January 20, 1909, when President-Elect Tall will deliver an important address to the students and their friends. Thereafter, the mechanical and electrical engineers will be held at nine o'clock this morning and afternoon and at five o'clock in the evening in the Assembly Hall.

The Central American (onor will be awarded to the member of the senior class who is regarded as the most promising man of the year. The awarding of a "Penn" is a very important matter, and by addressing the students here, it is hoped that the idea of the importance of the "Penn" will spread and impress itself upon the students.

The present International Situation in Central America. Mr. Filsinger, in the capacity of an American diplomat, will discuss the present International Situation in Central America. His engagement is very important, as he has made a careful study of present political relations of that region and the relation of the Central American International League to the United States and Canada, and during his tour he has met the leading statesmen of Central America.

The Pennsylvania Society held its banquet last night at Hancorn's. The students who attended the banquet were very happy to have the opportunity of meeting the members of the society, which was a great success.

The Junior Picture Committee will meet at one o'clock today on the Library steps. The Junior Picture committee will be held at 11.30.

UNIVERSITY DAY TICKETS.

We feel that there has been a great disappointment concerning the sales of tickets for the University Day exercises. While we deplore the fact that our supply of tickets is limited, yet we wish that the students would take a reasonable view of the situation. The Academy of Music sells seats about two thousand persons.
The students have been allotted between four and five hundred tickets.
Giving the Seabury the preference, it will be seen that this limited supply don't reach very far beyond the members of the upper classes and a few of their friends. Then the Penns-ney, the Faculty, the Trustees and other officials of the University must be provided for, all of whom are now unable to meet the demands requested of them because of this same lack of tickets.

We repeat that we wish the students to see the matter in a same way, while any reasonable suggestion will be appreciated.

BASKETBALL.

On Saturday evening the basketball team plays the crucial game of the season with Yale. The outcome of this contest will practically decide the collegiate championship for the present season. The basketball team has made a good record this year and has been practicing hard all week in order to win this deciding game and bring another championship to Pennsylvania.

Everybody knows that there is nothing like the proper kind of support to develop in a team the "do or die" spirit that wins games. A sympathetic and loyal audience in some way communicates to the members of the team a part of its nervous energy. This bond thus established drives a man on to superhuman effort, and he oudoes himself in his play.

This is the kind of support the basketball team needs, deserves and ought to have on Saturday evening.
Such support has time and again rendered Pennsylvania teams invincible against teams which in physique and playing ability were their superiors.
Here is the time that "Pennsylvania spirit" which never knows when it is defeated. Let every undergraduate lead his support to the team toward-next night.

Reduction Cards for "Boheme."

Program for the evening includes this afternoon reduction cards for tomorrow's performance of "Boheme" at the Philadelphia Opera House will be ditributed as usual at the office of The Pennsylvanian. "Boheme" is the most popular of Puccini's operas, which are written in the modern Italian style, and its presentation is always hailed with delight by admirers of the newer school of music. Constantin, Mr.
Hannover's Spanish tenor, who is thought by many critics to excel Caruso in certain roles, will sing the part of "Rodolfo," for the first time here, and the "Mimi" will be Angelina, who scored such a success as "Alida" last week. The vividly "Musetta" will be Zepplin, who has given fame as the mechanical doll in "The Tales of Hoffmann." Though with the same singers who sang "Marcel," "Colline," and "Schmunard" at the previous performances, causes an artistic success that will be worth hearing even by those students who attended the previous Saturday night "Boheme."

Fencers Meet Columbia.

Tonight at 8:30 the fencing team will meet Columbia at the Athletic Club of Philadelphia, 1626 Chestnut drive. A hard contest is expected, as Columbia is very strong this year and though defeated, made a fine showing against the Army last Saturday. But with victory before them, the Navy and Yale to their credit, the Pennsylvania team is hopeful, even though Leymel is ill and will not be able to participate.
The teams are as follows:
Pennsylvania—Webb, Parker, Mc-Clintock. Columbia—Dwyer, Hamlin, Patch. Judges—J. F. Teats. C. R. Felser, P. A. Cantzer: Director of Honor—J. G.
Tevent.
Compensatory tickets to the match may be secured from either Manager; Flader or any member of the team.

Dean Penniman on Western Trip.

Dean Penniman, who is making a short Southern and Western tour, arived in Chicago yesterday. During his visit here he will go to the University of Illinois, addressing the Graduate Club at that place.

Today he visits Cincinnati and will meet numerous Pennsylvania alumni who are in that section, with the view of promoting Pennsylvania interests in the Middle West.

On Monday he will be in Louisville, where he will visit several schools, giving in the evening the Washington's Birthday address at the University of Louisville.

From Louisville Dean Penniman will return directly to Philadelphia and arrive here about Tuesday night.

Philadelphia Society Meeting.

The regular meeting of the Philadelphia Society will be held tonight.
The program for the evening is as folloows: Addresses by A. B. Gilchrist on "The Monastery Stone," and by C. H.
Foust on "The New Philo Hall." The review will be by Cole and the debate on the question, "Resolved, That the Christian exclusions laws are detrimental to the best interests of the country.
Negative: Hughes, Hoyt, White. Affirmative: Young, Abbott, Cassede.

The confusion which exists regarding the significance of the words "infectious" and "contagious" is due in large part to the fact that they have grown into a usage varying somewhat from that which adhered to them originally. For the same reason the definitions found in the dictionaries are unsatisfactory. In fact, both are held the times regarding these words. Good usage is the lexicographer's authority, and in case a certain usage has come to be the usual among leading men, it may be considered as good usage.

The confusion may be cleared by holding fast to this statement: The term "infectious" is applied to all those diseases which are caused by parasites, particularly the microorganisms, i.e., the bacteria, certain fungi and the protozoa. "Infection" is also used synonymously with "infectious disease." The term is not so commonly applied to conditions in which the body is invaded by the larger "macroorganisms," as the internal worms, but it would not be improper to use it in such cases. When the surface of the body is the point of attack for such parasites, as the pediculosis, "infection" is commonly used, but the distinction between "infection" and "infectionation" is arbitrary to a certain extent. The term infections, therefore, refers to the existence of the disease.

To place the word "contagious" in its proper relationship to "infectious" we may say that infectious diseases may be divided into two classes. Those which are contagious and those which are not. A contagious disease is one which is transmitted with greater or less ease from the patient to another person when the two come into direct contact. The word contagious therefore refers to a method of transmission which prevails among some infectious diseases. In earlier times the word "contagious" was used vaguely to refer to the unknown cause of a contagious disease, and the disease itself was also called a contagion; for example, a person was said to be suffering from a contagion. This use of the word does not prevail in modern literature. "Contagious" and "infectious" are used to refer to the act of transmission of an infectious disease by means of contact. It seems unwise, for in relation to the question asked in this illustrations showing that there are all grades of contagiousness, or in statements of the various vehicles of transmission which are utilized by the contagious infections—"Journey's End, M. A."

Law News.

PHI BETA KAPPA ELECTIONS.

Five Seniors and Three Juniors Are Admitted to the Society—Majority are Members of Philo.

At a meeting of the Faculty members of the Phi Beta Kappa Society yesterday afternoon the following undergraduates were elected to membership from the Senior and Junior Classes of the Arts and Science course: W. F. Coles, '09; F. D. Dietz, '09; C. H. Hoover, '09; C. H. Scott, Jr., '09; U. F. Truax, '09; J. A. Dietz, '98; M. Met. Lay, '98; J. F. Niimbaun, '98.

W. F. Coles entered from Northeast Manual Training School and has been actively identified with the literary work in the College.

F. D. Dietz is a Philadelphia Central High School alumnus, and is now Treasurer of Philo.

C. H. Hoover is another Central High man, who has taken many honors in his college course. He is Moderator of Philo, a member of the Philomathic debating team and also a promising swimmer, having won the Starter trophy in the meet. C. H. Scott, Jr., is a graduate of the De Lancey School. In addition to many scholastic honors he has been actively identified with rowing, a member of the Phi Upsilon and Subus Senior Societies.

P. D. Tyson came from the Philadelphia Central High School and has made an enviable scholastic record, taking many prizes in English and the Romance Languages. He is very active in Philomathic circles and has been a member of several debating teams.

E. A. Doty is the Fourth Central High School man on the list and a member of the Junior Class. He is also a Philomath.

D. Met. Lay prepared for college in France, and has been awarded several high honors in French since his matriculation.

H. J. P. Nimsbaum comes from the Atlantic City High School, and has always been one of the scholastic lights of the Junior Class.

Zoological Society Meeting.

The regular weekly meeting of the Zoological Society will be held in Salo Hall this evening at eight o'clock. The committee will report on the play, and everybody is urged to be present. The program for the evening will be as follows: Address by J. B. Hart, Jr., on "Darwinism," reading of selections from Washington's Farewell Address, by T. C. Carey, and a debate on the question: "Alcohol does not present tendencies to the ultimate disappearance of organized religion among civilized people." The affirmative will be upheld by Outlaw, Turtle and James, and the negative by Hess, Murphy and Pottenger.

Proofs of the picture taken last Saturday can also be seen in-the society's rooms.

Botanical Society Meeting.

The Botanical Society of Pennsylvania will hold its winter meeting tonight in Biological Hall at eight o'clock, for which the following interesting program has been arranged: "Observations on the Plants of Delaware and Southern Chester County," illustrated by specimens, F. W. Penfield; "Botanical and Other Observations in the Island of Braghla during January," with eastern illustrations, by G. Nakahara; miscellaneous observations and exhibits.

Sophomore Banquet March 12th.

The Sophomore Class banquet will be held at the Hotel Majestic on Friday evening, March 12th. The charge per plate will be three dollars. At the meeting of the committee yesterday various sub-committees were appointed, which will begin work immediately.
