FOOTBALL SMOKER TO-MORROW.

FRESHERS TRAVEL TO CHESTER.

Meet Pennsylvania Military College This Afternoon.

The 1914 base ball team will meet the Pennsylvania Military College nine to-day at noon.

The Freshmen expect a victory, as the Pennsylvania College team is not considered strong this year. However, 1914 will not take any chances, and Sayre will start the pitching. The Freshmen have several changes in their Bats, Patrie and Rupert will play right and left field, respectively, in place of Adams and Of Osmon, this change is only for tomorrow's game.

The batting order of 1914 is: Barlow, Davis; Sayre, Bottig; and Scotch.
Y. M. C. A. OFFICERS DINE.

New Leaders of Association to Talk Over Next Year's Campaign.

Offices and secretaries of the Christian Association will hold an informal dinner tomorrow at the Central Branch of the Y. M. C. A., on Arch street, at 5:30. Every man is scheduled to make a short speech and plans for the work of the Association will be outlined. Mr. Clayton Cope, secretary of the Y. M. C. A. International Committee on Bible Study, will be a guest at the dinner. He will speak on religious activities as conducted at other universities.

Opportunities for Camp Leaders. The University Retirement Summer Camp, built on a five-four acre tract of ground located in the beauti- ful Pennsylvania Valley, will be officially opened on the 17th of June and will continue for nine weeks, September 2.

Each summer quite a number of students spend from two to three weeks at the camp, taking charge of the activities and recreations of the boys who attend. This year there will be a limited number of openings for capable students who want to spend a few weeks of their vacation in the outdoor life of the camp. Applicants should either see or write to Mr. W. S. Adams, '13 C, 3011 Locust street, or Mr. R. S. Baldwin, Houston Club.

BERGEY'S BOOK ON HYGIENE

Whether student, practitioner, or health officer, you will find Dr. Bergey's book most admirably adapted to your needs, for he has written his work with a full knowledge of your wants before him. The rapid strides made in our knowledge of the entire subject has rendered such a book as this a necessity, and Dr. Bergey's style lends itself particularly well to elucidation of the more difficult parts of the subject such as immunity.

APPROACH OF HAZING.

The playing of hazes under un- desirable, as well as facility, was not an unexpected move. It has been felt for some time that action of some sort was necessary, and the committee's decision was looked for.

With the new interfraternity rank- ing agreement in force now, fall con- ditions surrounding the Freshmen will change materially. Three months will elapse before fraternities can begin to exert their influence over the first year men, and it will be difficult at first for the new students to find them- selves, and make acquaintances.

Houston Hall is the natural place for the Freshmen to congregate, and one of the principal ideas in abolishing hazes was to give them un- restricted access to the club. Hence, class organizations, with the help of the Senior and Junior classes, can develop and grow rapidly as in the past.

Another thing that might aid materi- ally in locating the new men, and in placing them in their proper sphere, would be the assignment of a certain number of men to each Senior, who would advise and assist them in their work and actions on the campus.

Cloth may cry that this sort of cheerful is too delicate a mode of treat for the newcomer, but we think that it will prove far more suc- cessful than the "rough house" method, partly by an element that has nothing but the best interests of the University at heart.

Some method of adapting Freshmen to the campus must be devised in the near future, and it devolves upon the present Junior Class to hit upon some scheme that will give the Freshmen the necessary instruction without in- flicting upon them an exaggerated idea of his own value to the institu- tion.

A Good Vacation Job.

The Student Employment Bureau has a possible opening for a night clerk at a Summer hotel. Only men who have had at least one year's ex- perience at a well-known Summer house need apply.
BIG CROWD GREETS LOMAX

Houston Hall Packed with Enthusiastic Audience at Cowboy Ballad Lecture Yesterday.

"I'm the double-jawed hyena from the East,
I'm the bleeding, bloody blizzard of the West,
I'm the celebrated slinger, I'm the beast,
I can match a man half-headed while he waits."

"The cowboy sings when he is drunk, he sings when he repents, he sings all the time," said Professor John A. Lomax, of the University of Texas, in a lecture on "Cowboy Ballads" in Houston Hall yesterday afternoon.

The entire lecture consisted of recitations and songs in the original imitation of the plains. Their rendition held the students spellbound. Honor of the broadest kind and rich pathos followed each other in quick succession.

Dr. Lomax is the only authority on the real poetry of the West. He has collected all the ballads at first hand, taking them down beside the campfire and in the back rooms of saloons.

"The cowboy's verse," said Dr. Lomax, "tell of his of his loves, his sweethearts, of death which is always near him, of money and troubles and of good clear whiskey. His heroes are much of the Julie James type, the man that never lacks. He loves nothing so much as courage."

One of the most striking songs, showing the frank realism and the deep sublimity of the plains is that of a cowboy speaking to his lord as a mother would speak to her babe. Professor Lomax dwelt particularly on this humor and this pathos that frequently characterized the speaker. Fully five hundred people enjoyed the address.
