AMERICAN HENLEY RACES TO-DAY

Second 'Varsity Crew to Compete with the Senior Harvard and Cornell Boats at 2:30 O’clock.

The Cornell and Harvard second eight crews, which are to row to Philadelphia yesterday to take part in the Henley Regatta this afternoon, arrived in Philadelphia yesterday to take part in the Henley Regatta. The visiting crews went over the course of the race before the races, but are hoping for clearer weather today.

The great interest of the American Henley to-day will be the contest between Cornell and Harvard at 2:30 o'clock. The latter is, naturally, the greater favorite, but a victory by the former will be as creditable to Harvard as it would be to Cornell. Cornell will have the advantage of the home water, and the latter will have the advantage of the home crowd.

exert their influence in seeing that pressure is brought to bear on their friends, the Councilmen. Certainly no better use could be made of this property than in giving this land to the University, and when it is considered that Pennsylvania has for years been the centre of culture of the City of Philadelphia, has now reached the utmost limit of its physical development and has no ground left on which to continue its rapid expansion, it will be recognized that any other disposition of the ground would be a public calamity.

From the undergraduate point of view the present situation is of interest, not only because the land is absolutely essential to the growth of Pennsylvania, but also to further the reserve college spirit. For many years Pennsylvania has been so cramped for space that a University playground has been impossible. Franklin Field, while one of the most wonderful athletic fields in the world, has proven entirely inadequate for the student body at large, affording room only for the athlete of note. As a consequence, fraternity, club and dormitory baseball games and other minor sports have never reached the places of prominence that characterize them at other colleges or that they deserve at Pennsylvania.

No statement has been made as to the disposal of the property if granted to the University, but we feel confident that a good part of it will be turned into a common athletic field, that will aid in the creation of friendly rivalry among the clubs and fraternities and give the students a chance to get rid of their exuberant spirit.
