JUNIORS READY FOR BALL

First Big Dance of Season Promises to Surpass Former Efforts - Will Close Junior Week.

As a fitting climax to a week in which 1911 has resigned supreme, Westminster Hall will be the scene of the Junior Ball tomorrow evening. Everything that an enterprising and enterprising committee could do has been done to make the first of the large class functions promises to outshine any other in the social history of the Red and Blue.

Under the direction of a sub-committee for that purpose, a very effective scheme of decoration has been arranged. The big gym floor is to be transformed into an arab of palms. The second of the rooms has been reserved for the patricians, while at the south end, behind an enormous bank of, palms and palms, Richard Sandow's orchestra will hold forth.

Anita from the floral decorations, a large quantity of Red and Blue bunting has been procured, with which the walls are to be decorated. Instead of removing the gymsalium apparatus, it will be completely hidden by palms and bunting. There will be no more of enthusiasm and excitement that is usual.

Taking into due consideration the Thanksgiving spirit, for Pennsylvania will come.

The Sophomore Dance Committee has made a new display in the interior programs, upon which have been arranged twenty dances, in the following order:

Two-step, two walts, waltzing, etc., with no escort.

Supper will be served about 11 o'clock in the moving room, except for the patricians, for whom the benches room, arranged with small tables decorated with red roses, has been reserved.

The program committee is as follows:

Patricians - Mrs. J. P. Allyn, Mrs. stencil Brown, Mrs. Abraham Church, Mrs. G. W. Elliott, Mrs. Elmore Ellison, Mrs. Cabot F. Fox, Mrs. John Graham, Mrs. Charles C. Harris, Mrs. Mary Largo, Mrs. J. Bernard Lippsmitz, Mrs. Henry J. Murray, Mrs. W. Chester, Mrs. Samuel V. Merri- rich, Mrs. John H. Packard, Mrs. Louis Page, Mrs. William B. Phillips, Mrs. Charles Flirt, Jr., Mrs. Thomas Redd, Mrs. George B. Roberts, Mrs. Andrew Smith, Mrs. J. Homer Smith, Mrs. Frances S. Sned, Mrs. J. Madison Taylor, Mrs. Henry C. Thompson, Mrs. Paul Thompson, Mrs. J. Har- rison Trouard, Mrs. Edmund Tyull, Mrs. W. R. Waite, Mrs. George D. Wil- dwood, Mrs. William Wilson, Mrs. David E. Williams, Mrs. B. Franklin Wilson.

The Sophomore Dance is thought of, the same idea, fair to be a desperate struggle, for Cornell is always a desperate foe. Though she may taste defeat, she fights gallantly until very end.

It is in the character of any and all its teams, and due also to the fact that they meet those teams in this respect, that the secret of the popularity of Pennsylvania-Cornell games lies.

To-day's battle decides no championship. On the contrary, the two battered eleven, with only their old gen- erous rivalry to spur them on, answer the whistle. Both teams are deter- mined, and the usual glorious contest will come.

As on every occasion, Pennsylvania welcomes Cornell's team and its sup- porters, and does so in the true Thanksgiving spirit, for Pennsylvania is thankful to meet a worthy foe.

Speaker to Musical Clubs.

With the undergraduates of the Mask and Wig Club acting as host, the 316 Street street last night was the scene of a soirée given to the mem- bers of the Combined Cornell-Pennsyl- vania Musical Clubs, who, after their performance at the Bellmore-Bristord, adjourned to the club house, there to be entertained by the stars of last year's show with short musical sketches. Under the direction of Charles Snyder Morgan, a very enjoy- able entertainment was held.

THE SEVENTEENTH BATTLE.

For the seventeenth time in the history of intercollegiate football, Cornell today clashes with Pennsylvania.

With the game, the final important gridiron battle of the season, the eyes of the college world are fixed on Franklin Field.

Although neither team is in the championship class, interest in the contest is but slightly diminished.

In Philadelphia, in particular, on ac- count of the cancellation of the Army- Navy struggle, the game comes even more of enthusiasm and excitement that is usual.

Taking into due consideration the Thanksgiving spirit, for Pennsylvania will come.

In order to simplify football and make it more intelligible to the spectators, the University of Pennsylvania of Pennsylvania Football Committee has planned to introduce an innovation for today's game. This will be in addition to the regular score board service which has always been shown against the gymnasium.

The purpose of the innovation is to identify the players so as to enable the spectators to know who makes every play. To accomplish this the official conference program will contain the names of every player on the two teams, each of whom will be numbered, the odd numbers referring to Pennsylvania, and the even numbers to Cornell. On the special score board will be given the correct line-up, the board carrying the names of the players, who can be identified by reference to the program. By the same system the score board will identify every man who carries the ball.

It was the original intention of the Pennsylvania Committee to have every player wear a number on his back, in order that the spectators could tell instantly every man on the field. This plan was proposed to Cornell, but for some reason the librarians rejected it. Pennsylvania believes that sooner or later the football public will demand that some such system as this be adopted, and wishes it to be inaugurated in this game. It is now universally used throughout England, and the demand for it is getting stronger every year in this country.

The souvenir program this year is one of the finest that was ever issued for a Pennsylvania-Cornell game. The cover design has for its background two shades of blue, one representing the Cornell Crimson and the other the Pennsylvania duck red. The lettering is cut in white, and the two half-tones, showing the Pennsylvania Memorial Tower and a scrimmage in the Pennsylvania-Cornell game of 1908, are in blue, the cover thus showing the colors of both universities.

The text and illustrations comprise 40 pages, devoted equally to a review of athletics at the two universities. The illustrations are all new, unless Cornell text in a representation by Rudolph Corn II text is written by Rudolph Neudorfer, Cornell, 1911, and the Pennsylvania text by Edward R. Bushell, 1911. All from the Press of the John C. Winston Company.

The program sells for 25 cents.

First Year Men Sustain Four Defeats.

Lack of Success Due to the Inexperienced Material.

From the standpoint of gridiron victories, the Freshmen football season, which ended last Saturday with a defeat at the hands of the Cornell Freshmen, has been disappointing. Four out of the seven games played were lost by the supporters of the Red and Blue, owing to their lack of experience and to their inability to break up the forward pass.

There was a decided lack of experience in this year's team, the coaches complaining that they didn't have the usual run of experienced college and preparatory school men to choose from. Practically no man on the squad had ever had a year's experience in playing ball, in this together with the fact that there were no good substitutes for the back-field positions, made it especially difficult for the coaches to whip the teams into shape.

In the game with the Cornell Freshmen, last Saturday, in which the Pennsylvania Freshmen were defeated by a score of 14 to 6, the Red and Blue team accepted an excellent game against odds. The Cornell Freshmen were represented by one of the best teams in their history this year. They went through the season undefeated, and succeeded in rolling up a total of 221 points against their opponents.

Coach Clinton and Master of the 1912 team, have expressed their belief that there is good material to fill the squad, and that with the experience gained several of them should be of "varsity caliber next year."

The work of Cornell, Murphy, Merry, Harrison and Nolan is deserving of especial mention. Cornell played an excellent game at quarterback. His defensive work on the back-field was fine, and his kicking was far above the average.

Harrison played the latter part of last year at Pennsylvania State College. The coaches expect great things from him in the future. His defensive work has been considered the best of any man on the team.

Never ever played any football until he entered the University this year, and was unable to be in any of the three of the games on account of an injured ankle. He was very proficient in catching passes.

Nolan put in a good, consistent game at tackle, as did Shughery.

The Freshman), with scores was as follows:

Pennsylvania, 6; St. Bernard, 6
Pennsylvania, 6; Steubenville, 17
Pennsylvania, 6; Cortland, 15
Pennsylvania, 6; Harvard, 6
Pennsylvania, 6; Andover, 5
