Scores Corkran with Winning Run in Tenth inning—Shultz Invincible in the Ninth.

With Corkran on second base and one man out, Shultz hit a long drive to left. Hallin hit a grounder which Corkran took at second base and threw out Shultz. Then Corkran, sliding, reached home safely and Shultz was out at second. Corkran then stole third.

The game was continued to the eleventh inning and Friendly went to the plate with two men on.Friendly hit a long drive to center which Warwich caught and threw out the first baseman. Corkran then stole home on the throw.

The game was then continued to the twelfth inning and Friendly again went to the plate with two men on. Corkran hit a single, then stole second base. Warwich then hit a sacrifice fly to center on which Corkran scored a winning run.

The final score was 4-3 in favor of Friendly.

THAYER’S SINGLE WINS GAME

"HENLEY" REGATTA SATURDAY

Second Varsity and First Freshmen to Race in the Delaware River.

With only two days until the "Henley" Pennsylvania’s crews are putting in their last minute practice. Since it has been decided to enter the "Henley" in the regatta, Coach Ward has put his entire team on the water each day for a course of twelve miles. On Monday, Corkran took the driving seat over Thayer. Thayer was on the inside, while Friendly was on the outside. The Pennsylvania’s crew were favored to win, but the "Henley" crew put up a good fight and the race ended in a close finish.

The cookies earned for this meet will be held at 1:15 o’clock this afternoon in Alumni Hall.

Pennsylvania’s crews:—

First Varsity—Ward, Brearley, Bannerman, Shurtleff, Ferguson; stroke, Froodson; coxswain, Rosengarten.

Second Varsity—Shurtleff, Ferguson, Bannerman, O’Hara, Froodson; stroke, McKeown; coxswain, Rosengarten.

1909 Class Record

In another column of to-day's issue we print the particulars concerning the 1909 Class Record, which makes its initial appearance this morning, and we would like to suggest that every undergraduate procure a copy. The 1909 college year book is certainly up to the high standard set by the preceding classes, and the members of the present Senior Class may be well satisfied with the workmanship of the record which they leave behind them to take the place on the shelves in the library alongside of the annals of yesteryears. In completeness, artistic finish, discrimination and care in details the book is all that could be desired, and its editors are to be congratulated on their wonderful showing, and we are sure too strongly that every college man should add a copy of the book to his library.

The Class Record, which is mainly a panorama of the happenings of the Senior Class, also contains records of all undergraduate activities, and is therefore of interest not only to Seniors but to all under classes as well.

It is always the small things of a man's college life that ennoble his Alma Mater to him, and when as grey haired alumni we are able to take from the crevices of our book shelf the records of our college life, they will recall the faces of our old friends so dear to us while at Pennsylvania and will also bring up a complete list of the happy incidents of our undergraduate days, and it is for this reason as well as for the reason that all worthy undergraduate publications do serve the support of the student body that we have urged in the purchase of the 1908 Class Record.

as an attempted double steal. Warwic was thrown out at the plate and Reid ended the inning by hitting Shultz. Shultz sent a heroic drive to right for three bases in the seventh and Corrigan walked and stole. Shultz sent a short fly to centre, but Shultz could not score. On the supreme play Thayer hit to Reid, who caught Shultz at the plate. Corrigan taking the throw with Aldenfield at bat a double steal was attempted, but Corrigan was easily thrown out.

Princeton got hits in the eighth and ninth but could not score the necessary run, and the game went into extra innings. Corrigan singled to left in this round and was sacrificed to second by Smiley. Thayer dropped a safe hit in centre and Corrigan came home with the winning run. Thayer was caught stealing and Aldenfield ended the inning by striking out.

Princeton went in order in their half of the tenth and for the first time in more than fifteen years Pennsylvania had won both Princeton games. The record which the three leaves behind

If you are a Trifle Sensitive

To those who are often subjected to the attentions of a hundred and one rude and facetious individuals, a short note from the Professor of Typography at the University of Pennsylvania, which is of a singularly indicative nature, may be of interest.

"I was writing at the Institute a few days ago on the subject of handwriting and typography. I was rather incommoded with a small donkey of a fly which buzzed about my head, and by requesting in due form, When will this infernal insect leave me alone, it left me in such a manner that I was pretty sure it never meant to return. However, it returned, and as England was very much to the fore in those days, I kindly remarked, I hope you are English. The donkey, after giving me a comical stare, suddenly disappeared.

"I am writing on the Institute lawn to-day. I was much annoyed with a lady who kept on glancing over at me, and if I have my facts right, I think her name is Mabel. I turned to her and said, Will you stop all this? The lady, after giving me a comical stare, suddenly disappeared."
