COMMUNICATION

The Pennsylvania University bulletin invites all members of the University to contribute to this column, but is not responsible for the sentiments expressed.

Pennsylvania's Cheerleading Sections.  For the Pennsylvania University.

Dear Sirs:—We are the Pennsylvania cheering sections crammed into one insignificant corner, two hundred of the sections being behind the goal posts.

The quarters are not what we expected, but we are there in lawfully entitled to be there. We have to stand and we have to keep moving, as an added revelation. The picture of the student body occupies the eyes of the Athletic Committee.

During the Indian game at least six hundred students stood behind the front of the cheer- ing sections throughout the contest. There was not one room vacant, even in the east end, for the reason that in case they had been inadvertently called on to help on the field by their classes and yet, even one of them were holders of Athletic Association books and entitled to a seat.

During the Lafayette game about fifty students were able to obtain their entitled seats quietly moved into the front cheering sections immediately in front of the cheering sections. These seats were deserted and therefore the students in occupying them could not have disputed anyone. In spite of this the football management, the usher and several dozen policemen arrived simultaneously and drove us with the eye of a bull. Then we found the band under our Athletic Association, stationed and deemed us a seat. In reply he said, 'you have not yet entered and are hereby ejected from the front section but not in those directly below the cheering section in the Pennsylvania stand. Such red tape and narrow-minded restrictions can only do harm to the University.

It is high time for the undergraduates over fifty to take this matter into their own hands and strike while the iron is hot and the football season is still on. Pennsylvanians in the only college in which the athletic authorities have holden the undergraduates into taking what they wish to give them in reference to football seats. Yale, Harvard, Cornell and the smaller colleges all have cheering sections in the midst of their stands and those our Alma Mater has given in vain.

Last Day for Fall Ball Ushers.

Today is the last day for signing the roll in the Athletic Association office for the Cornell and Army and Navy games. The men who are selected for the Cornell game will also serve for the Army and Navy game.

New Song, "Penn Rally." There has recently been published a new song, "Penn Rally," by "T. C. & Co." and the words by W. N. Harker.

VARSITY LEAVES FOR COUNTRY.

TEAM DEPARTED FROM CITY SUDDENLY—ENTIRE SQUAD TAKEN.

Whitemarsh Valley Country Club Is Selected for Squad in Excellent Condition.

The University football team—playboys and Traher, Morrise—left the city yesterday and went to the Whitemarsh Country Club, where they will make their headquarters until Thursday. The trip was not only a surprise to the University undergraduates and members of the team, for no one was aware of the plans until yesterday when Traher hurriedly ordered the men to prepare for a visit to the country.

Cooment Hill was decided as the best place for the team to go, as the chances were unable to have the men earned fresh class and it would be impossible for the players to attend their lectures with the headquarters at the Whitemarsh Window Junction, where they have generally spent the last few days before the Cornell game. The Whitemarsh Club is located so that there will be plenty of opportunity for the men to put in some hard training during the last days before the final struggle.

Each morning the team will take into town their classes, take lunch at the Training House, return home and once to Chestnut Hill, where the quarters will be opened under the direction of the coaches. The idea is to keep the men away from the city as much as possible.

Those who took the trip were Head Coach Metzag, Dr. Carl Williams, Coach Mitchell, George H. Brooks, Dr. Hudf, Traher Murphy, Captain Holbrook, Feltner, Miller, White, Metze, Menos, Scarlett, Braddock, Gas, Crocko, Drake, Stevens, Marks, Dresser, Lambert, Felson, Pearson, Ervin, Hammers, Young, Brown, Per, Manager Keeler, and trainer, who took the trip were Head Coach Metzag, Dr. Carl Williams, Coach Mitchell, George H. Brooks, Dr. Hudf, Traher Murphy, Captain Holbrook, Feltner, Miller, White, Metze, Menos, Scarlett, Braddock, Gas, Crocko, Drake, Stevens, Marks, Dresser, Lambert, Felson, Pearson, Ervin, Hammers, Young, Brown, Per, Manager Keeler, and trainer.

Army and Navy Tickets.

Seats for the Army and Navy game were given out yesterday in exchange for Coupon No. 34 of the Athletic Association book, and at the same time the remaining seats for the Cornell game were put on sale at the Franklin Field ticket office. There was such a heavy demand for Cornell tickets that only two seats were allowed to each purchaser. This sale proceeded rapidly, and before noon the supply was exhausted.

Mask and Wig Trials.

The third trials for the Mask and Wig preliminary show were held at the Mask and Wig Club on Sunday night. The twenty men still being considered were given various parts in a number of selections of past years to read. At the conclusion of the trials Stage Director Morgan announced that all the parts would be retained for the play, to be performed in two casts of eight, making a total of sixteen nights. Next week parts will be assigned.

Cups for Four Crew.

Members of the junior crew may obtain their cups at the Athletic Association office.

Freshman Debate Committee.

Meeting of the freshman debate committee, at 11.15, in Room 55, College Hall.

CALENDAR OF TODAY'S EVENTS

Junior Week Celebration.

The Junior Week cubing began last night with the lilac party at the Adelphi Theatre. It will be fol-owed on Wednesday evening by the Combined Musical Clubs of Pennsylvania concert at the Bealevue-Stratford, on Thursday afternoon by the Pennsylvania Student football game, on Friday evening by the Junior Ball in Wheaton Hall, and on Saturday afternoon by the Army and Navy football game. From all indications this year's Junior Week will surpass all that have preceded it. Junior Week will be concluded on Saturday night by an entertainment given to the foo-ball team by the Mask and Wig Club at its club house, 341 Quincy street.

Wrestling Tournament.

The wrestling tournament was comceed and crowned yesterday in the Gymnasium, but owing to the large number of entries, the third of the preliminary bouts were decided. The rest of these will be held Tuesday in the gymnasium and the final bouts will take place on Monday and Tuesday of next week.

Pennsylvania Night at Adelphi.

Junior Week opened its celebration last night with a theatre party at the Adelphi, where "The Minstrel World" is playing. The house was crowded with students, who enjoyed the play very much. No singing or cheering was indulged in, but each act was very much applauded.

Chemists to Play Football.

The Chemists and Chemical Engineers of the Class of 1911 have organized a football team. They will meet the Chemists and Chemical Engineers of the Class of 1912 this afternoon, at the Franklin Field, probably in a match last night. Daml-Mogy, King, Mogary and McCubbin were the chief of the evening.

Veintinazo Visit Theatre.

The Department of Latin took a sec-dond monthly trip to the German Theatre last night, "The Wild Duck." There were about twenty in the party.

JUNIOR WEEK

Junior Week opened most auspiciously last night by the theatre party given at the Adelphi Theatre. The affair was a decided success and bodes well for the success of the remaining entertainments planned for this week by the Junior Class. The program planned by the committee of this year's Junior Class is without doubt one of the best ever arranged at Pennsylvania for this gala week. Coming as it does at the Thanksgiving season, Junior Week contains some of the most notable happenings of the college year. Two of the greatest athletic events of the year—noteable not only at Pennsylvania but which attract the attention of the college world and the country in general—the Cornell-Pennsylvania and the Army and Navy games on Franklin Field, are the star attractions of Junior Week. These two events alone are sufficient to make any week notable. Add to this the theatre party of last night, the joint concert by the Combined Musical Clubs of Cornell and Pennsylvania at the Bellevue-Stratford to-morrow evening, followed by the smoker to the visiting clubs by the Mask and Wig Club, the Junior Tea on Thursday afternoon, the Junior Ball on Friday night and the Football Smoker to the Pennsylvania team by the Mask and Wieg Club on Saturday night, and you have certainly a red letter week.

The high character and quality of the entertainments offered in this year's Junior Week sets a high standard for future Junior Classes to measure up to. The events are certainly worth the best efforts of each and every member of the Junior Class in making them a great success.

TODAY'S COMMUNICATION.

A communication appears on the first page of this morning's Pennsylvania which we hesitate to seriously comment on in the absence of facts in regard to the matter from the Athletic Association. The Pennsylvania knows that the Athletic Association is burdened with a heavy debt and that it is necessary to raise every cent possible in order to carry that debt. This is probably not realized by the majority of the undergraduates. It is further not realized by the undergraduates that only about two thousand of the four thousand five hundred students at the University own Athletic Association books and are members of the Association. This cuts down the undergraduate support of the Association more than one-half.

The majority of the seats in the centre sections of the field are sold for the season each year. The Association claims that it would be impossible to sell these seats for the entire season each year if they were not in the centre of the field. There seems to be, however, a great deal of dissatisfaction among the undergraduates in regard to the matter, as this communication shows, and we feel it would be wise for the Association to clearly set the matter before them in a statement in regard to the matter.

The Pennsylvania stands ever ready to voice undergraduate sentiment when it feels that sentiment is just and is backed by a knowledge of the true facts of the case.

We feel we would not have the magnificent equipment at Franklin Field if it were not for the loyal alumni of the University, but we feel also that Franklin Field exists for the good of the undergraduates. It is they who work for the teams, support them and compose them, and it is these same people who draw the people to Franklin Field. The Pennsylvania would certainly like to see the undergraduates occupy the centre sections of the south stand next year if the matter is feasible at all, and we would respectfully submit the matter to the Association for its careful and just consideration.

WALNUT—Paid in Full.

Those who attended the opening performance of "Paid in Full" at the Wall Street Theatre, this city, last Monday night, or who may have seen this famous play in its long New York run, which lasted from early last season until last Saturday night, will bear out the universal verdict that it is by all odds the greatest drama now on the stage, one of the most interesting and appealing entertainments offered in the theatre in many a long year. The author of "Paid in Full," Eugene Wylie, has taken a story from America home life of to-day and told it with such force and realism that it grips interest from first to last. The scenes are located in New York City. The persons who are presented are such as we meet in everyday life, and the dramatist has related a narrative that might be the story of the persons living next door to us. Perhaps the strongest element of appeal in "Paid in Full" is its naturalness. It deals with persons and conditions with whom all of us are more or less familiar. It is a vivid picture of actual life with real human figures in the foreground. "Paid in Full" abounds in human interest, and with the grave and deep notes, the strong passages, there is a plentiful admixture of humor and comedy. Greed for wealth, perhaps the greatest of modern evils, is the groundwork for the structure. Joe Brooks, a young clerk, steals because he cannot get his salary advanced beyond eighteen dollars. He defies his sweet and womanly wife with the story of his salary has been advanced. For a brief period he is happy in the release from privation and household drudgery which her small income had compelled, hardships that were the greater because she had been raised in luxury. When discovery comes Joe tries to force his wife to sacrifice herself to the man whom he has robbed, so that he may escape prison. The play is splendidly acted, by a cast made up of Gay Batey, Polk, Julia Dean, William Riley Hatch, G. Johnson, Harry Rusell, Lella Smith and John Arthur. "Paid in Full" will be at the Walnut Street Theatre four weeks in all.
