Night Monday afternoon.

Never in the history of Mask and Wig have so many straight funny characters been produced, and more long above the gaff in the spirit of the play. The audience were inspired to vociferous applause, and three-six on the finish, while the Yale crew had an unanswerable reason for a game.

Anally to thirty-six on the finish, while their opponents were out of the game,

The Walbrook Club won the meet on Monday night, day,

VACATION OVER

The Easter vacation is over and to-day the wheels of work for the entire University move in unison again. During the interlude, although the Chapel bell has not been heard and the campus has not been alive with students hurrying to and fro, nevertheless the University has not been inactive by any means. Indeed Pennsylvania has been very much alive, and much has been accomplished. The Varsity eight won a glorious victory over Yale; the baseball team has been doing good work, although its victories have been tempered by a number of defeats, which we think were to be expected at this stage of the season; the Mask and Wig Club has been playing to crowded houses at the Chestnut Street Opera House and has added lustre to its already glorious achievements by making its twenty-first production, "Nicely a Monarch," a renowned triumph and marking its advent to maturity. To those who in their different spheres of work have been representing the University so unsayably and so well during the vacation we desire to extend our congratulations. In this we know the entire student body joins heartily. It is now our duty to look toward the future. Scarcely two months of the production. "Merely a crown-

It is now our duty to look toward the future. Scarcely two months of the production. "Merely a crown-ably two or three other regattas await our crews. The relays and the inter-

Ions will soon be upon us. Our different organizations and minor sports have their duties and problems to face. Much is to be done and much will be demanded of us, but the aid of every undergraduate is needed during the next three weeks to bring success. The Kneehighs Club is abroad and will receive candidates into its fold with open arms. To the coaches and the management are using wrong methods or are discriminating in favor of the less worthy. Criticism is the keynote of their small talk, and every movement of these huddled with the responsibilities of our various teams and organizations has a sinister meaning to them. What we need—are crews, our baseball team, our track squad—other teams or organizations working for the University—is united support from the entire student body. Pennsylvania spirit or any other college spirit is made up of a number of qualities and is composite in its character. Good old hard common sense together with loyalty at all times and under all conditions are two of its essential qualities, and not only is it necessary that we bring this spirit if they are to win, but that the student body at large have it also. Let criticism be dropped, and the old-time Pennsylvania spirit which we pride ourselves on having after every big football victory be practiced more, and success in all our activities will follow.

Medical News.

Fully two hundred physicians, all graduates of the University of Pennsylvania, poured into this city last week to enjoy the first "Old Home Week" celebrated by the University. The first of the week's exercises began on Monday night, April 12th, at the Henry Phelps Institute, where physicians prominent in the field against tuberculosis delivered short addresses. Dr. Lawrence Fleck welcomed the assembled.

Among the physicians who spoke were Dr. Frank Craig, Dr. W. Taylor Cumming, Dr. George Gasseroff, Dr. J. Clinton Foote and Dr. Charles Hatfield.

Tuesday, April 13th, was devoted to a continuous succession of lectures and clinics in the University's medical laboratories, the Hare Laboratory and the Philadelphia and Pennsylvania University Hospitals. The principal feature of the afternoon, was an address by Isaac Charles H. Flanse, of the Medical Department, on "The University's Place in Post-Graduate Instruction." In the evening the physicians were the guests of the Pennsylvania Alumni Society, a dinner and dance in the Bozma.

This reception was given for the men of the army and navy.

The rest of the week was taken up with meetings culminating in the undergraduates celebration on Saturday. The medical societies of the student body held a convention in the Huna-ton Club during the day and a banquet at the Keystone in the evening.
