FOOTBALL MEN ENTERTAINED

Mask and Wig Club Gives Play and Smoker to Visitors

Bally More Announces Intention of Leaving Coaching Staff—The Indian Game Will Be Earlier Next Year.

The football team was greatly entertained by the Mask and Wig Club at their club house Saturday night. The coaches, undergraduates and Scrubs were also present, and the entire company gathered together for the evening. A playlet, "Oh, Phifophie: effects marked by the glorious C T Dowling, acted as a curtain raiser for the smoker to follow.

Dr. William More, Motzgar, Ziba and Zosia, Captain Holleben, and several of the other players who made the great season just passed "Billy" More, who has inspired much of the fighting spirit in the team, said that this is the last year that he will have anything to do with the team except in spirit. He gave assurance that the Indian game will be charged to his last date next year, and said that Pennsylvanians will be most all honored for all others for a real football championship.

Reception pictures of several of the players and coaches and thrilling news from the Ivy fields were shown. "Dar! Dar!" of last years eleven, and "Tommy" Donald, of the Mask and Wig, sang some clever songs, much to the delight of the audience.

Commander Davey, of the Navy, a great of honor, spoke on "Pennsylvania hospitality," expressing himself well pleased with the reception given to the visitors.

A large number of the Mask and Wig men attended.

Successful Junior Week. The entertainment on Saturday night, consisting of a play and smoker given by the Mask and Wig Club was a great success. The play and coaches by the Mask and Wig Club brought a very successful and on- forenoon, and the throngs of fans who flocked to the school in the daytime, and the members of the club to the school in the evening, was a splendid sight. The play, "Oh, Phifophie," was a great success. The play and smoker were well attended.

The following are the results of the entertainment on Saturday night:

1. The play and smoker were well attended.
2. The play was a great success.
3. The reception pictures were well received.
4. Commander Davey's speech was well received.

ROARING PRINCETON. Princeton men have taken so strongly to rowing that one set of rowers have been formed and one set of rowers have been formed. The crews have taken up the game with great enthusiasm, and the town is well pleased with the many who have taken part in the rowing.

I color of strength. It is not yellow nor of the colors of Pennsylvania—the American team.

The curse of athletics is the professional athlete, who is not a team of stars, but your three Michigan and Cornell games have above the mass of their rivals, and while at many other positions Miller's wonderful work in the American Selections. Of the All-American teams so far selected the "Boston Transfer" and the Philadelphia "Press" unite in giving Brotherhood and Bureaucracy of Pennsylvania, places on the eleven. Drumholt, Guston, Miller and Manley were picked by "The Press" for places on the second eleven of the All-American. The selection of "The Press," based it is on the opinions of many experts, is particularly noteworthy at this time. It is a remarkable fact, speaking well for the team as a whole, that although it is granted the "Varsity" is not a team of stars, yet our three All-American selections stand by one season of opinion head and shoulders above the mass of their rivals, and have earned their honors unanimously, while at many other positions the selection is admirably a matter of hair splitting.

Miller's wonderful work in the Michigan and Cornell games have raised him in one season from a submarines quintet back to a close candidate for that position on the All-American team.

The flower of life is red. Red is one of the colors of Pennsylvania—the color of strength. It is not yellow nor dark brown nor green. These are off color. Whatever is off color of conventional, in good fellowship, in athletics, in journalism, in life anywhere should not be for us. It is not the right shade. It does not bear the Pennsylvania mark.

You must learn to respect yourself. You must work on your own work. The tradition of Pennsylvania is that it drops off the edge of the campus all who do not do their work, for these men do Pennsylvania more harm than good.

The Freshmen should learn that showing for the team is only one of the requisites of college spirit. College spirit is only the cropping out of college loyalty. College loyalty carries with it hard study and the carrying of examinations. It is said that the world makes the go round, but it is loyalty that holds it together. Likewise it is the loyalty of our alumni that has enabled Pennsylvania to make such great strides in the last few years, and it is the duty of the undergraduate to see that the scholarship is maintained at its present high standard.

CLASS FOOTBALL.

With the close of the escapapade football season on Franklin Field comes the call for conditions for the various college teams. These teams have not received the support of the undergraduates which they should have in the past, but we hope more interest will be taken in the intercollegiate games this fall. To make these contests successful every man who has any ability or wants should report to the call and help uphold the honor of his class.

Any man who has not made his letter is eligible.

OPENING OF SECOND QUARTER.

With the close of the Thanksgiving holidays comes the timely write up by The Pennsylvania advising theEmerald Freshmen to get to work. The athletic and social functions that have occupied your minds for the last few weeks are about past and with the opening of the second quarter it becomes imperative that more time be spent on your substantial work.

Pennsylvania was founded by a body of men who believed in education and in the training of men for success in life.

Education means work. What comes easy is not education. It is not worth taking. While you are here your work is the only real thing. All things else, all student activities are but foils to get you enough in themselves but never to be sought as ends. They come as the finishing touches after first work has been accomplished. We hear much of what a student does or may do for his university. No student can do anything more important than to do his college work well and obtain a good foundation for a successful life. We believe in student athletics and work hard to make the men who have the ability to go out so long as athletes are students. The curse of athletics is the professional athlete, who is not a student but bears the badge.

The flower of life is red. Red is one of the colors of Pennsylvania—the color of strength. It is not yellow nor dark brown nor green. These are off color. Whatever is off color of convention, in good fellowship, in athletics, in journalism, in life anywhere should not be for us. It is not the right shade. It does not bear the Pennsylvania mark.
