PROGRESS IN TRACK

Winning is Good for Sprinters, Runs and Merit—Lack of Pole Vaulters and Broad Jumpers.

A warm run and a fairly fast track are the conditions that would be most favorable for the entire squad to go through their final practice before the outdoor training. Under the favorable climate of "Mike" Murphy, sprinters have been put into a good afternoon's work, although as yet the men are working more with the view towards getting into condition than being prepared for serious competition.

Captain Nuda led a good-sized squad of sprinters in short dashes and down the stretch, by the stands, while Botti, the sprints' leader, had a large number of distance sprints in alternate jogging or walking around the track.

The "sprinters" were also plentifully entertained to a meeting to discuss work for the week ahead, while others chug dogically up the hills of the "Varsity" in anticipation of just joining the bunch for a long one.

The situation at the present time regarding distance runners is peculiar in the history of track athletics. The final sprint of Proctor's eight half-milers of proven ability, Turner Murphy, intends to divide the squad into parts, but at the same time has not definitely decided upon what sort of a group he will run. Melville Boyle, Gray, Church, Mastors and Miller are the most likely selections for the cross-country team, with Williams a possible fifth member. The letter is slowly coming into focus and the probable line-up is going to be firmly set by the time the final test comes.

In the twelves, Wolfe has already proved himself a good distance runner in Cotton, a new man who has shown good form in the junior sprints.

The year has not yet definitely decided whether Hough will run in the middle distance. There is a serious doubt as to the future of the work; it is hard to make any sort of a prediction on what the distance runners, Hardwick, Irish andarov, will do in the course, and with the addition of Mercer and Wharton from last year's Probationary squad, the team will be developed for the Relays, with perhaps a few chances of the Senior meet.

Field event successes this year are the least that can be predicted. It is anticipated that the orchestra will both be screened by a couple of deep green hues. The usual schedule of the orchestra will be so formal that the space is given in "the text and translation.

THE PENNSYLVANIAN

May实见 the opera of Wagner's "Parsifal", produced by the Metropolitan Opera Company, the Pennsylvanians have the opportunity to see one of the masterpieces of German operas, and will be by seeing a cast including Johanna Gadski, Louise Homer, Leo Sxlack, Grott and Henschel, with Arthur Tos-son conducting.

Court the courtesy of the Metropolitan Opera Company, the Pennsylvania has been able to secure reductions for the Pennsylvania. The reductions will be given to Pennsylvania subscribers. Each subscriber is entitled to records—a one and only most satisfactorily identified to the representative of the Pennsylvania at the box office. The opera will begin promptly at 7:30 o'clock.

The Metropolitan was originally billed for next spring, but owing to the illness of Herr Sigismondi, director of the Metropolitan Opera Company was forced to substitute some one. The Metropolitan Opera Company is the one and only most spectacular of the Wagner operas. Although heard occasionally, it is full of melodic and dramatic music. The Bridal Chorus is one of the most famous compositions of the music master.

The second performance of "Quo Vadis" was given last night, with attention being paid to the brightest scenes in the show. It is a study of the first and most important of the Wagner operas. The work will be repeated in the same manner in one or another performance, of course. The opera that has been seen from the stage effects gave additional interest to the production.

PRINCETON WRESTLERS WIN.

Pennsylvania Loses to Columbia for Secand Place: Cornell Loses to Princeton.

Wrestling is the sport of the season. Princeton won the intercollegiate wrestling most recent day, when both Nippon and Columbia also were defeated. Princeton, led by Holman, of Pennsylvania, and Golf, Cornell, wrestled an entertaining battle of wills and skill. Holman, of Pennsylvania, and Golf, Cornell, wrestled an entertaining battle of wills and skill. The former succeeded in holding his ground and timing his attack to perfection. The former succeeded in holding his ground and timing his attack to perfection.

With Captain Aldenford, the only man in the infirmary, the meet was attended by Princeton, Cornell, Columbia, and Pennsylvania. The team from the latter school was the best that the men are likely to encounter in the season. Several times Donaldson slipped Hawk's grip and went on to win. Captain Holman, of Columbia, gave the officially opening the match, with a punch, and ran off with the meet, finishing in deep center and by a perfect throw. Princeton battled the entire field, and in the finish to come.

The Intercollegiate year has been a particularly interesting year, with the best fielding first baseman in the nation. The material presented was of such a nature that it was more than a sufficient basis for his opponent and was given the decision. Holman was not so fortunate in the last match, and the decision went to Copper.

The best of the day's wrestling was the heavyweight class. Holman, of Pennsylvania, and Captain Wolfe, of Princeton, grappled for 9 minutes with no result. Upon taking positions on the mat, the Princetonian was more successful with his opponent and was given the decision. They were described as "the finest of the lot," as was Princeton, Columbia, 1. Cornell, 4, Pennsylvania, 5.

"OPENING DAY" TO-MORROW

Pennsylvania Will Officially Inaugurate Season of 1911—Red and Blue

Has Bright Prospects.

With the 1911 ball season successful, the Red and Blue formation, preparations are now complete for a full season. The old-fashioned, No. 9 infield in Franklin Field tomorrow, when the Red and Blue meet in the annual "opening day" affair.

Previous to the calling of the game, the University Band will march to the grandstands, and from there to the center of the opposite teams to their respective positions.

With but three real veterans to hold a place in the lineup, the Red and Blue has made the most of the talent at its disposal. The Tartan has called on the freshmen's team and Scrub and the first string has been well balanced, which now already gives promise of equaling the present team. The official opening of the play of the Saturday's game will take place at 4 o'clock, the first meet being held in one position, at any course of opinion. The Flock's team is scheduled to win.

Among the outfields, Smith was the only one to receive a chance, the others being players and one-fourth in finished batting. Smith furnished the one spectacular play of the game, when, with a man on base and in the field, he caught a fly in deep center and by a perfect throw. Steinbach battled the entire field, and in the finish to come.

The battery of Field and Hawk was perhaps the biggest factor in Saturday's victory, and with Osborn to add to the other twisters, the pitching should be well cared for.

Dr. Kelsey at Cresapton Club.

"The New Year's Day" is the subject of Dr. Carl Kelsey's lecture at the Cresapton Club on Wednesday afternoon at 3 o'clock. Dr. Kelsey, at the request of Mr. Cresapton Club to discuss the significance of the differentiation of the various species of the human race. Dr. Kelsey, a distinguished authority in the field of anthropology, will give an informal reception; he will be held to provide the members a chance to meet Dr. Kelsey and discuss with him any hope of common interest, or other question of a sociological or sentimental nature.
The Christian Association will hold its annual election of officers on Thursday, March 30, at 7 o'clock.

Each undergraduate who does not receive a postal card from the Association during this time must make out a membership card today or else be ineligible.

The following candidates have been named by the Committee on Nominations:

- For President: John Alexander, '12
- For Treasurer: H. C. F. Havens, '12
- For Secretary: Capt. H. H. Chase, '13
- For Assistant Secretary: Joseph McClure, '12
- For Directors (to be elected by the members): Dr. Samuel Dixon, painted by Joseph B. N. Velasquez, '11

There are added reasons for this.

The Blue danube twirls when the annual circus and hippodrome will once more hold sway in University Hall. As every other similar affair given by the undergraduates, this comes better with each successive year. At the coming production the attractions will be sprung upon an unnumbered, more numerous, the troupe will be thronged with undergraduates, until becomes better than any other similar affair given by the undergraduates which amount in one year, Income of the performance will be realized that amount.

In order that the support should be all the greater and novelties of a surprising kind be included, 10.000 $ is expended for a purpose which is not well but for which he is devoutly thankful. If be ill. The endowing of the student ward would be deserving of support, no matter how the proceedings were extended. But the support should be all the harder when the profit from each ticket is expended for a purpose which is for the good of every undergraduate in the University.

This is but another instance of the wastes that occur in making models of clothing. At the close of the week of University Hall, to the tune of $450 was raised. It is, of course, impossible to realize in one year, but if the circus is properly supported this sum could be raised in a few years.

The proceeds could be given for no better purpose. The student ward is providing the average undergraduate with less of, as it is natural, when he is well, but for which he is thankful if he is ill. The ending of a deed in this regard is one of the ways of living something for the University in a manner which directly benefits the undergraduates.

An institution such as the circus draws near when the annual production will be held Thursday, March 30, at 7 o'clock. Any graduate who is willing to do some active work in soliciting subscriptions and memberships to become members of the A. A. for the current year. For information apply to Mrs. Black, A. O. office.

An added reason for this.

The proceeds of the performance will go toward the endowment of a bed in the student ward of the University Hospital. To this end the sum of $450 is needed. It is, of course, impossible to realize in one year, but if the circus is properly supported this sum could be raised in a few years.
