"AVE PENNSYLVANIA."

With University Day but one week in advance, it becomes necessary to call the undergraduates' attention to the new hymn, "Ave Pennsylvania," which will be sung for the first time in public on Washington's Birthday. Copies of the hymn have been printed and sent to the different fraternities, but so unconnected effort has been made to learn it, Dean Pencinian has decided to have it sung every morning this week in Chapel.

To make the initial rendition of this hymn successful, every man in Collegetown should make an effort to learn not only the words but the music, and it is hoped that every student will avail himself of the opportunity of becoming familiar with it by attending Chapel this week.

BASEBALL.

Pennsylvania's athletic situation has reached a crisis. After examinations, both written and spoken, from "Slate" Murphy, Ellis Ward, alumni and undergraduates promising in the various athletic activities, exactly twenty-two men were reported for baseball practice at the Gymnasium yesterday.

This is disheartening. Baseball is our national sport and only second to football in popularity in the college world. Almost every man at college has played baseball at sometime during his life on a regularly organized team and possesses a fairly good knowledge of the rudiments of the game. Baseball has in the "pure foul" element more than either football, rowing or track athletics, which often degenerate into the hardest kind of a grudge. The schedule for the season is a good one, the trips planned being extensive and numerous. Yet we repeat, only twenty-two men were reported for the team.

This is nothing more or less than an indication that the student body at Pennsylvania takes as a whole a great interest in athletics and that the majority of men go through college without a thought for the athletic teams, but are bound to be the men prominent in the other undergraduate activities. No man knows the meaning of that intangible thing called Pennsylvania spirit until he has worked for Pennsylvania. It seems, that the majority of men go through college without gaining this spirit, which goes through life with them, a valuable asset.

RUDICATION GROUND.

With the return of spring comes the irresistible desire to play. In many students the play spirit is satisfied by a game of "catch." But, this is not the way to get that little recreation they desire before that five o'clock hour! Franklin Field is out of the question. To play ball in the streets which so closely surround our University is against the law. Last year there seemed to be no objection to this form of amusement along Hamilton Walk. No windows were broken and no one was disturbed, yet it has been prohibited this year.

Is there no available spot for the students as a recreation ground? The ground in the big "quad" makes no doubt a very beautiful green. But until the square has been entirely built, it would not be more beneficial if used as a playground and not merely as a medium to enhance the students' appreciation of the aesthetic?

CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATION.

We published about a week ago an editorial in reference to the undergraduates' attitude towards the Y. M. C. A. We invited communication, with the hope that some suggestions would be made whereby the Christian Association might take the place it deserves in the University. However, one communication has been received, and we feel that the subject has not been carefully considered by the students.

At Yale, Princeton and Harvard, and the New England colleges, undergraduates take pride in themselves. A Course in comparing the Y. M. C. A. specially is this true at New Haven, where the leading men in the colleges are the promoters and workers in the Christian Association. Their membership numbers in the thousands while here at our Institution no such figures can be quoted. The work done by our Association is good but not broad. Their field lies in settlement work and group Bible study. Altogether there are almost three hundred and fifty men connected in this work at Pennsylvania, most of them being from the fraternity houses. This seems a very small percentage to represent Pennsylvania in a great work. We still ask, Why is it? Pennsylvania men should realize how woe fully weak our Y. M. C. A. is and that it needs the support of every undergraduate.
