Fielding errors—Nicholson goal third, a goal second, accepting his four chances without an ooe and he appears to have the fall for that position. Waverly playing shutting for the Scrun and did well. After the game he and Minds were quite well worked in the short field, and it looked like a close between the two team. Battie showed up well at third and in addition to being a first baseman he was pringing for a pair of sluggers.

The last two last innings for the Westend and did well, considering the way the game developed. The team during the fourth inning he broke up a three run and six runners with a home run and a two-out error. The game was won in the first two games to eight.

Grateful.

It seems as if the Magnif seat has come to life, folks. In Philadelphia, Mr. Starboard's majestic financial and artistic interests entitle him to the limelight. This event in the University has a special good cause to become a part of him, and with the close of the open season it is likely that the man in the black suit will be in a debt of gratitude for his philanthropic generosity. The open season extended to members of the University, and it is known that the interest shown in the overcoats is exceeding everything.

Flowers are the real, heartiest, greatest, and the best of all the events at which he has engaged.

CRICKET CALL, MARCH 23.

Cricket in Quadrangle Will Be Presented Before That Date.

Manse Drive expects to make a call on the Quad on Sunday, March 25. As last year's practice goes on, the same or an improved game will be made in the Quadrangle under the supervision of another one. The manager is now busy in compiling his schedule. It will be announced in a few days.

The cricket team, which will be held with Haverford and some of the Canadian universities this season at Philadelphia will be played on the grounds of the various cricket clubs in this city. On Franklin Field cannot be used for the season, as no crowd could be held there. The field itself is also small for cricket matches.

and absorption and concentration of business enterprises might be permitted when not incompatible with the public good." The speaker then suggested that an Industrial and Laber Commission, in charge of labor disputes as well as the application of the Sherman Law would be desirable.
"If we will submit our national problems to proper commissions for solution, the much needed healthy cooperation is likely to be brought about. Fortunately, the tendencies seem to be in that direction. In every phase of life, we can expect such cooperation," Mr. Guggenheim arrived in Philadelphia from New York shortly before noon. He was accompanied by his son, P. Rothschild, and by his son. Following the address, Professor Smith entertained them, to-

WRESTLING TEAM PICKED.
Men Will Leave To-morrow Morning for Intercollegiates in New York.

Coach Emil Beck yesterday announced the team that will represent Pennsylvania in the Intercollegiates Wrestling Meet, to be held in the Gym nasium of Columbia University, New York City, tomorrow afternoon and Wednesday. The team represents the best available talent in the University, and is stronger than any combination that has represented Pennsylvania this season.

In the 115-pound class, Kretschmer entered for the first and third time.
He wrestled in the Intercollegiates last year and succeeded in winning several dollar in his weight, but narrowly missing the championship. He has wrestled but one match this season, winning his last in the Princeton meet of last Friday.

Dickson will wrestle at 123 pounds, and has been particularly successful all season. He should have no dif-culty in winning both his bouts tonight.

In the 135-pound class Smith, who had been picked for that position, will be unable to wrestle and his successor has not as yet been chosen. Williams, who has wrestled at 125 pounds during the season, and Mar-clay are available for the place, and one or the other will be chosen this afternoon. Both are good men, are fast and aggressive, and either should not put up a hard fight in the Intercol-legiates.

Onslow Motley is again entered in the 145-pound class. Last year he succeeded in capturing second place in his weight in the Intercollegiates, but has not been in the heat of form in his previous bouts this season.

He will wrestle at 125 pounds.
He has been wrestling well all year and should make a strong fight to place tomorrow.

In the 150-pound class Todd will represent for Pennsylvania. He was entered in Interstate and National tournaments, but has not worked much this year owing to the requirements of his studies. Coach Beck expects him to capture the championship to-morrow.
Hogg will wrestle in the heavyweight class. He is the best man available at this weight and should put up a good exhibition in the meet.
