THE IMPOSSIBLE COMES TO PASS.

Although several weeks were looked for in the opening game last Saturday, we now expect the outcome which the progress of the afternoon brought with it. Of course, the new rules are to blame. Under the old rules—or even under the new ones at any other time than the present—it would have been impossible for Ursinus to win. It was a day for experimentation: a day for the testing of the various guesses, which the coaches have been making since the old game was done away with. The coaches at Ursinus pleased better, it seems; and the result was the impossible.

Under the circuit system, there is really not a great deal of forgiveness in the cup of defeat—at least and nearly as much as there would have been under almost any other. Of course it is not to be deemed that Ursinus outplayed our scholars, and there is nothing in particular to which I wish to call the attention of the case, in which an admission. There is still, however, every chance to make up during the remainder of the season for the unfortunate beginning. And it is well to remember that many a man who sees a false start is the first to break the tape at the end.

ORCHESTRA PRIVILEGES.

Although hopes of securing opera privileges such as we enjoyed by the University during the past two years have to be abandoned for the time being, there is still cause for the music lovers among us to rejoice. We hope that the arrangement which has been made with the Philadelphia Orchestra will draw many of our students to a closer knowledge and appreciation of what is best in music.

The Philadelphia Orchestra, now in its eleventh season, is one of the best known of the many musical organizations of our country. Indeed, among the symphony orchestras of America it is without superior. Its members are among the highest accomplishment and repose, and its director, Mr. Carl Pohlschmidt, is known to the world over. Philadelphia has been fortunate in enjoying the performances of such an organization—how fortunate only those can appreciate who know the financial troubles with which undertakings of this kind have constantly to struggle. Especially to be congratulated on our University are the privileges which have been granted to it.

The promoters of the American public in general of what really good music is provides ground for the constant revivification of foreign people who in the extra years of their longer lives have had time to absorb into their very natures a great deal of music which to the average American is still all too far removed. It is only by listening to concerts such as those of the Philadelphia Orchestra that an appreciation of the higher beauties of tone and sound is to be developed. There is now before us an opportunity for the best sort of pleasure which should not be missed. We trust that from this time we may pass at the Academy of Music on Saturday evenings will count among their number many Pennsylvania men.

FAITH SHOULD BE OPTIMISTIC.

"There Is Some Good in All Men," Dr. Speer in Sunday Ser- vice in Houston Hall.

With his usual strength of speech, Robert E. Speer, D. D., secretary of the Presbyterian Board of Foreign Mission, and noted lecturer to college students, addressed a large audience at Houston Hall yesterday morning. He took for his text the scriptural pas-sage, "There is some good in all men."

"The best way to cure a liar is to believe him, and the best way to change a deceitful man is to trust him," said Dr. Speer. "That was Christ's principle in dealing with men. He searched for the best things in men, and then, having found them, addressed a large audience and told them all to apply to the Presbyterian Board of Foreign Mission.

"There is some good in all men."

"In the case of Judas, there is no good at all, and there is also a capacity possessed of each for good in diverse forms. The fact that there is a Supreme Power that can take one's weaknesses and wicked character and transform it into one of order and cleanliness is the first and fundamental Christian faith. Because in every man there is a germ of divine life, every man's weakness, frieziness and frankness can be changed to strength, seriousness and virtue. That aspect of the gospel makes it a hope for men.

"Following the services yesterday morning, Dr. Speer delivered a short address on the "Opportunity for College Students to Do Good Work." The speaker for the services next Sunday will be Prof. Arthur Holmes, Ph. D., of the Department of Psychology.

The Pecon Post-Graduate School for Crown and Bridge Work, which has achieved an enviable reputation throughout the entire world of dentistry, by the excellence of its course of instruction, has now been taken over by the University of Pennsylvania, and hereon will be under the administration of the University.

Extra Curriculum Lectures.

Besides the regular lectures in the several departments of the University, there will be a number of extra-curricular lectures on such subjects as science, government and literature delivered by professors from other universities and colleges.
