For the final week of the management we have indeed presented operas that are considered to be the finest of their class. "Scaramouche" and "Trovatore" will be given this evening, "Fidelio" and "Trovatore" will mark the final production of the season in the even-

All of Domenico's works "Luetsi" is considered to stand out prominently for his flow of melody combined with a musical-dramatic art. Following on the death of Bellini, the romantic comi- composer became recognized throughout Italy as the foremost musician of the day, and in his light but melodic works there is something which has pleased the全世界 of operas that are consid- dered the deserved position granted him. "Don Pasquale" will take the first of his operas in this city the past winter, but next season there is every reason to believe that Mr. Ham- merstein will renew "La Fille du regi- me," because of his recognition of the Chaucumous.

"Luetsi," based on Walter Scott's novel of that name, is consid- ered one of the most successful works, and in it Milles is ever offered an opportunity to reconstitute his operas to a whole body of work. The color chart of which he is supreme master, he will present a whole host of vining of the famous mad scene to be given the public.

Toscan, a stranger almost to Satur- day night's subscribers, will sing the music of Edgars, a role in which he is well-adapted to swell, while Poe will be a surprise in the part of Ashton. It is unnecessary to say much in regard to this admirable singer, for all are well acquainted with his many accomplishments, and the interpretations of various parts. Others in the cast will be J. E. S. and M. S. S., Sampsar, Montaiss and Moffatt, Sturton, whose work this evening is directed somehow to the direction of Campom, will again conduct.

THE COLLEGE MAN.

Do college men as a rule use the time allotted them each day to the best advantage? Do many of us at the end of each year that hundreds of precious hours have slipped away from us which could never be accounted for, and which have been wasted in playing cards? These questions present themselves to us and demand consideration.

I believe that every college man is fired with the ambition sooner or later to make a success out of his life. He may have this ambition when he enters college or he may not, but he is sure to catch the spirit before he finishes his undergraduate days. To succeed in life and to rise above the masses we believe to be two of the worthiest ambitions of man. To accomplish these, man must hold the respect of his fellow-men, and to command the respect of his fellow-man he must lead a clean and useful life.

There is no doubt but that the spirit engendered by our colleges and universities inspires with ambition the thiest ambitions of man. To accomplish these, man must hold the respect of his fellow-men, and to command the respect of his fellow-man he must lead a clean and useful life.

COMMUNICATION.

Editor of The Pennsylvanian.

Dear Sir,—You published Tuesday last a communication from Dr. Gitterer regarding the telephone service of our Dormitories, and a very newy which gives lots of hope for the improvement of the telephone system.

Coming down to actual facts, the Provost has merely announced to the student body what they unfortunately already know. "The system last year was worse than none at all," says the writer. We know it. There is no one of us who does not. The thing to do is to remedy it. We do not care whether the telephone Committee of the Board of Representatives and the members of the Partial Committee, together with the United and Beneficial Association of Dormitory Guards, have been working together on the problem for some time. What we want to see are telephones—telephones in every Dormitory.

The difficult problem which has been so perplexing to the brains of these Solomonics can be boiled down to little essence. If two telephones are insufficient for the needs of about one thousand students, shall the number of phones be increased or diminished? Now the man with his ordinary account of brain matter, the man with a slightly developed mind, would immediately say, increase the number, but the philosopher reasons differently. He says: If with two telephones the service was worse than with none at all, the only way to improve the service to be none.

Philosophers are undoubtedly deep thinkers, but the installing of the telephone would come under the purview of the legislature. It seems to me that representatives of the telephone company, who have probably had more experience than members of the aforesaid committees in the solution of such problems, might solve the perplexing riddle.

Last night in Medical Hall Dr. John B. Roberts addressed the medical men on "The Physician's Part in the War Against the Social Evil." Dean Frazier presided and introduced the speaker to the large audience as "a man who stands for what is best in surgery and a man who has done his part in politics and philanthropy." Dr. Roberts struck a happy point in making his talk an intimate one and in his willingness to answer the questions asked of him after the lecture. He compared the black plague of the white plague, and presented an astounding array of figures as to its seriousness. He pointed out the duties of the physician in a clear and forcible manner, and seemed to accomplish the result he sought, that of making his hearers think and carry away food for thought.
