A WARNING.
The Opera Committee has discovered that two reduction cards for last Saturday night's opera were given by the student who received them to friends who have no connection whatever with the University. We have the name of this student and have re- fused to extend the privilege to him further. We have also threatened to publish his name, and refrain from doing so only for the reason we feel the student might not have understood fully the conditions, and we do not want to do him a personal injustice.

We will, however, in the future publish the names of any person or persons who abuse this privilege by selling or giving away these reduction cards to friends.

BUY LINCOLN'S PORTRAIT.
The centenary of the birth of Abra- ham Lincoln should be marked by the students of the University of Penn- sylvania in some appropriate and yet substantial way. THE PENNSYLVANIAN inaugurates a plan in this morning's issue whereby this may be done.

President Roosevelt in his speech yesterday at the birthplace of Lincoln said: "We have met here to celebrate yesterday at the birthplace of Abraham Lincoln. The effect of Darwin's work has been, however, to remodel the tho- retical conceptions of the origin and destiny of man which were current in former times. In this respect it has wrought a revolution as great as that which Copernicus inaugurated and Newton completed, and of very much the same kind. Again has man been rudely unseated from his imaginary throne in the centre of the universe, but only that he may learn to see in the universe and in human life a richer and deeper meaning than he had before suspected. The theory was objected to by the theologians in that it substituted the action of natural causes for the immediate action of the Deity. Men are realizing now how- ever, that scientific explanations of natural phenomena are not dangerous to either theology or religion, but on the contrary, that we who un- dertake to assist the Deity in the way he has to work, God works through the world of phe- nomena, may well be called the best of religious teachers.

that he believed man to be the descendant of the ape, and, secondly, that he was the first to propose a theory of evolution. Such theories were vaeantly formulated by the Greek phil-oposophers, and were advanced at dif-frent times in the history of science. They culminated in Darwin's work and that of Alfred Russell Wallace, who concurrently and independently arrived at conclusions very similar to those of Darwin.

In the evening at Biologica]d Hall addresses were made by Provost Charles H. Harrison, Dr. Henry Leffman, Dr. Louis Krantz, Dr. J. W. Hamberger, of whom the latter two repeated their addresses of the afternoon.

Provost Harrison gave a brief sketch of Darwin's life, and said in part: "This day ought to bring to you the fond memory of two of the world's greatest emancipators—Charles Darwin, the emancipator of thought, and Abraham Lincoln, the emancipator of men.
