PHILADELPHIA, THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 3, 1910

PASQUALE AMATO WILL SING

Noted Baritone Soloist of the Metropolitan at Saturday's Concert. Other Attractive Numbers.

BEING THE FIRST PERFORMANCE OF THE NEW PROGRAMME

Baritone, Amato, the famous baritone soloist of the Metropolitan Opera House, will sing extracts from "The Meister singers" and "Alcina" of Handel, with the Philadelphia Orchestra Concert on Saturday night. This is unquestionably Mr. Pohlig's last appearance as soloist and is of interest to all admirers of the Metropolitan Opera House. This concert marks his initial appearance in Philadelphia outside of the Grand Opera. The programme may justly be considered as very attractive. With the exception of Handel, it contains known songs, and a famous oratorio, "The Messiah" of Handel, with the exception of the last movement and the final chorale, has not been sung in that city for over a year. The programme, in fact, is a unique one, and will be of interest to all musical lovers.

The line was again put through a great deal of work, as much improvement was shown, but the chances of the team are yet not realized, and a great deal is to be done. To receive part of the array of talent, an excellent position of the line is in the field, and the leaders of the team are looking forward to a great season.

But the Red and Blue are ready and determined to win, and it is hoped that the Red and Blue will overwork and grow strong.

SITUATION IN THE FAR EAST

To Be Depicted by Bertram L. Simpson, Noted Author and Writer, in Logan Hall Today.

Bertram L. Simpson, the great writer and speaker on Far Eastern problems, will deliver a lecture on "The Situation in the Far East," at Logan Hall, tonight, and the above convocation, in the amphitheater of Logan Hall. Mr. Simpson is famed not only as a special master in Far Eastern problems, but also as a master in the art of speaking. He is the author of many books, and his lectures have been most important in the development of the Western world. This is his first lecture in the Far East, and it is hoped that the audience will be well attended.

For years Mr. Simpson has been living in the Far East, and making an extensive study of the conditions and peoples there. He learned the Chinese language as a boy and can speak as well as he can English. The "New York Times" built him a first-class man of the age in all matters pertaining to the Far East. From the China of the past to the China of today is a progressive state that now command a world-wide attention and is graphically depicted in his work. Mr. Simpson is the author of 12 volumes, and his lecture "The Far East," is a fine representation of his work, is a topic of decided interest and importance.

The line the Red and Blue should be as strong as the Red and Blue expect it to be. The Red and Blue are as strong as the Red and Blue expect it to be, and the Red and Blue should have the best chance of winning.

THE PENNSYLVANIAN

WHERE IGNORANCE IS NOT BLISS.

Many a man has had his eye opened to the sad and terrible truth by the campaign which is now being waged against social disease and immorality among the students of the University. This campaign aims at an evil which is doing more to wreck the lives of college men than all other transgressions taken together. The saddest thing that can be said of the ruined men whom it leaves helpless is that their fall was due entirely to ignorance.

After hearing the facts as they have been presented by Dr. Wilson and Dr. McKenzie in their recent addresses, any but an insane man will stop to think twice—and more than twice—before he places himself in the dan gerous arms which these men have pointed out. After their message has been brought to every student there will be none to play those who have left the game, for they will then have no one but themselves to blame.

The harm which ignorance has worked in the past is tremendous. The unwitting, coarse lies which many underclassmen hold is due chiefly to lack of knowledge. Experience with its true method has been the only teacher of the past. And this, too, among students.

It is to be hoped that not a single member of the University will fall to hear at least one of the lectures being given on the subject. Two such talks have already been delivered.

Several others are to be held shortly. Every man, and particularly every underclassman, owes it to himself to attend one of them.

There is no problem of greater im port confronting the people of today than that of the "mental evil." Many do not realize its vast spread, especially its menace to society. To stamp out an evil so great in its ex tent at once is impossible, but as the leaders of public opinion begin an ac tive campaign and so arouse the public conscience, our modern society may be rid of a menace, in its worst form at least, which is striking at the very core of its solidarity.

That when men now at Pennsylvania reach a point where their influence counts, they may lend their services for good in such a movement; the University is doing all in its power to make the underclassmen realize just what this question is. In previous years a few lectures have been given on this subject, but now a systematic campaign has been begun. The addresses of Dr. Wilson and Dr. McKenzie were but the opening steps. Not until every student has learned something of the subject, and its importance, will it be considered complete.

The extraordinary interest manifested seems to indicate that the success of the movement will be great. The following communication, we believe, illustrates very well the prevailing opinion in the undergraduates.

To the Editor of The Pennsylvania:

The large attendance at the Audition of Houston Hall, which greeted Col. Love Wilson, W. C. V., at his recent address on "Sexual Hygiene," is the best proof of the student interest in this important subject. It is only to be regretted that the facts were not sooner brought to our attention after the manner of Dr. Wilson. As Pennsylvania men we must realize that we have a further mission in life namely to enlighten the world in our various professions. It is our duty to carry into life and teach the doctrine of a clean, sound mind and body.

The Pennsylvania Society for the Prevention of the Social Disease desires our sincere thanks for the interest they have given us. Dr. Smith, its President; President Harr ison, its Vice-President, and Dr. Wil son, its Treasurer, all represent Penn sylvania's best thoughts along this line. Let every man continue their example by acting as a centre for the distribution of proper information on this subject.

COLLEGE, '11.

CONTROL YOUR TONGUE.

Dr. Pierard Urges That "Unruly Mem bers" Be Constantly Taken Care of.

In his talk in Chapel, yesterday morning, Dr. Pierard spoke of the tongue as "an unruly member," and used the third chapter of St. James as the morning lesson.

"We should pay strict attention to details," he said, "for it is the little attentions of courtesy and kindness that go toward making the day pleasant. We should beware of saying anything without forethought, and take especial care to shun gossip with its distorted facts. There are two sides to every story, both of which must be examined before we give our opinion. Our opinion should always be tem perately expressed. The tongue is an unruly member, and constant care is required on our part that it may be under control."

The attendance showed a slight increase over that of Tuesday.

Prof. Wright to Speak.

Prof. Henry M. Wright, head of the Department of Classical Languages at Yale, was a thirty-minute ar d at the Houston Half Auditorium this evening at 6:30 o'clock. Prof. Wright is an authority on Student Bible Study and teaches classes with a large audi ence to be present. Vice-Provost Smith will introduce the speaker. The regular "Dutch Supper" will be served at 5 o'clock and the several classes will meet as usual at the close of the lec ture.

Big Fistic Season Expected.

According to Coach Deckor, the box-ing outlook for this season is the bright-est in years. Greater interest is being manifested in the Strie art than has been for some time. In re-sponse to the call issued a week ago a large number of men have been re-porting daily, and Coach Deckor is much encouraged. Many big men have reported for the heavyweight class. The middle and lightweight classes are also well represented. All indications point to the most success-ful season which the organisation has ever had.
