BASKETBALL WITH PRINCETON

TEAMS WILL MEET IN A CHAMPIONSHIP GAME THIS EVENING.

Sophomores will also play the Freshmen in Their Annual Contest for the Dean's Trophy—The Line Up.

Princeton will be the Varisty opponent in the basketball game to be played in the gymnasium tonight. This will be the second time the Varsity has met them. The first game played at Princeton resulted in a victory for the Pennsylvanians, 44 to 42. While Princeton has not been very fortunate in its intercollegiate league, no doubt they will pull up in a fast game. Last week they showed much better form and could have taken the strong West Point team.

If Yale or Columbia should win their remaining games, in order to take the intercollegiate championship Pennsylvania will have to win two of the remaining three games.

CERCLE FRANCIS'S ANNUAL PARTY

The productions follow: 1898, "Le Bourgeois Gentilhomme;" 1899, "La Folle Journée" of M. H. Sand; 1901, "La Grammaire;" 1902, "Adolphe" of M. E. S.; 1903, "Le Soupir" and "Le Pathe;" 1905, "Les Femmes Qui Pleurent;" 1906, "Le Petit Duc;" 1907, "Le Mariage Aux Yeux," which in English means "Bride of the Eyes," is a clever little play treating of the trials and tribulations of a youthful lover without means to press his suit.

CERCLE FRANCAIS'S ANNUAL PARTY

A CHAPETER OF THE INTERCOLLEGIATE SOCIALIST SOCIETY.

Meetings to be Held Every Saturday Afternoon at Three O'clock. Prominent Men Will Make Addresses.

After a briefly covering the University of Pennsylvania Social study chapter of the Intercollegiate Socialist Society succeeded in electing its officers for the ensuing year, J. W. Robinson, '10, was elected president, W. W. King, '10, vice-president; R. C. Fox, secretary and treasurer. A committee was appointed by the body to lend aid in forming of Nidos, Fox and Bacon, to receive a certificate of Incorporation. The chapter decided to meet regularly every Saturday afternoon, at three o'clock.

The Intercollegiate Socialist Society, whose final club study is a chapter, was organized on September 20th, 1895, in New York City. The membership in the chapter is open to all students of this University who are members of the Intercollegiate Socialist Society and who sympathize with its principles. Membership does not require that the member be a Socialist. The dues are one dollar a year.

At various times this season meetings will be called, at which member representatives of the society will deliver lectures on vital questions of the day. In the near future Mr. John Spargo, the well-known author and sociologist, will be heard, and probably also Mr. Uriah Slagle, author of "The Jungle," which recently caused the crusade against the unsanitary conditions in the meat pack houses.

As part of the work of the society committee in distributing appropriate literature, including Professor Edward A. Ross' article on 'Political Psychology' from the "Social Science Review," a Jos. Medill Patterson's "Confessions of a Brooklyn," also from the same source, the Mandolin Club under Direction of Dr. Vulpargin, will present a program at 8:30 P.M. at G.P.M. club.

A number of lectures to college students have been given under the auspices of the society. Among those were ones by Professor Sidney A. Rice at Bryn Mawr College, and at Brown University, one by Gaylord Wharton at Amherst College and an address by Professor Ford at Yale University, one by Dr. Morris Hillquit at the New York University Law School, and a lecture by Doctor Long in the Grand Central Palace, New York City, in February, 1901, which was also given under the auspices of the society.

ARCHITECTS TO MEET.

The regular bi-monthly meeting of the Society of Student Architects will be held to-night, Professor Crofut, of the Department of Architectural Engineering, will address the society on some professional topic. The newly elected officers are: J. G. Hoff, president; Frederick Clark, vice-president; C. A. Metivier, secretary; C. G. B. Greese, treasurer.

Way, Germany, Wescott, Register, Monroe, Perry, Meule, Drinker, J. I. Fulton, Aaron, Noyes, Heath, Muller, Eaton, A. W. Smith, Palmer, Holier, Harten, Schulte, Keenan, Irish, J. I. The whole ensemble will not be present until the 15th of this month. Charles Snyder Morgan, Jr., stage director.

Haverford School Club.

There will be a general meeting of the Haverford School Club tomorrow afternoon at 3:45 in the Haverford Club trophy room. All Haverford men are requested to be present. Signed: J. Edgley Dixon, vice-president.

Mandolin Club Rehearsal.

There will be a Mandolin Club rehearsal at the Mandolin Club this afternoon at 2 o'clock.
The students of the University of Pennsylvania, The Army and Navy in an adequate and friendly manner.

Baseball Practice Begins.

The first indoor baseball practice took place yesterday afternoon in the gymnasium. The practice was held under the supervision of John Blakely, head coach, and Arthur brain, who gave the candidates instruction in batting. Owing to the fact that neither the Varsity nor the 1930 Freshman teams have been called out yet, the number reporting was limited. However there were even fewer than had been expected, and more candidates are needed at once. Practice will continue every afternoon at two o'clock.

Manager Clay wishes to announce that candidates for the Freshman baseball team will not report until the regular call for Freshmen is made. The work at present is for the Varsity team, for which Freshmen are not eligible.

Dr. Charles Lewis to Lecture.

Today, at eleven o'clock, in Dr. Marshall's lecture room, the course in medical missions for first-year medical and veterinary men will begin with a talk by Dr. Charles Lewis, '95 M. D., of China, on malacropathy in that country. This will be followed on succeeding Tuesdays by other doctors from the foreign field. Such a course offers an exceptional opportunity to become acquainted with the work of Dr. Joe McCracken is doing for Pennsylvania in Canton in the mission field. It is also interesting to any medical student on account of the side light into the conditions of many prevalent diseases and parasites among the Chinese. Dr. Lewis has just returned to this country from China, where he has for years been the head of a large hospital. The honors amount of work possible among the hordes of Chinese that have made him a man of much practical experience in his profession.
