw Field, Princeton, was tried as an experiment and proved thoroughly unsatisfactory from every standpoint. The tie score, 6-6, was virtually a victory for Annapolis. Clever kicking and clean handling of punts enabled the Navy to win the game last year, which was wisely brought back to Franklin Field, at the score of 10-0.

Deutscher Verein Trials.

Competitive trials for the cast of the forthcoming production of the Deutscher Verein's annual play will be held on Monday evening next, at eight o'clock, sharp. In Room 12, Houstoun Hall.

A large number of candidates are expected. This year's play will require a greater number of men than those of previous years. Most of last year's stars have signified their intention of again becoming candidates.
Among them are J. C. Bechtel, '08; J.
Berdette Holland, '08; B H, Golder, '09; R. L. Johnson, '08, and S.
Hooven, '10.

Among all members of the Deutscher Verein who propose trying for the role should hand their names to John C. Bechtel, '08, J. B. Berdette Holland,'08, and Franklin House, dormitories, at their earliest convenience.
