FRESHMAN SCHEDULE

CO-EDS AMONG BESIEGERS

PRACTICE SHORT, BUT GOOD

WORK OF WHARTON FACULTY

List of Fourteen Games Includes Important Contests — Only One Will Be Played at Home.

The Freshman base ball schedule for the coming season has just been announced, and Arthur W. Goodspeed, chairman of the Faculty Committee on Athletics, has issued the following schedule, which was arranged by Assis- tant Manager George Rea, contains fourteen games, out of which only one is to be played on Franklin Field. Many among opponents will oppose the Freshman prominent among which will be local schools as Penn Charter, Central High, High School for Girls, and Prep.

A number of Steele’s rugs have been announced, and April 22 Pawling School will be encountered, after which Delaware Valley, Lawrenceville and Meadville on the 25th and 26th, respectively. The first two games will meet the Yale Freshmen at New Haven at 3:30, and the last two by reason of Pennsylvania’s meeting, are on Jersey City, on May 15th. The more important games of the rest of the team are scheduled for May 26th and 27th.

In the ranks of the suffragettes who have been steadily building up their campaign during the past month, and who are now ready to cross the field toward the enfranchisement of women, are the hard-pressed deeds of women’s suffrage, as sent to their defenses Miss Alice Chase, Miss Mary Hall翰ingham and the Moses Har- ter and Sybil Dunbar. Miss Alice Chase, of Morningson, N. J., who took an active part in the effort of the London women to force Parliament to grant their suffrage, and who was thrown into open breach of their enfranchisement in that country because of her open fight against the suffrage movement at the University, but who did not go so far as to proclaim herself as having any part there, being a citizen of New Jersey. Miss Cherrington is the daughter of Professor Cherrington of the History Department, and is a graduate of the College of Physicians and Surgeons. Miss Hall翰ingham is also a graduate of Bryn Mawr, and has done a great deal to work for the suffrage cause this winter.

Miss Paul explained yesterday that although the vote had not been suffrage, it was still the effect of a club, as all of its members were suffragists. Paul said that the University girls were in favor of the vote, and the suffrage movement, sufficient to the one probiv-a of the club, but that they were enjoying the qualifications of both men and women, and that they felt that they could get the universal bill through, as it will involve less change.

Marshall, who missed much of the early part of the series, is working hard and is rapidly rounding into shape. He will be a valuable member of the team. The last game of last year’s Freshman team, is also a good man on the base line, and, as he is still healthy, is sure to make good. Clarke, the old Princeton player, has been showing up well. Coach Thomas supports his work this season.

Princeton and Meehan will be met a week from today in the first game of the season, and the scoring of the Red and Blue is awaited with much interest, as the teams will be made up of nearly all new men.

February "Punch Bowl" on Deck with Some Pleasant Reminiscences.

The latest number of the "Punch Bowl," the February issue, made its appearance yesterday. The "Punch Bowl" appears once an end to the discussion as to which of the canon must be adopted and put out on or before April lst. The cover, moreover, suggests a page of the past, or perhaps it is the elect of February after all.

Evidently, "Punch Bowl" still has the active support of the members, for the cover is the work of J. R. Shower, Jr., last year’s "Punch Bowl." Inside, the pages offer some very good glimpses of past work, the two sheets representing Weidmann Heidel, activities being very cleverly executed. Also the several photos of feminine beauty depicted would bear the inspection of many eyes.

Of the editorials, it might be said that a University bulletin of past events would serve to refresh the reader’s memory. Unfortunately the February issue could not be made a good venture in this line, as is shown in the column, but, unfor-

Kelvin Physical Club Meets Today.

The Kelvin Physical Club, today at 5 o’clock, will hold its regular meeting with a preliminary discussion of 126 typed versions and was prepared by the Committee on Athletics. The report advocates a careful study of the question of probable traffic. W. H. D. Cornish, professor of civil engineering and Francis G. Spence and Professor Johnson comprised the sub-committee on it.

The report states that the question of the canal has been a matter of 35,000,000. The cost of the canal will be $37,800,000. A careful study of the question indicates that the United States should be able to make a profit on the canal of at least $5,200,000 a year, and this, it is concluded, would probably make it a conservative estimate.

The terminal facilities now existing or provided for by plans under consideration for the Port of New-

cate that the canal should be made to 520. The Engineers found that the one of a scale of canal between New York and Philadelphia with a depth of 125 feet and a width of 18 feet will be at least 12 feet less than the value of the property lost along the Delaware, so that the following the last ten years, and this annual sum of five dollars of property will continue to be leased.

Dr. Crawford, of French Department, to discuss Literary Topics.

At the last meeting of the Cercle Francais it was decided to inaugurate the policy of presenting a literary program at each meeting, or of having some prominent man to speak, such as the French Consul, a professor of this University, or some prominent man from some neighboring college. In preparation of this plan, Dr. J. F. W. Crawford, of the French Department, will address the club this evening. He will speak on “Marie Leslie,” by Marcel Arom. This book was the literary sensation of the year 1896, and is truly a remarkable production, for it took ten years for its production and was written by a woman totally unknown to the literary world. Dr. Crawford is well qualified to speak on this subject, as he has a long and careful study of French literature in all areas, besides being a Professor of the Romance Languages.

At the committee’s request, the discussion on the poll of presenting a literal* program at each meeting was an address on “French” by Professor Schluntz, of Cornell University. Papers on the management and operation of libraries were read and discussed.

The meeting will be held at a quarter before eight on the third floor of Houston Hall.

Library Almanac Aid Meeting.

Five members of the University Library staff attended the heads of the various departments were present at the annual meeting of the Pennsylvania and New Jersey Library Association held in Atlantic City last Friday and Saturday. If the theme of the meet- ing was an address on “Historical” by Professor Schluntz, of Cornell University. Papers on the management and operation of libraries were read and discussed.

Two More Members of Last Year’s “Varsity Eight Unable to Row.

Cornell suffered another setback in its hopes of landing in 1911, when the intercollegiate rowing championship at Poughkeepsie last year when Phillip Hay, commander of the Cornell Navy, and Atkinson, No. 4, both of whom have rowed in the Varsity for the last two years, but were unable to row for the remainder of the year.

Of the championship eight of last year, five are now unable to row, the other three being Simon, Names and Reprague. However, prospects for develop- ing another strong Varsity team are not as gloomy as those which seemed to indicate, as Coach Courtney still has material almost as promising, although not so experienced, in the men who rowed on his speedy Junior Varsity eight of last year, and also on the Pennsylvania crew which won its race at Poughkeepsie, to say nothing of a host of candidates, many of whom have had considerable experience.

Out on the Schuylkill yesterday af- ternoon, Coach Ward had his five Carp- ets, three Pennsylvania crews and one Varsity four hard at work in the rain and hail. He is greatly pleased with the rapid improvement all the crews are making, especially the first ‘Varsity eight.
