SOPHOMORES TO GIVE DANCE.

Second-Year Men Will Hold Annual Faculty Fete in Weightman Hall Friday Evening, Nine O'clock.

What promises to be one of the most successful dances ever given by a Sophomore class will be held at nine o'clock this Friday evening, February 5th, in Weightman Hall, by the Class of 1911.

The program is quite unique, consisting of a costume dance, to which bears the University seal, the whole being in the colors, and all the dancers, making them very convenient to handle. After the costume dance there will be an electric effect, consisting of a Red and Blue hypnotic, which will flash on and off between the several dances, making them very convenient to handle.

After the program there will be a costume dance with green leaves and blue, while the orchestra will be hidden at the southern extremity by a huge bank of paper.

The refreshments of the evening will be served in the room between the boxes, and the guests are requested to be turned over to the patronesses.

All the guests of the affair will be served in the room between the boxes, and the guests are requested to be turned over to the patronesses.

THE PENNSYLVANIA FAMILY.

All the phrase used in connection with our University, the one that has always appealed most to me is "The Pennsylvania Family." It suggests perfectly the intimacy and equality of the different units that go to make up Pennsylvania. It implies that while our departments have a distinct individuality, there is one common bond, one bond of allegiance; in Pennsylvania. It would be impractical and undesirable for our Law School and our Medical School to be under the same active management, yet we have not found it impossible for them to be, as we were, daughters of the mother of us all. These must of necessity be distinct and separate members of this family, and yet they should be no more remote than is absolutely necessary.

The College should be one united member of the whole, and as far as possible subdivisions in it should be avoided. Our machinery of organization is complicated enough without the creation of wheels within wheels. In the Schools of Architecture and Engineering the nature of the work forbids these being more closely allied with the central administration of the College than they are at present. But there is no sound reason why the course in Arts and the course in Wharton School exist in a state of separation that is almost beyond the bounds of friendship. We are sharers of the popular uncertainty as to what the official relation between these two subdivisions of the College is. We do, however, know that for all general purposes they are very far apart and are growing more so every day. We have heard in them different regulations regarding exams, different systems of quizzes and exams of the first and second years. These are only a few of the things that are tending to make the Wharton School a separate department. The Dean of the College should be the Dean of the whole College, but somehow in matters touching the Wharton School the last word is always said in Logan Hall.

Something is wrong with THE PENNSYLVANIA FAMILY when these two, that ought to be a single member of it, are not only distinctly separate in their government and regulations, but are entirely out of sympathy with each other in their work. What is it that has caused this state of affairs? Why is it that there is not a central authority over both these departments? What can be done to put them in a happier relation with one another? We ask for our answers from any member of The Pennsylvania Family, alumnus, undergraduate or professor.

Medical News.

There will be a meeting of the House of Delegates of the Undergraduate Medical Association at 3.45 P. M. today in Room 2, Houston Hall. The Vice-President of the Medical Society has been elected. A prompt and full attendance is requested, E. L. Bofor, Secretary.

At a meeting of the Constitution Committee of the House of Delegates of the Undergraduate Medical Association, held last week, the constitution of the Association was revised.

An important change was made in that the third-year men are to be allowed to read papers, as well as to exhibit specimens of any research work they may have done, at the general meeting coming at the end of each year.

Dr. Douglas Arrell Robertson died recently in his ninetieth year of age. He was born in Edinburgh, in 1857, and was the son of a well-known Scottish surgeon. He was a graduate of the University of Edinburgh and was later lecturer there on Ophthalmology. He was at one time President of the Royal College of Surgeons, Edinburgh. Of late years he had resided, on account of his health, in the island of Jersey. His name is known to every practitioner of medicine through the Arrell-Robertson pupil, which he was the first to describe, or at least to state that he was the first to recognize the significance in tabes dorsalis—"Medical Record."

From February 13 to March 15, 1909, there will be held in Philadelphia, at 1934-521 Walnut street, a remarkable tuberculous exhibit which was shown in Washington last summer. The exhibit will be open for the inspection of the Department of Public Health and Charities and many co-operative associations will be in charge of a committee of eminent lecturers and demonstrators. Among them will be Dr. W. W. Keen in Chairman and Dr. J. L. McCarty, Secretary.

The committee is particularly desirous that the students of the University of Pennsylvania shall have an opportunity of viewing the exhibit and of hearing some of the addressers on the subject. A special evening will be devoted to the University students on Thursday, March 1, at eight o'clock.

Appraisers of the income interest earned by the general public, as well as by the medical profession, in the tuberculosis exhibit at present stationed in this city, the following article, appearing in "The Mosch," is interesting.

"The education of the public is and will be a paramount factor in stamping out consumption. According to Professor Fisher, of Yale, tuberculosis killed 10,000 men and women in the United States alone. In order to obtain definite results, and tuberculosis education must be introduced in all schools and teaching institutions; and the conviction that tuberculosis is a contagious disease and curable when taken in the early stages must be propagated among the people by every possible means. Children especially must be reached, for they are more receptive than grown people. As some one has said, "The time to teach a man right habits is when he is a boy."
