The Missionary Conference of the Colleges and Schools of Philadelphia and vicinity was held last week at the University of Pennsylvania. The meeting was called to order by President-Elect William H. Taft, the members of the Faculty and the candidates for honor-degrees, and the Grads and Glee Club men met at the University Club today for a noon luncheon. There will be a meeting of the Philadelphia Orchestra Committee at the Pennsylvanian office to-day at five o'clock. The following men will represent the University at that meeting: Mr. Charles F. Wilson, Mr. Charles E. Sherrill, Miss George Wistar Pepper, Mr. James H. M. Cameron, Mr. Samuel H. Unruh, Mr. V. F. Grabill, Mr. Charles D. Root, Mr. John Lamb Cadwallader, Mr. Charles W. Kellam, Mr. Hiram M. Glynn, Mr. Samuel B. Black, Mrs. James H. W. Cameron, and Mr. Frank T. Hackman. The guests of the University will be entertained at luncheon by the Trustees, and from four to six o'clock the faculties of the University will give a tea in the University Museum, Thirty-third and Spruce streets. Mr. Taft will not be present at the tea, but will receive a toast at the annual dinner of the College alumni, to be given in Weightman Hall, of the Gymnasium, at eight o'clock. While in the city President-Elect Taft has led a most strenuous life. He arrived in Philadelphia 7 A. M., Sunday morning and drove to the home of Dr. G. W. Mitchell, whose guest he is while in the city. On Sunday afternoon he visited his daughter, Miss Helen Taft, and with Mrs. Taft was a guest at dinner given by Dr. Mitchell. Today at 10:30 he will be entertained to the Academy by the First City Troop, after which he will be the guest of honor at a dinner given by them at the Armour, Twenty-third street near Chestnut, while in the evening he will attend the opening concert of the University Settlement. The first half ended 15 to 6, Yale having a comfortably easy victory. Pennsylvania started the second half with a goal by Keinath and one by McNichol, which took all the spirit from Yale's play. Pennsylvania maintained a decisive lead throughout the game, which ended 35 to 15. McCracken was the victim of a foul line out of twelve trials, when Cusack accidentally ran into him, knocking Pennsylvania's veteran guard to the floor. He recovered shortly after and will suffer no ill effects, nor will he be kept from the final game to-morrow evening. Yale and Wilson stood for Yale, while Pennsylvania's entire team played well. The line up was: Yale—Cusack and Drew; forwards; Van Vleck, centre; Ennis (Lovy) and Wilson, guards. Pennsylvania—Kennedy and Nelson, forwards; Orschell (Braddock), centre; Kiefholer and Mc- Cracken (Miller), guards. Pennsylvania Meeting. There will be a special meeting of the Pennsylvania board at 1:15 to-morrow evening.

Mr. Speer Leads Services.
Mr. Robert E. Speer, Secretary of the Presbyterian Board of Foreign Missions, spoke at the University Service in Houston Hall on Sunday morning. Mr. Speer is a graduate of Princeton and is one of the most popular student speakers in the country today. His topic was, "Every Man’s Life a Plan of God." Provost Harrison introduced Mr. Speer in part: "The question asked by Saul when he suddenly became converted on the road to Damascus, "Lord, what wilt thou have me do?" has as important an application today as it did at the time when it was asked. It is the fundamental question of our life. The question, 'What shall it profit a man if he gains the whole world and lose his own soul?' may be worded, "What shall it profit a man if he gain the whole world and miss his own life work?"

"There is a work assigned by God for each one to do, and until we have found out what this work is, our life has no determining principle. Many a man, if he asked the Lord what he would have him do, would be wrenched away from his path. The pathway of his own inclination would be defeated. Life has no always our will. David Livingston desired to go to China to carry on his missionary work, but the Lord turned him to go and sent him to Africa."

"There is one supreme purpose for each man. The ways for him to find out whether his way is the will of God are many. First, to accomplish this supreme purpose one must do his work at each moment. He must not delay it. Secondly, one must consider all the possibilities of life. He must not without due consideration cast aside the values which he thinks his life has no need. Man must carefully deliberate all the possibilities of life spread out before him and in a discriminating manner make his selection. Third, one must take counsel from high-minded and discriminating men. Fourth, a man must also seek the counsel of God—a God who has a will for him, and a desire for the manner of that life. Fifth, the details of the future life need not be anticipated. The great principles of life are those to be settled, as they will not settle themselves. These details can be settled as they occur. Sixth, one must consider and reflect over the principles of the Gospel of our Lord Jesus Christ. Man should go out into the solitude and scrutinize his own principles of life in the light of these laws. No man has a right to outline a career for himself if he transgresses the great ethical principles of God’s principles."

"These are the ways to find out God’s will for our life. Some may say that it is a venture into the dark. Even if it is, a death is a blessing into the dark. The greatest achievements of man are the result of such a venture."

"There are, however, two guiding principles for this venture: First, make choice always in favor of the personal duty, and, second, act honestly by the indications of God’s will within. We have no true sense of God if we do not accept His calling."

Notice, University Students.
The Evening Home and Library Association, members. Twenty-second and Chestnut streets, has comfortable dormitory accommodations for four resident male workers. These are given to the residents in return for work in the Home on two evenings of each week.
The Home is a boys’ club, largely given over to entertainment and exercise, but with a certain amount of class instruction.

Airy student of the University desiring a comfortable room in exchange for two evenings of service is requested to apply at once to George E. Vilsanho, Secretary of Publicity, third floor of Hasston Hall.
