PHI BETA KAPPA MEN SELECTED

Honor undergraduates of The College were elected to membership in The Society of Phi Beta Kappa at the annual meeting of the society yesterday afternoon. Five were chosen as follows from the senior class: M. H. Bickham, E. A. Eckhardt, C. G. P. Frannen, F. A. Palk, A. W. Smith, and from the junior class C. J. Cole, C. E. Fossat, W. J. Jones.

All the successful candidates are employed in the Arts and Science course. Eckhardt prepared at Pennsylvania State College, and has been a member of the Varsity football team. Palk received the Frieder prize for awarded to the member of the football, basketball, or track teams or of the man who attained the highest scholarship. He has been moderator of Phi Beta and was a member of his class debating team. He is president of the Undergraduate Christian Association. Eckhardt prepared at Northeast Manual Training School and is the recipient of the Sigma Xi Fraternity. He is a member of Phi Beta. He received the Eugene Delano prize for sophomore mathematics. Frannen entered from Union Theological Seminary School, and has been moderator of Phi Beta, as well as a member of Phi Beta's debating teams. He won the Oration and Essay prize awarded by Phi Beta, and has been awarded numerous prizes in The College.

Penn prepared at Central High School, has represented the University on three debate teams, has been editor-in-chief of "Punch Bowl" and "Red and Blue," and is an editor of The Pennsylvanian. He won the Frieder prize for debating, and received the second Frieder prize for "Vanity debuting." He has been moderator of Phi Beta in the freshman unit.

Palk was chosen an aide, is both catch and runner on the basketball team. He is also a member of the senior class day exercises. Some failures are distributed among the different classes throughout the day.

The scenic, which was chosen by Dr. Rowe, of the Wharton School, is of the highest order. It is to be continued and will be given at a cost of $500. The play is to be performed at the Houston Club house.

The play, entitled "The Brain Trust," is of the musical comedy order, and the music, written by H. M. Hobson, was in both cases of the highest order.

One of the misunderstandings which the new Press Club should have in view is an effort to bring the undergraduate publications into closer contact with the nature body by increasing their circulation.

Not even the University authorities much less the undergraduates want to create a newspaper among these publications could have upon Pennsylvania nor if they were at all in tune with the way that would make these truly representative and at the same time more generally read than they are now. This is especially true in the case of The Pennsylvaniaian. In this paper were read every day by all of the thousand students in the University, the study houses; could be assuming. One thing that needed undergraduate cooperation could be undertaken in such a case and would be of service.

The Press Club may devise some way of making the college papers satisfy the needs of the undergraduates and of bringing every student to hold a different view of work on the papers from that now generally popular. If it can do this it will accomplish a most useful purpose.

Triangular League Debates.

More than usual interest centered in the triangular league debates, which will take place tomorrow evening simultaneously in Philadelphia, New York and Buffalo between Columbia, Cornell and Pennsylvania. Cornell will take the affirmative against Columbia at Elyce, while the negative team will journey to Philadelphia to meet Pennsylvania's affirmative team. Pennsylvania's negative team of all Columbia's affirmative team in New York.

The subject of the debate, after considerable revision, now reads as follows: "Resolved, that, aside from any questions of constitutionality in either, Congress should require all corporations engaged in interstate business to take out a Federal license."
