GREAT RECEPTION TO BE GIVEN PROVOST AND MRS HARRISON

Undergraduates to Great Retiring Head of University at Tremendous Ovation To Be Held in Gymnasium on Evening of December Sixteenth.
Big Cup To Be Presented at That Time.

To honor Provost and Mrs Harrison, and to show how deeply the student-body appreciates their services to the undergraduates on the evening of Friday, December 16. At that time it is planned to present to the retiring head of the University and to his wife a handsome cup or some similar token of esteem.

Arrangements for the occasion have been completed and the gymnasium has been reserved for the evening of the day, and yesterday morning a committee consisting of various class presidents visited the Provost in his office at 4700 Fifth Avenue to receive his acceptance of their invitation to attend the reception. It was the first news he had had of the arrangements being planned, and the invitation took him by surprise. He readily gave his promise to be present.

The reception is an expression of the regard in which Provost and Mrs Harrison are held in the University, manifested throughout the University by the student body. It is an occasion—• a feeling that some great portion of the University is interested in, and that a "little man" to show how solidly the student body holds on to its traditions and how deeply it regrets the separation between him and the University. The president of all the classes of all departments of the University has been invited to come into a committee to take charge of the occasion, and to raise the necessary funds, for it will be necessary to carry through the plans which have been laid out. It is the opinion of the committee—and, evidently, of the entire student body, that no demonstration can be so successful, and no honor so valuable, as that made to the occasion which will long linger in the memory of those who attend.

The reception will be held all over the University during the next few days. There will be set up by the committee at fifty or more different places a collection box, in which every man on the campus will support the movement, and if this expectation is realized, it is hoped that some committee can be placed at the disposal of the committee. It is necessary that all funds should be in hand by the close of the present week or at least by the middle of the next week, for it will require about a month to make each such a cup as it is planned for the Provost and his wife. In order to achieve this end an energetic campaign is to be started at once throughout the University. Committees have been appointed in all classes to take charge of the raising of the necessary money, and every student will be personally interviewed. Plans for the cup are not yet being drawn up by a number of the prominent silverware firms of this city, and it is expected that by the end of the week the present vague ideas of just what the offering should be will have crystallized.

December 16th will be the official date for the reception because it comes at the beginning of the Christmas vacation, and because, at the same time, it is close in the season when the University is really going into effect. When the students return from their winter holidays, the head will in all probability be administer the affairs of the University. The idea which governed the selection of a date for the event is the feeling that the reception should be as close to the late in the term as possible.

Weighmann Hall is estimated to hold 3,000 students. It is expected that at least a majority of this number will attend the function. A program of some sort will be arranged and refreshments will be served and some sort of musical entertainment will be offered. Speeches will probably be made by prominent members of the officers of the University, as well as by leading undergraduates, who will speak for the various departments which they represent. It is planned to postpone all University activities scheduled for the evening of December 16th, in order, in no have no conflicting functions or meetings in which students may body away. It will be the last opportunity for the students to show their appreciation to great Provost Harrison, and probably the last time the students do this in his present capacity. It is expected that every man will be there that night, and that the closing which will greet the Provost and his wife, will be an appropriate and hearty one have ever resounded for any man on Pennsylvania.

VARASTY IN LIGHT PRACTICE.

Coaches Rest Team After Saturday's Game—Injured Men Improving.

The Yarsity is in good condition after Saturday's contest. However, several of its star players are recovering from injuries, strains and sprains. Scott was not in uniform yesterday. He suffered from a strained back and was grounded with a bandaged leg. But Hamash and Toth are both back and are expected to be available for a game tomorrow. Trainer Murphy told of an old gage which was not in uniform yesterday. He had received a lot of farewell greeting of the student body away. It is probable that every man will be there that night, and that the closing which will greet the Provost and his wife, will be a proper and hearty one that have ever resounded for any man on Pennsylvania.

THREE LECTURE BY DR. DE GROOT

Famous European Scholar Continues His Talks on Chinese Religion.

Prof. J. J. M. de Groot, of the University of Leyden, pointed out in the third of his addresses the power of the religious ideas yesterday some interesting theories in the belief of the Chinese. He explained that the idea of ability and to believe that man will eventually become God himself and create for himself a heaven in earth. This idea, according to the Chinese patriarchs, having attained the virtue of perfection, is absolutely invulnerable to cold, heat and all physical violence. Therefore, Dr. de Groot told of the Chinese who maintained that a certain man who lived alone in a cave for forty years having no food and water, had water at his age of 60 with only having his companions, and was a saint or a man-god. According to the story a tiger entered the cave on a pertaining day and devoured some of the tiger's food. This man was not in uniform yesterday. He had received a lot of farewell greeting of the student body away. It is probable that every man will be there that night, and that the closing which will greet the Provost and his wife, will be a proper and hearty one that have ever resounded for any man on Pennsylvania.

Pennsylvania Must Triumph

On Thursday morning the Yarsity football team, trainers, and Cinderella, will move over into New Jersey to spend the week in preparation for the Michigan game on Saturday. Under the same circumstances, the leader always goes to bat first. Single to hour speeches, in the interest of the game and to give a proper send-off to this departure in preparation for the hardest game of the season, there will be an important meeting at the Pennsylvania last night which is to be held at the School Law, market in the city, where several speeches on the line, forces on the way and bringing up the crowd. This will be followed by a picture man will be there with his usual material. This man will be there With his aroma and a sort of assortment of shows on the screen to be in charge of the buildings. The man who never reverberated through the tram confines of the Triangle will now come into the building of the College to scatter amongst Thee- m and speak to the students. It will be a great opportunity for the students to make one of the last appearances of the college game for the season. Captains Penn and Gower will arrive at the week-end, and every man will have something to say about the meeting.
