NEWS EDITOR OF TODAY'S ISSUE.
W. A. WURDIESHEIM.

It is very gratifying to know that such a large number of students will today follow the Harvard team to Princeton. May this undergraduate support instill the winning spirit into our players on University Field this afternoon.

Since our last appeal to the undergraduates there have been as many as six men who have paid their subscription fee to The Pennsylvanian. There are still approximately a dozen this number who have so far failed to redeem their pledges.

When a man enters into a contract and benefits by that agreement at the expense of the second party and then fails to perform his share he is nothing more than a "grafter" of the worst possible variety. This is especially true of those who make no effort to pay.

It is a known fact that men now in College boast that they have received their college paper and have not been obliged to pay for it. Then there is another class of men who claim that their paper is removed or two mornings each week, and still another variety that by clever means, excuses or otherwise, manage to evade the obligations.

All we can say of these men is that they are not worthy of the name "Pennsylvanians." This is surely a business proposition, and the men who fail to meet their obligations to it, if sufficient in number, will eventually cause its failure. Men who stand by and allow their only college daily to close down have not acquired that Pennsylvania spirit of which we are all proud.

*We need the money, so let this be our last plea for subscriptions.

Clippings from Exchanges.

For the first time since 1892 a Columbia Freshman crew defeated a Yale Freshman eight on Lake Whitney last Saturday.

Biddle Cup Race This Afternoon.

The entries for the race are E. Hopkins, '18 L., the present holder of the cup; Hardy, Anthony, Bond, King and Sylvester.

On Friday, in conjunction with the final bi-monthly swimming events, the Philadelphia schoolboys will be given an opportunity to display their aquatic prowess. The races open to the schoolboys will be a four-man relay race, each contestant swimming two hundred feet, for which there are seven entries, a hundred yards race, and one hundred feet race. There will be a fancy diving contest.
