AQUATIC MEET WITH CORNELL

Swimming Team Rounding Into Shape for the First Collegiate Competition of the Year

The Intercollegiate swimming meet on Pennsylvanians' schedule is the first with Cornell, and is to be held at the University pool on January 12.

Coach Kistler is working hard in his attempt to develop a team that will uphold Pennsylvania's high reputation in the swimming world. Dr. Ira C. Wild, the holder of the plunge record, will compete for the team. There is just a possibility that Cuest, who was third in the hundred yards, may return to college. He was forced to leave earlier in the year on account of illness.

Outsiders and Marsville have been chosen for the relay team. The other two places are still vacant. R. S. Douglass is fast enough to swim, but looks like a likely candidate, while B. J. Linton is not quite so good. For the event, Taylor, Smith, Lawrence and Wright, with the others, will fill the rest of the events.

Valsey's team is archaic this year, while Frettenon is better than ever. A water polo game will be held in connection with the meet. The conch is issued a call for more men for this branch of aquatics.

FENCING SCHEDULE COMPLETED.

Harvard, West Point, Navy and Yale
Among Number of Competitors.

Manager Colson, of the fencing team, has completed the schedule with the exception of two open dates. The fencing team has been doing the best work this year, with the exception of the Harvard team. The Harvard team has been going full fall out, and, under the coaching of M. Toreme and the leadership of Captain Daleholt, the team is expected to show up well against such adversaries as Yale, Harvard, West Point and Annapolis.

Up to date, there are six last year's second team, and three, a new one, have been doing the best work.

There are several other teams rounding off their forms and the Pennsylvania team of the first class, the team will be in prime condition.

February 3—Marquette, away.
February 5—Marquette, away.
February 16—West Point, away.
February 17—Annapolis, away.
February 24—Navy, away.

March 21—Intercollegiate Championship, at Annapolis.
March 25—Intercollegiate finals, at New York.

INDIAN CHIEF VISITS MUSEUM.

Returned with Dr. Speck from Maine to Pass on Indian Relics.

Ex-Chief Gabriel Paul, of the Penobscot Indian tribe of Northern New England, has come from Maine to visit this city, where he has been doing the best work upon the ethnological collection of his tribe at the University. Paul, who is in the city he will be the guest of Dr. Frank G. Speck, to whom he has been the Section of General Ethnology in the Department of Anthropology.

For the past few years it has been the custom of Dr. Speck to visit the Christmas holidays with the Penobscot tribe, which is located at Passadumkeag.

He has just returned this year and with him has come his distinguished visitor. The collection is well informed in the ethnological history of his people, and is a valuable aid in light in examining the archaeological remains and ethnological industries on exhibition at the Museum. He will be in charge of the works with Dr. Speck, during which season he will visit the entire University.

PLANS COMPLETED FOR NEW DENTAL BUILDING

Ground to Be Broken in Spring for Fine Building Made Possibly by Generosity of Dr. T. W. Evans.

WILL BE READY FOR USE IN 1913.

Plans for the construction of the Thomas W. Evans Museum and Dental Building have been completed. This building was made possible by the generosity of Dr. T. W. Evans, and which he left the property, with several millions of dollars, to be used as a memorial to himself. For many years the property, situated at Fortieth Street and Spruce streets, was involved in litigation, but was finally cleared through the effort of the Thomas W. Evans Museum Association and the present school. The plans were submitted by John T. Dunsheen of Chicago.

The style of architecture will be "Collegiate Tudor," the same style which was used for the Dormitories and Law School of the University. The interior will be the most modern type, and will be provided with an up-to-date dental operating system. One of the important features will be the separate floor of the north building, which will be fitted up with 131 chairs, each equipped with an electrically operated chair and heating and hot plate. A special exhibition room will be provided in the basement which will be the latest obtainable apparatus and a dentist's model office. A special room for the dental attitude will be the research work, for which purpose a room on the second floor will be given.

A large room occupies the east half of the Spruce street wing, which will be fitted with a stone and brick, and will be made as fire and burglar proof as is possible.

The biggest single gift of the Evans collection will be stored in a library-type room, which will be located at the east end of the Spruce street wing, and will be fitted with the most up-to-date dental instruments, which will be used for the exhibition purposes of the institution, as it will contain relics and objects of the kind that is in the finest condition during his life in the Pennsylvania State University.

The permanent collections will be made up of gifts given by royalty.

A large library will be situated in the south wing on the second floor of the north building, which will be equipped with the best library equipment.

The main entrance for the students, mechanical and scientific offices and laboratories for the Pennsylvania State University.

C. E. SOCIETY MEETS TO-NIGHT.

E. H. Shoemaker and F. P. Pritchett to Give Illustrated Talks.

E. H. Shoemaker, '18, capital of the "Veneer crew," and F. P. Pritchett, '13, of the Civil Engineering Society, will be the speakers at the meeting of the C. E. Society to be held in the Engineering Building.

To be given is an illustrated talk on "Cap and Case jaw Jitters," will be Shoemaker's topic.

The talk will reveal the experience which he gained during his recent assignment for some concrete construction work for the Pennsylvania Railroad. Information will be Serve.

THE PENNSYLVANIAN

after the lull

The holiday season ceased somewhat of the heat of interest in athletic affairs about the University, and the absence of any vacation trip has made the usually all the more apparent.

With the return of contests, interest will of course revive, but it is to be hoped that the interval will not slow as it has been at times in the past. The games with the Indians to morrow night mark the real beginning of the basketball season, and it is quite necessary to give the team a good send-off. The unfortunate outcome of the Princeton game has made the work of exploring the intercollegiate championship all the more difficult, and, while the Carlisle contest is not a league game, it is imperative that the team receive the support so necessary that teams are beginning to shape for the bigger games later along.

There are fewer games at home this year than usual and students will have small opportunity to witness contests outside of the league series. This should be all the more of an incentive to a large attendance to morrow night.

the ivy

There has been a little comment heard about college concerning the holding the Ivy Ball in January. Criticism has been directed at the committee from some quarters because it is alleged that the affair is scheduled too early in the season and that it will interfere in some degree with the Sophomore Dance.

These factors were taken into consideration when the committee decided to make the change. It was felt that the biggest dance of the year naturally should take place during the height of the season, and that its interference with the Sophomore would practically amount to nothing.

Moreover, it would allow many to participate who would otherwise be prevented from attending because of athletic training and Music and Wir. Art, the weather under Kaiser is often too warm to make dancing in the Gymnasium a comfort, and that the change makes this objection practically impossible. It would seem that the committee has made a wise move in setting the date for January 15.

MEMORIAL TO MICHAEL CROSS.

Subscriptions Being Sought for a Fund in Memory of Music.

Subscriptions for a memorial to Michael Hurley Cross, the composer and conductor, who died here in 1907, are being taken by a committee of music lovers, of which Mr. Church, a Trustee of the University, is the head.

Although the form of the memorial will depend largely upon the outcome of the subscriptions, it will probably include a scholarship for music in the University, and a bursary has been donee of the year in aid of the Princeton gams has made the apathy all the more apparent.

Subscriptions will be taken by

SHELTON BALE, Jr., 13.

W. S. WARD, 13.

For the benefit of the Princeton gams has made the apathy all the more apparent.

University Club Banquet.

The University of Pennsylvania Club of New York will hold its annual banquet in the Waldorf-Astoria grand ballroom on Friday, January 7. The guests will include President Dr. Hayes, Mr. Fiske Smith, Ph.D., Nell Vice-President, Jacob Hamer Pennock, Ph.D., LL.D., Hon. John Noble Thompson, Hon. of Pennsylvania, Hon. W. S. Penrose, former Governor, and John C. Bell, former District Attorney of Philadelphia; Chauss Carro, former President; Edward T. Storey, Z. William White, M.D., and Malcolm I. Clerk, Randall Morgan, George Wharton Pepper, Samuel P. Huntington and Dr. P. W. Mitchell.

Strong Carlisle Team Hopes to Win its First Victory from Red and Blue Five.

After enjoying an extended vacation of over two weeks, Pennsylvania's basketball team will play their first contest of the new year with the Carlisle Indians Saturday night, in Wrighton Hall.

A great game should result, as the Indians have never yet succeeded in defeating a Pennsylvania basketball team, but this year, with such players as Thorpe and Powell, the football stars, and Wheelock, of last year's team, they are confident of securing revenge for their past defeats.

The Red and Blue team will be practically the same as in former games, with Captain Walton and Jemieret at guards, Pierce at center and Turner and Heiser performing at the forward positions. Captain Walton is placing in blue style at guard and Berg-ner has earned another tryout at forward by his good work in practice for the past week. Another player who is likely to receive a chance in this game is Kennedy, the big football man, who has shown up surprisingly well in the recent practices for a man who has never played basketball.

The Freshmen will tackle the St. Joseph's College team of Philadelphia in the preliminary game.

RUSSIAN BALLET TONIGHT.

Mordkin Presents "The Russian Wedding" and "The Lake of the Swans."

Mordkin and the Imperial Russian Ballet are with us again tonight. The favorable appearance of this troupe of dancers will be divided into three productions of the order that has assumed the proportions of a find during the last few years. Assisted by such capable artists as Alexander Val- shale and Lena Gofar, Mordkin has cared more for equal talent during the present season, and has been well received throughout the country. His first appearance in Philadelphia was marked by good houses and a full share of appreciation. The same pro-
