In a game of English Rugby football, last Saturday afternoon, the Varsity team defeated the Yankees of Brooklyn, in a close contest matched by the score of 6 to 5. In this game, due to the reports which are current in newspapers to the effect that the English national sport may in time replace the American game of football, many boys will find much interest in this contest. The players of both teams were very fine, and the managers of both will find much to praise.

Preliminary reports indicate that the program for the expectant fans will be limited to a mere half-hour, during which time the American game of football will be played.

Baldwin and Rich were the center of interest, and the latter was the best. This latter was the best. This latter was the best.
ORCHESTRA NOTICE.

It is not pleasant to say that the season is over, but the orchestra has toil and travail behind it. It is only natural that the orchestra should have a long season. If the orchestra does not appear, it is not the fault of the student. The music is so fine that it is hard to find music to suit the program.芦

Every possible care has been taken to ensure promptness in the way of performance. Every effort has been made to bring out music to the best advantage.

The program requires a little more care for the first time this season, the orchestra, under the leadership of Mr. Public, appears in Wembton Hall this evening. It is not too much to hope for an audience of three hundred and fifty students.

If each man in the orchestra body to whose attention this may come, will endeavor to be present, will endeavor to be present, the program will be made as interesting as possible.

Treasurer Gilpin Presents Detailed Statement of Distribution of Seats to Players and Coaches.

(The Pennsylvania welcomes comments, but it is not responsible for sentiments expressed.)

To the Editor of The Pennsylvanian and Members of the Athletic Association:

In order to amplify the general statement heretofore made concerning the distribution of tickets for the Cornell-Pennsylvania football game, I state the following details:

In my letter I said that 186 tickets were distributed among coaches and football men as commemorative, nearly all of which were in G and H. In addition to this number of commemorative given to the coaches and football men there were also given tickets made in less desirable sections than the 186 herebefore mentioned. Of this 500, there were 211 compensations, 300 of which divided among themselves fifty tickets, and fifty-three between five football players divided 150 each. Of the 186 tickets purchased by coaches and players, in the exercise of their privileges and without prejudice of priz<e, all <ommemorative tickets were purchased by them, and the eight coaches purchased 208 tickets and distributed the football-men portion among the players.

Yours truly,

John C. Gilpin, Treasurer.
