Come better. We have not closed up the doors of our vaults and hoarded our gold. We are not misers who have prostituted our gifts and energy for selfish and selfish ends. We have unlocked the doors of our coffers and are pouring millions for the good of humanity.

This development of our country is a reflection of a similar development in the lives of such men as Joseph Wharton. From iron worker to philosopher, the steps in his life are a lesson to all humanity, and the world is a better place because he worked and lived in it.

Address by Famous Scholar.

Dr. John Richard Makafy, C. V. O., of Trinity College, Dublin, who recently came to this country to deliver a series of lectures, will talk to the students of the University at four o'clock this afternoon in the auditorium of Houston Hall.
