TRIANGULAR DEBATE TO-TIGHT

Affirmative Speakers Meet Columbia in Houston Hall, While Negative Team Competes at Iowa.

Pennsylvania's forensic artist will make his audience face a League Debate honor tonight when they debate the debaters from Columbia in Houston Hall and the Columbia Negative will be arrayed in the annual debate. The question to be discussed tonight is: "That the ownership of forest and mineral lands now owned by the Federal Government in the several states should be returned to the Federal Government." The decisions on this question will be held simultaneously tonight at New York. Philadelphia and Ithaca, between the members of the League, each defending both sides of the question. Pennsylvania's affirmative team is under Columbia's negative team in Houston Hall at 8 o'clock, while her negative team will be arrayed in debate in the same argument with Cornell's affirmative team. Because the affirmative and the negative debaters will uphold the question with the librarians on the offense. Pennsylvania's affirmative team has won both the affirmative and the negative side of the debates in the last three months. Unlike the Cornell and Columbia students, the Pennsylvania team has not been over-exposed, which makes its victories in the negative side of debate more meaningful. Pennsylvania's negative team is composed of Hyman M. Leffert, I. N. Mirea, S. R. Hodos, and John R. H. Hulse who is the manager of the team. He has taken the place of Joseph C. Fopp, who was forced to withdraw from the team because of an operation for appendicitis. Dr. Hulse was operated on successfully and is expected to be home in a few days.

The question of the debate in Houston Hall tonight is all are members of the League Debate Association. They are: Dr. Charles B. Pancoast, Charles B. Rhoads, John F. McDonald, Trumbauer, Sellers, Hennessey, Hall, Tyler, Darby, Finck, Hennessy, and the Architectural students have organized a Free Society which will attend the meeting and will cheer the affirmative and the negative teams as they make their speeches. The dormitories will be raised to cheer the affirmative team, while bar will be raised for the negative team.

LECTURE ON X-RAY.

Prof. Goodspeed and Dr. Pancost to Discuss Its Dangers and Uses.

The X-ray, its dangers and uses, will be discussed this evening by Professor Arthur W. Goodspeed of the Physics Department, and Dr. Henry K. Pancost, of the Medical Faculty of the University. The talk will be given in the Rand Morgan Laboratory of Physics, and will be profitably illustrated by experiments. The address is part of a series of free popular lectures which are being given under the auspices of the Medical School of the University.

Dr. Goodspeed, who is on authority on all questions relating to Physics, who will discuss the most recent developments of the X-ray. He will tell the audience what goes on when the fluorescent ray, which are known as the pulse rays, are ascribed to a new continuum theory. Dr. Pancost will demonstrate and discuss the effects of the rays, and give the facts and uses of the applications of the X-ray to medicine and surgery. He will also discuss the dangers in the use of the X-ray and the best method of avoiding them.

ZELLO PLAY SCORES SUCCESS.

Zelloy, a student for the next game, has his famous "hit in" in the game. The audience welcomed the Zelloy "standing-room only" sign which was in evidence. Many of the Faculty were present, and the Dean of the three departments witnessed the play.

John N. Haas, as David Garrick, made the bit of the evening. He was wonderfully easy and fluent. He could

Dr. George X. Coates.

Dr. Oborn (John Kur. Lewis. Thomas S. Walader, Jr., Dr. William T. Harris) will address the members of the Alumni. The lecture will be held at 8 o'clock the alumni will be entertained in banquets at the University and will reach the place at 11:00 and will be entertained at the University.

STAYING POWERS.
How it became necessary already to urge the candidates for the crews to stick at their work? When the call was first made a large number of men reported, but with less than a week gone by, the list seems to be already badly decimated, and some days see only half the men at work on the machines.

It does little or no good to come out, to put your name in the paper, and then to quit work. Perhaps a few men feel that this means trying for the crew. It is needless to say that it means no such thing.

Perhaps some others are discouraged because they see men trying for the best, who are heavier than they. But it is not always the big man who makes the oarsmen; in fact, a man can be too big for a place on the boat just as easily as he can be too small. A glance over the crews of the past will prove that many a small man has made good. The stroke of last year's "Varsity eight," Reath, is certainly not what could be called big; but there is no doubt that he is one of the strongest men Pennsylvania has ever had. Coach Wash is looking for men of all sizes. They all have a chance. But they must stick.

Winston Churchill, the noted author, is writing some time ago about Yale men and literary work. said: "All sections of the country are equally good, and the chances of advancement depend wholly on the individual and his staying powers. Your college is noted for these.

What face praise could there be toward? Staying power is one of the oarsman's chief requirements. It's a long, deadly, sickening pull down the course, a many a time. The man who had not grit and nerve and was at the same time an oarsman, never wins.

The opportunity to begin staying is at hand. You can't quit now and hope to stick in the race later on. And it is in a less a matter of quitting now, than it would be if you could pull when you were in the shell? Is it?
Dr. Kelly passes away

Dean Smith and Prof. Deaver Pay High Tributes to Decazced Member of Medical Faculty.

Dr. Aloysius Oliver Joseph Kelly, Assistant Professor of Medicine in the Medical School, and a widely known physician of this city, died at his home, 311 Pine street, at 4 o'clock yesterday morning. He had been seriously ill less than a week. He was stricken with influenza and complications developed. Every effort was made to save Dr. Kelly's life. He was attended by Dr. Joseph Bailer, Dr. John H. Musser, Dr. Alfred Blumberg and Dr. James Tyson.

Although he was only 41 years old, Dr. Kelly had achieved a reputation as one of the leading diagnosticians and practitioners of the country.

The profession and administration of the staff of the Medical School were greatly shocked at the news of Dr. Kelly's death.

"Dr. Kelly was one of the most valuable men in the department," said Daniel A. Smith, "his loss is almost immeasurable. He was one of the most brilliant and best equipped men in the faculty. I know of no physicist in the entire city of Philadelphia whose requests for future advancement are brighter than were those of Dr. Kelly.

"Dr. John B. Deaver, Professor of Clinical Surgery in the Medical School, yesterday reviewed the life of his deceased associate and friend and paid him a high tribute. He said, in part, "The death of Dr. Kelly must be regarded as a distinct loss not only to this community, but to the entire medical world. He was a man of brilliant parts, and by indefatigable industry he raised himself to eminence in his profession. His death comes at a time when the highest honors were well within his grasp. Within the last two years he had completed and published a textbook on the Practice of Medicine, which is regarded as the best, in many respects, that has yet appeared."

In connection with Dr. John H. Musser, he had edited the most recent extensive system of therapeutics. The reception of these works by the medical profession makes his lasting reputation secure. He was the author of a notable chapter on the Diseases of the Liver and Bilious Passages in Osler's Modern Medicine, and of numerous lesser contributions, all of which are characterized by intellectual greatness and scholarly form. He was the editor of "The American Journal of the Medical Sciences" one of the oldest and greatest medical periodicals. Previously he had edited the "International Clinics."

The death of Dr. Kelly was mourned by many within the Medical Faculty. It is one of the most irreparable losses not only to the medical profession, but to the community, but to the country, but to the entire medical world. He was a man of brilliant parts, and by indefatigable industry he raised himself to eminence in his profession. His death comes at a time when the highest honors were well within his grasp. Within the last two years he had completed and published a textbook on the Practice of Medicine, which is regarded as the best, in many respects, that has yet appeared."

The making of Full-dress Suits is an important part of our business because it seems as if every customer we have places an order with us.

This condition is due to our success in the fit, in the finish of the garments and the moderation in price. We make a 100% Silk-lined Suit at $14 and one at $15 is also a leader. Do not forget that this is no higher than a ready-made suit, the latter will be outgrown in a year perhaps, while ours will last five, owing to the fact that we provide large outlets. Which will you choose?

Perhaps you only need a coat? Or a white vest? Of the latter, we show a hundred patterns at $7 to $12.

In the interests of the students we have arranged with a large number of firms to give special prices, and we specially urge these, because they are the lowest that we can make any customer who will take advantage of them.

GYM. MEET AT HAFERFORD

Red and Blue Gymnasts Expected to Beat Collegians To-night.

The gym team will go to Haverford to-night for a gymnastic contest with the colonials, and tomorrow night will meet Lehigh at Wrightman Hall in their most important game of the season. Lehigh has an excellent team this season, and has four years in Captain R. B. Trenkle, Bailey and Pettit, and she has just been read- mitted to the Intercollegiate Association of Amateur Gymnasts of America, and expects to make a strong bid for the championship.

According to comparative scores Pennsylvania's representatives have a slight advantage over Haverford, too, for quite a show, they defeated N. Y. U. by a big score and lost to the stronger team after a game struggle.

In particular qualities Haverford has the greatest number of excellent performers. Haverford is especially strong in club swinging, in which Captain Phillips excels and expects to secure first place, Porter is a first-class tumbler and is expected to give Maxwell Perkins a hard run. A new man from Haverford, who was Middle States Intercollegiate champion last year, is said to be good on the bars, and Lehigh has had several years experience and ought to give a good account of himself.

Captain Kliney's ankle is still bothering him, so he will not be able to
