P. C. C. CANCELS FOOTBALL GAME.

Weather God Makes Field Impossible for Hark Team.

On account of the snow-covered conditions of Franklin Field, the annual Football-Pennsylvania football game scheduled for this afternoon, has been halted. As the fresh snow has not left the playing field, classes are not showboat adepts, suggesting for this Pennsylvanian the取消.

"Who" Murphy is in favor of putting the boys who have been left at home into the game and considers it too great a risk to fiddle with the game if the game is played in such rough weather. A meeting, at which the game will be fixed, will be held this afternoon.

enter our protest against his being at large by simply labeling him "nuisance."

His segregation in some costly furnished hotel ward is urged—or, at least, a seat during quiz hours in the darkest corner of the room, well away from his more normally minded fellows.

Taking our cue from past militant reformers who proffered their supposedly weaker brothers many varieties of "inducements," we have failed to label the virtues and values of uprightness, and then remembered the futility of combatting evil, we satisfy ourselves for the time at least—by decrying the use of a cudgel, there register a firmer belief in two distinct classes of students—the straightforward and the crooked.

A MODEST PROTEST.

The weak, like the poor, are always with us. We sigh over the fact, utter some feeble protest against their proximity, and accept the seemingly inevitable.

One particular form of weakness has made its annual debut and has already found its quota of devotees in the classrooms. Its elimination is apparently impossible; but a recognition of its existence is an aid towards its control.

Cheating seems too harsh a term for the malady. If we are to respect the Tender smiler of the afflicted, besides, we are taught that such mental traits and inclemencies are inherent in the "cheater;" are results of the characters and actions of his progenitors. The poor victim is not to blame for his sentence. Let us then beware the reign of this new evil and another the fact by calling it, say, fictitious representation or hocus-pocus circumstance; anything to keep the possessor of the unfortunate weakness from being wounded in his content and feelings.

But, though we shy from discussing the moral side of this troublesomeness and flee from judging its practical misjudgment, there is an element in it that provokes a gentle word of protest, and that is the inconvenience to which the neighbors of the circumventing one are put by his actions.

How shocking it is to one's personal pride to know that the sole reason for the friendliness of such-an-endowed student is that he may play the parasite!

The poor patient is not to bis bed hospital ward is urged—or, at least, to refrain from calling this man of declining mind a "nuisance."

HOCKEY IN FULL SWING

Daily Practice Games in Preparation for Swarthmore Tomorrow and Princeton on Saturday.

Favored by the cold weather, the 'Duty' hockey team has been kept on ice daily since Saturday. Practice has been held at St. David's, on the main line. Here the fifteen or more candidates have been tried out and coached under the able direction of Captain Hayden, but with the essential object to view of getting an idea of the ability of the candidates for the forward line and wings.

Yesterday's practice was the most satisfactory of the year. A strong combination lined up against the St. Luke's Preparatory School seven and a fast game resulted, although the Pennsylvanians made it work at will from their lighter opponents. During the afternoon several Red and Blue submarines replaced the St. Luke's players, and finally it became a hard-fought contest between two picked Pennsylvania teams. The practice was hard and severe, lasting two hours, but absolutely necessary to condition the men in time for the first important game of the season, which will be played with Penn. In last year's intercollegiate champions, next Saturday, at St. Nicholas rink, New York City.

Today all the candidates will report at nine o'clock to the B-3 Room, prepared for indoor practice. To-morrow there will be a regular game with either Swarthmore or Haverford College, probably

The injury to Hill's student's wrist is much more serious than was at first thought, and it may keep him out of the game for the entire season. It will be a very difficult matter to find a player to fill this place at right wing. The make-up of the team will be decided after Thursday's game.

POCONO LURES DELEGATES.

Eastern Colleges Select Mountain Resort for Future Conferences.

Delegations from nearby colleges, seated in solemn conclave in Houston Hall yesterday, unanimously decided that Pocono Pines, that beautiful mountain resort in Northern Pennsylvania, was the proper place for all future conferences of Christian workers in college ranks. The dates for 1914 are June 14 to 25.

State College has pledged to send forty men up to Pocono next summer. Princeton followed with a guarantee of fifty. Cornell about thirty, while the rest of the colleges, although equally enthusiastic, were unable to register their strength in numerical proportions.

Dr. Starr Gets Picture of Himself.

Dr. Louis Starr, a professor of children's diseases in the Medical School from 1881 to 1900, has been presented with a portrait of himself, painted by Joseph DeCamp, the well-known artist. This gift comes from a group of Dr. Starr's friends and former pupils, as a recognition of his greatness. The portrait will be shown at the next art exhibition in the Academy of Fine Arts, while public presentation is planned for University Day.

Debate Teams Elect Officers.

Samuel Beethoven, 1912 Law, was elected by his teammates to captain the affirmative team which will represent Pennsylvania in the Triangular League debates in February. The men on the negative team chose Henry L. Hyman, 1912 Law, as their leader.

Moral Campaign Reaches Law School.

Dr. Barton Conant Hirst, Professor of Obstetrics in the School of Medicine, will deliver a lecture on "Sexual Hygiene," at 2:30 o'clock today, in Price Hall Law School Building. The lecture is open to students of all departments.

College Jewelry.

Call at Pennum's and see his varied stock of Brooches, Hat Pins, Fobs, with College Seal, etc.

The Yale football team elected Howe, 1912, to lead the eleven next year. Howe will be the first quarter-back captain at Yale since the nineties.

"Never put off till tomorrow what you can do today." True. The 10 per cent. discount to Penn students applies on orders left tomorrow—but run no chances.

Go down to Jones' today, if there is any way to do it.

I AM ADAM

Regarding our special offer, expiring to-morrow, of a

10 per cent. discount to Pennsylvania students remember this, please, that before this discount is deducted, our prices are moderate for such high-grade-tailoring.

For fifteen or twenty years we have been saying, "Come In, look over the catalogue here: ask your friends who know Jones' Custom Tailoring how it compares in satisfaction and in cost with the work of any other tailor. If you wish, take a sample and make your own comparisons with any fabrics you can buy elsewhere at the same price. Remember that we absolutely guarantee style, fit and finish to be equal to our own, we will not, if we know it, allow any man to go away with a suit which is not right.

We suggest to you that you exercise values in this way. You will find it practically impossible to duplicate what we offer—even at our regular price.

The discount of 10 per cent to students at the University of Pennsylvania (from the 1st to the 15th of Deember) was offered merely to make a larger acquaintance there. It has served its purpose and will be withdrawn to-morrow.

Even without that discount, it is doubtful whether any Penn student who thoroughly investigates the question, would be willing to have his clothes made elsewhere.
