Interclass Football Battle in Rain on Muddy Field Ends in 6-0 Score for the First Year Men.

Asklepion is in and with rain pouring down upon players and spectators alike, the Freshman football team was facing the Sophomore team. Both teams had been toiling for several weeks to get into peak condition for their respective games. This was the final game of the season, and both teams were eager to add to their experiences and gain the much-needed victory. The weather was overcast, and the field was muddy, but the players were determined to give their best effort. The game was competitive, with both teams displaying a high level of skill and endurance. The final score was 6-0, with the Sophomores emerging victorious. This marked the end of the football season for the Freshman team, and they looked forward to improving in the future.

BULLETIN OF THE HONORARY MANUSCRIPTS

A THOUGHTLESS PRANK.

In every community the size of Pennsylvania certain responsible individuals are to be found who have no concern for the feelings or the property of others than themselves. It is a lamentable fact that this should be so, and should lend some semblance of truth to the customary caricature of the college man.

There must be something irresistibly attractive in collegiate life. This may be due to the half-blind teacher of music, since it induces a University man to bear it from his place and use it as decorative material. It is the cheapest exhibit of bad taste that such a trick is not for the society of Pennsylvania men. But, unluckily, such irresponsible individuals exist, and Pennsylvania has her share of them. In this case it is to be hoped that the person who appropriated the sign will return it at once. In so doing, he will somewhat heal the hurt he has caused and the injury he has unnecessarily done.

If these words do not accomplish this, there should be some semblance of truth to the custom of the country, Charles Evans Hughes, now serving his second term as Governor of the State of New York, has accepted the invitation of the President and trustees of this University to deliver the University Day address.

Governor Hughes is the one man of all others in the public eye of the nation at this moment. It is even prophetic that it will fail to his lot to follow along the trial shrouded by a former Governor of New York State to the highest office in the land.

No words are necessary to make clear the honor his acceptance has conferred upon the University nor the honor the University has conferred upon him. His name will, on February 22, be added to the long list of distinguished men whose orations have given to University Day the enviable reputation that it bears.

A VARSITY PLAYS WELL.

Basketball Team Rounding into Shape before Date with Scotland.

Two such scrubs faced the Varsity in basketball practice last night, and, though the first team won handsomely, they were driven to the limit by their opponents. The Varsity found the first set an easy proposition, and lost only two out of the half by the score of 12 to 1. The second string was a harder proposition, and for awhile held the score even. But Kennedy developed a shooting streak and the Varsity drew away, winning by the score of 22 to 10.

Walton and McNichol gave a splendid exhibition of power, and Saxa and Kennedy sagged several difficult shots. The lineup:

Varsity: Saxa, ___ , forward; ____ , forward; _____, forward; _____, guard; _____, guard; _____, guard; _____, guard; _____, forward; _____, forward; _____, guard

BARNARDELO DEBATE FRIDAY.

Pennsylvania Meets Columbia's Society in New York City.

Much interest centers around the debate to be held this Friday night between the Zelosophic Literary Society of the University of Pennsylvania and the Barnard Literary Association of Columbia University. The debate is to be held at Earle Hall, in New York City, where Zetos will uphold the affirmative of the question: "Resolved, That the Commission form of Government should be adopted by the several States of the United States." The speakers chosen to represent the Zelosophic Society are Charles Young, captain; J. H. Hart, 2nd; Rosenbaum and J. P. Heritage, alternates.

The Pennsylvania Printing Company himself is one of the chief instructors of the students in letterpress printing, and it is his business to satisfy himself that the work is done right, and that the students have a chance to do it right.

In dealing with College printing, our work is all done in the College Printing Room and is under the immediate charge of the Professor of Letterpress Printing.

The letterpress printing department of the Pennsylvania Printing Company is the most up-to-date and modern of any in the East.

...We have the letterpress machines for the printing of the University of Pennsylvania's "The Pennsylvanian," as well as printing of the student clubs, societies, etc. Our work is done right, and we do not undertake work that we cannot do right.

AMENDMENTS UNREASONABLE.
coaches have some say about it, and without the consent of the manager, the distribution of the tickets for the Cornell game was put in the hands of one who has no right whatever to have anything to do with tickets at Pennsylvania, because for one reason he now attends the University—at least I am so informed.

Therefore, I intend to protest that the allotment of tickets for the large football game be placed in the entire charge of the Football Committee, and that they give preferences by order of classes, limiting the number to be applied for—first, however, setting aside as many seats as members of the team desire to purchase. This quantity can easily be kept within reason able limits by the use of a little tact on the part of the manager of the team. Many men on the team would be glad to cut their tickets in half if they had a good reason to turn down requests for seats. Under this plan seats would be allotted first to the Faculty, etc., then to Seniors, Juniors, Sophomores and Freshmen in all departments. Freshmen in any then to freshmen coming as Freshmen and graduates of one department of the University standing in another as Seniors. After this would come the undergraduates and then, the public. The subject of season ticket book holders would be arranged satisfactorily. In this way I think every one could be well taken care of and the treasury still prosper.

Very truly yours,

W. N. MORRIS
