TIGERS AFTER CHAMPIONSHIP

As a climax to an immortal week of athletic rivalry between the two institutions, the swimming teams of Pennsylvania and Princeton will clash to-night in the gymnasium pool at 8 o'clock tonight. In many respects this meet will be the most interesting of the season, for both teams, together with Yale, rank as leaders in collegiate aquatics.

Princeton has not defeated Boston this year, and in the recent meet with Columbia, Eastern took the day. On the other hand, Pennsylvania's record is as follows: Boston won the first match, 9-7; second, 11-10; third, 10-9. This season, however, the three matches played have been won by the Pennsylvanians. The third match was played off last Wednesday night by 100 yards, and the Pennsylvanians won, which officially opened the Blue's new swimming lane.

Pennsylvania's swimmers have made an excellent record so far this year. The men's team, with the exception of the half-back, do not lose confidence they will give the Orange team a terrible shock in the competition.

The swimming meet, which is the climax of the dramatic season, for "Ottolax" we have the highest opinion of self-composition and expression. It would seem Verdi had at last found himself. Phantom in the open air, you perceive, is capable of appreciating the manifold greatness and individuality in the operatic play. On so important a feature by which the Italian reached his aim was the full realization of the power and scope of the orchestra. No more did he write his parts more modestly as an accomplishment for a dot or some modest air half air.

"Ottolax" has a true operatic drama with the voices only as a secondary element. The opera is the terrible leitmotiv of "Ottolax," the love of "Ottolax" is the love of "Readiness." It is the beauty of "Ottolax" and the hatred of "Ottolax." It is a tragic opera. It is a tragic comedy.

The lettering, in speaking of the operatic drama, is perhaps the most striking feature. It is beautifully, dramatically, great. The lettering is not alone beautiful, as is illustrated on the piano by A. H. Wilson, while the other instruments were carried on the organ. Probably the most moody, yet expressive, of the music in the opera is the appearance at the end of the first act and again at the close of the drama. Here it is re-vealed that art and divine and inscrutable feeling which across when the lover imparts a kiss on his sweetheart's cheek. NorthermItalian opera can be found a more beautiful and effective expression.

Civil Engineers to Meet.

The regular monthly meeting of the Civil Engineering Society will be held on February 4th, and will be punctuated by the announcement of the Chalmers prize to be awarded to the student who shall have written the best paper in Engineering Building.

The meeting will be an interesting one in the sense that the current business will be transacted at the meeting. The paper of the Chalmers prize will be delivered by Mr. H. L. Bunster, of the Department Faculty, on "Some Practical Problems In Concrete Reinforcement, and the Occasion of an Opening."
"He hates with scorn and contempt to the college professor who, he says, "goes $2,000 a year to teach men how to make money or how to save thousands. But there never were, are not now, and never will be any such college professor. The function of the college is not to teach men how to make money in any particular quantity or how to save money. It is to teach them how to live and to be able to make the most of such money now owned as they may be possessed of. The college teaches its students how to live, what this old world is made of, and points out to them the possibilities for a larger and broader life than the office or store or shop can give them." The Cornell Daily Sun, in an editorial dealing with Mr. Crane, sums up what sentiment is and comments upon the summing-up in these words:

"The conclusion of the whole of Mr. Crane's article is that universities make neither brains nor abilities, but are a fraud and a public curse. Therefore it is high time that they were got rid of."

"As a literary curiosity, Mr. Crane's volume is well worth perusal. But a lengthy reply to his arguments could hardly fail to prove as ridiculous as the arguments themselves."

"Surely Mr. Crane's effusions are not confined to the University press. Individual comment has, of course, been made by Professor Charles F. Judd of the University of Chicago, when he interviewed the article, said:

"I can sum up my whole opinion in a few words. Professor J. M. Cutten of Columbia University, published a very few years ago a book which he proved that the study of sugar alone university men have saved the country同类 than the entire of the all universities and colleges in the United States. Mr. Crane is to-day making his plant machinery and methods devised by college trained men."

"Here is 'Who's Who in America,' the table shows that 62.5 per cent. of the persons listed in the edition for special advantage of education training. Of this number 52.5 per cent. were college or university graduates and 11.51 per cent. had attended universities and colleges, but were not graduated."

"This is an argument in a nutshell in favor of higher education."
WRESTLERS AT COLUMBIA

Team is Handpicked by Crupied Men—Patteil, Eaton and Heilman to Make Debut on Mat.

With a team composed largely of men never before entered in a meet, the wrestlers will oppose Columbia tonight at New York for the second time this year.

The team has been doing poorly all season, and, in order to see if a shake-up will make any effect, Coach Wain has decided to enter three men in the meet that have not represented Pennsylvania before this year. Patchell has again demonstrated his superiority throughout and has been awarded the place in the 135-pound class, while Eaton, in the 125-pound class, appears to have a better shelf of Glasgow. Heilman has been substituted for Pike, who broke his leg a few days ago at practice.

Much satisfaction is felt because Smith, who returned to his old form, will be entered tonight in the middle-weight class, and the chances rely on him to throw his man.

The most gratifying thing about the recent meet has been Captain Graham's wrestling... because he is one of the heaviest, but now he weighs less than 140 pounds, and will be entered in the lowest weight class. Wednesday night at Princeton he was the only Pennsylvania man to win, and in the last meet with Columbia, which the Red and Blue won seven falls to none, he threw his opponent in nine seconds.

The men entered for both teams are as follows:

115-Pound Class—Dickson, Pennsylvania; Morton, Columbia.
125-Pound Class—Eaton, Pennsylvania; Robinson, Columbia.
135-Pound Class—Patteil, Pennsylvania; Walton, Columbia.
145-Pound Class—Chappie, Pennsylvania; Tomasi, Columbia.
175-Pound Class—Graham, Pennsylvania; Stroudsburg, Columbia.
Heavyweight Class—Heilman, Pennsylvania; Corigliano, Columbia.
