A Strictly First-Class Shop.

We operate a thoroughly sanitary system that precludes all possibility of infection. Clean linen, sterilized instruments and individual shaving mugs for every patron at The Pennsylvania. The willow of John Hay will equip the map room of the John Hay Memorial Library at Brown University. The cornerstone of the library will be laid next month.

On account of the general lack of infection, interest shown by the students at the time of the banquet, leaving college for good and all seems a thing far off to them. They do not yet appreciate that in a few months this will be changed, old associations lost, and instead of preparing for life, they will be living it. There is nothing to mar the happiness of the occasion.

It is not necessary for us to urge every Senior to buy a ticket. Come along and help to make this affair one long to be remembered. The Committee, we are told, has made a special effort to keep the price down this year, as the small attendance at the banquet of last year's graduating class was thought to be due to the high price of the subscription. This is such a common complaint and there is no doubt in our mind that every man should find it possible to attend the only Senior banquet of his lifetime.
