ONE OF THE BEST TRUSTEES.

Richard Wood, Long Prominently Identified with Finance, Finally Ends Useful Career.

Richard Wood, in point of service the oldest trustee of the University of Pennsylvania, and one of the most prominent in high business and professional circles, was stricken by heart disease early yesterday morning.

The end was not unexpected, as the disease had been serious for three days. Death was the præcipitâ, to the end he was a sufferer for three years.

Mr. Wood was 76 years old, and unusually vigorous, taking an active interest in business until within a few days of his illness. He was a member of the firm of R. D. Wood & Co., iron founders, having offices on Chestnut street. He is survived by two sisters and four brothers. He was never married.

In 1872 Mr. Wood was elected a trustee of the University, and in the thirty-seven years that have elapsed he performed his duties with the highest efficiency and satisfaction, always conduct himself with the foresight and judgment that marked him from the day of his appointment as a promoter of business in unexplored fields.

Richard Wood was born in 1826 in a house that stood on the site now occupied by the old Fourth street, below Arch. He was educated at home.

During his active life he held numerous positions of trust in business, being in most of the important banks and financial institutions.

In addition to serving for thirty-seven years as a trustee of the University, he raised funds, with the occasion that he was chosen president of the foundation of the University Hospital in 1882, and which he continued to have in management for many years.

In addition, the late trustee was one of the managers of Haverford College for nearly half a century, and was prominently identified with the growth of that institution. He was treasurer of the college for many years, and identified himself with numerous charitable enterprises.

As a business man, Mr. Wood's name was known in every part of the country. Immediately after he left college he was associated with the firm of Wood, Brown & Co., founded by his father, Richard D. Wood. He early became interested in the iron business, and his interest was instrumental to a considerable extent in the development of the mineral resources of Virginia, particularly those in the vicinity of his great mine, the. expailing of the Old Dominion coal field, now under the control of the Chesapeake and Ohio.

In his work, his perseverance and energy were remarkable, with the final result that the Chesapeake and Ohio has become the great coal field of the country.

In the Society of Friends Mr. Wood was widely known and respected. His faith of his death was out of proportion to the grief of the whole country.

Funeral services will be held Monday afternoon.

ADDITION TO FACULTY.

Doctor Hyde, Formerly of Cornell, Named Instructor of Greek.

Dr. Walter Woodward Hyde, A. M., Ph. D., is the latest addition to the Pennsylvania Faculty. The appointment of Dr. Hyde was announced this week by the Dean.

He has been appointed instructor of Greek, and will take charge of that course. The appointment of Dean Hyde was made after a careful consideration of the qualifications of the candidate. He has had experience in teaching the language at the highest level, and has shown himself to be a able teacher.

The appointment of Dr. Hyde is a great addition to the Pennsylvania Faculty, and is a reflection on the University. The appointment of Dr. Hyde is a silent but powerful statement of the fact that the University is in the hands of men of the highest ability, and that the University will continue to maintain its high position in the educational world.

Dr. Hyde is a man of great learning, and has been a professor of Greek for many years. He is a man of great energy and determination, and is well fitted to take charge of the Greek course. He is a man of great ability, and is well fitted to take charge of the Greek course.

DING INCREASE IN WHARTON.

Early Figures Show Entering Class to be Largest on Record.

According to information already available, the enrollment of Freshmen in the Wharton School of Finance and Commerce at the present time is larger than in any year previous, despite the increase of units necessary for graduation and the higher standards which the late have not yet been determined definitely, as the statistics have not yet been completed, but a rough count has been sufficient. However, to learn the fact that the entering class will be the largest in the history of the departmen...

HAZING RESTRICTED.

Exclusions such as have been made this year against hazing Freshmen who are on their way to or from public meetings, indicate the growth of an attitude more sane than that which has sometimes been shown toward the matter in the past. Hazing is an excellent defense when properly carried our, but, like most other things, it is not by any means a blessing in all its gauges.

There are a number of meetings to which Freshmen are invited which the period when they are still liable to be practiced to during the second year runs. It is important that they should attend these meetings. In past years it has sometimes been considered wiser upon such occasions to invite all of their number who come within reach, and send them into the meeting in a more or less disguised state, both in body and in mind. The first gathering of the entering class has always been a favorite time for this form of amusement, and upon one occasion there was, as a result, quite a free-for-all fight, which sent more than to the hospital than all the regular scraps of the year taken together.

Nothing of the sort is to be feared this year. Leaving aside all theories as to the proper function of hazing, this state of affairs is highly satisfactory from the mere fact that Freshmen will attend their meetings in large numbers. To those who look upon hazing not as a substitute for going to a variety entertainment, but as a remedy for loud clothing, loud speech and a disregard of the rules concerning headgear, and the entering of Col-
