University Seven Has Little Trouble

Seven has little trouble

University hockey team easily beat Swarthmore yesterday on their way to a 5 to 6 score. The Pennsylvania team decisively improved the team work of recent practices and succeeded in keeping the puck in Swarthmore's territory during the greater part of the game. The Swarthmore players were only able to score twice. Mails stopped one of these shots and W. Ward the second.

Pennsylvania started out with a red hot attack, and the Swarthmore goalie, Jack, will need the rubber down the right side, and more so in Glover, who scored on a good angle shot. The playing of the Swarthmore goalie on the left wing side, and Glover, who was given many chances to score. He made the second goal after a long rush and a perfect shot. The last score of the first half was made when the Swarthmore defense was not able to get the red and blue defense. Newman was at center for the Swarthmores, and this position extremely well. He received several bad passes from his own end, but was only cleared once, but very few passes him past.

The fourth goal was made by King. His shot was made from a distance, and Bagey, passing back and forth. When ten minutes before the Swarthmore goalie, Bagey, gave the Swarthmores an opportunity to score, but the quickness and the speedy Canadian goalie talked. A second goal was scored from a pass from Harper. This goal came after a beautiful shot and passed Swarthmore's net. The line-up:

Swarthmore: E. Smith, B. Bogle, D. Morgan, H. Rieley, P. R. Ward.

Swarthmore tried to even things up in the second half but met with a brilliant defense, but was unable to get to the red and blue defense. Newman was at center for the Swarthmores, and this position extremely well. He received several bad passes from his own end, but was only cleared once, but very few passes him past.

Faculty Defeats Students
Architectural Department Holds Unique Football Contest on Slippery Field

Behind the Museum.

In one of the most nerve racking football games ever pulled off on the chalk-lined gridiron overlooking the pinkish bowl gate of the Museum, the faculty of the Architectural Department trounced the roosters of the third floor of College Hall by the score of 6-4.
It was a "ひとり" game, to say the least. In the last half second of the play Captain Laidi received the oval on a short backfield formation, and, with his blockers in step and his toes in the same line, around left end he flew with that speed which borders on the side of his mouth to the other.

Club line after club line saw the plan of his understanding, and finally he dashed over the line with the winning run. Cret's goal from the touchdown possessed those beautiful qualities of a French rendering.

Tone had been called shortly before the score was made, and Schwab proved by the bullet diagonal that the line had made itself a second floor play. Nolan engineered the play, but Devens did not take the color. Perhaps the most imposing plays were those of Eversoll, who saw a pair of Berkshire jocks and a Bison tackle.

Whittier had to be stood up twice to make a shadow, and Gunner had one running to make the varishing trace of the fast that picked Lew White's eye. The latter's color scheme cleared across the boulder was exquisite and worthy of duplication.

It was rendered from light to dark.

Laidi's sensational dash around the corners will have lives in his memory and imagination. Gunner got kicked in his decapitated center and had to retire. In the second half Hoffman was disqualified because he had professional privileges. Replacements were served by the supply stores.
