NO. 29 IS UP-TO-DATE

New Dormitory House Now Under Construction Has Everything for Student Comfort.

Dormitory House No. 25 has not been given a name, but it has every other feature that the most fastidious student could desire. It will embody up-to-the-minute notions of how student quarters should be equipped. Private bathrooms will be a part of four ante-chambers. All the public lavatories will be provided with as many basins as there are men, and each basin will be a small cabinet to hold brushes and soap.

The new building is the first of several to be built in a new style of architecture, but this will cause no harsh break from English collegiate design. The complete dormitory plans provide for a future South Quad, on which House No. 25 will be the first to face.

All houses opening on it are to be in the Tudor style instead of the Jacobean used throughout the present part. There will be no throughly, however, because the two periods will not side-by-side, and the Tudor cannot be seen except from the South Quad.

Very little of the familiar light colored stones are to be used on the new house. The molded joints and window copings are to be of brick like the wall. In place of the balconies between the dormers there will be a parapet wall with embrasures, behind which the third story will rise. Both and arched windows are numerous, and the window will be hung instead of sliding, probably with leaded panes. This quadrangle will extend out of the direct line of the east and west, and consequently it will be a spot quite separate from the Quad beyond the Triangle.

NEWS OF OTHER COLLEGES

One of the Carnegie medals for Service and Administration has been presented to a Bryn Mawr University Sophomore.

At last the "coeds" of the University of Minnesota have invaded the base ball diamond, but only to practice archery.

In honor of the hundredth anniversary of Detroit, the Edwin Booth Dramatic Club of Wisconsin will present a dramatization of "A Tale of Two Cities."

Walden Narrative Dickenson of Michigan's football squad was ordered off the field by Coach Yost the other day. "Your game is good on my nerves," said Harry Y.

"The public will think we are among the half-painted universities of the country unless we suppress harsh," said President Lawrence W. Illinius, in an address to the student body.

A Christmas concert trip to New Orleans is on the schedule of Columbia's Glee Club, and the Yale Combined Naval Club will travel to Brunswick, Me., at the same time.

EASY DAY FOR FRESHMEN.

Coach Miller Puts First Year Men Through Signal Drill.

With four backfield men still out of the game, Coach Miller gave the Freshman squad another real yesterday.

Only one team, the Varsity Freshman, was picked out of the thirty odd men on the field, and these were used in all new plays and kept running signals all afternoon.

A large part of the time was spent in drilling T. Merrell, who replaced Craig at quarterback, in getting the ball back to the runners. Craig, the big tackle, was in the lineup again, while Conover replaced Craig at center. Though new at the position, he made good progress, from his accurate passing. T. Merrell continued his ace-center form, which far surpasses any seen on the Freshman team this year.

Coach Miller went in at quarter for a chance to show the men how to get off quickly. By the end of practice the plays were being run off much more speedily and with less of the fumbling which has spoiled the team's work at critical moments. The line-up: Backfield, left end, Crone, left tackle, Frawley, left guard, Conover, center, Kobe, right guard; Journeay, right tackle, King, right end; T. Merrell, quarterback; Wilson, left halfback; Avery, right halfback; Lee, full back.

At a meeting of the tennis team yesterday, Harold W. Page, M. R. M. '17, was elected captain to succeed R. Thayer. Page, a member of the team which represented the University at the Intercollegiate Tennis Championships last year, and is the present title holder of the University Tennis Trophy.
