CARDS FOR VERDI'S OPERA "AIDA"

Today from 12:30 to 2 o'clock and from 4 to 6 o'clock reduction cards will be distributed at The Pennsylvania College for Women's Student Night at the opera. "Aida," the story of a captive princess, set in the rich harmonies of the Orient, will be the offering; it marks Verdi's entrance upon his modern period, so that with the melodious armonies that only a Verdi could write, the music lover finds also the interpretive power that marks the modern school.

The demand for seats is expected to be great, so students desiring cards should report promptly to-day.

Those in authority in this country are evidently feeling the desirability of having among its law-making bodies men whose advice in scientific matters will be heard, so as to avoid the absurd blunders which many legislatures have made in the past. According to the "California State Journal of Medicine," the Governor of California has addressed a letter to the council of the society of that State, asking that physicians place themselves in line for election to the two branches of the Legislature, in order that they may advise with him on matters pertaining to medical legislation. Again, the "West Virginia Medical Journal" for June has the following: "For the first time in its history the West Virginia Medical Association was officially recognized as an important factor in the public affairs of the State. A committee was appointed at the recent extra session of the Legislature for that purpose appeared before it to confer on the matter of a State insurance corporation and to ask that a committee be appointed from its membership to advise and assist the Legislature Committee in the formulation of plans for such an establishment. This is the most auspicious beginning of what, we trust, will be a continued and, although too long delayed, recognition of our association by matters of public and State concern."—"The Monthly.'

Regatta Course Discussion.

Some discussion has lately been aroused by a proposed to shorten the length of the course of the Poughkeepsie Regatta from four to three miles. Most of the opponents are either indifferent about the matter or think the four-mile course the better. Coach Ten Eyck says crew men envious other college athletes by about ten years. Coach Rice, of Columbia, thinks a three-mile course harder on the men, because they would have to row at a heart-breaking speed all the way. Coach Ward, of Pennsylvania, says that in all his thirty years of coaching he has never seen a case of injury that could be traced to rowing.
