MASCOT AND WIG LINE STARTED

Miscellaneous Crowd of Students and Scalpers in Line for Patronage Sale on Saturday—Boxes Allocated.

Since yesterday at noon, Patrons from the various fraternities, under-alumni in general and the employees of the ticket agencies have been standing in line at the Mask and Wig club house. The patronage sale of tickets for the Easter Week performances starts at 7 o'clock this morning, which gives three days and nights of work on Saturday.

Last year feeling between students in line for the representatives of the various ticket offices became so strained that the police were necessary to avert a pitched battle. From present indications this year's line will be in the same condition, as for the first time the spaces are filled with great foment from the southern section of the city, who may be heard hollering by 5 o'clock this morning.

Theatre extends quite a distance along Quince street and is being rapidly augmented by increasing numbers.

All the boxes in the Chestnut Street Opera House have been taken for Easter Week parties and celebrations. In addition to several fraternities holding boxes, many people have engaged for box parties and a brilliant throng will attend every performance.

The list of box-holders is as follows:

Monday evening, April 12—Procure Edgar P. Smith, Mrs. Davidson Kennedy, Mrs. W. H. Clark, Jr., Phi Kappa Psi Fraternity, Mask and Wig Club, Mrs. Samuel P. Houston,

Tuesday evening, April 9—J. K. Mohr, Mrs. Z. L. Libbert, George H. Cliffe, Charles T. Robinson, Miss Rose

DRAMATIC SOCIETY ORGANIZED.

New Organization Will Write and Produce Plays—Backed by Faculty.

Fifteen students and four faculty members of the Faculty met in 16 Bodine House, last night, and formed a temporary organization of the first attempt that has ever been made at the University to for-y a society devoted to the writing and production of plays. Paul M. Bonton, 14, was elected temporary chairman, and two committees were appointed by him to set the new move forward in the way—one to draw up the contract and the other to contact with the University authorities regarding the use of the proposed premises. Tentatively, the name of the Philadelphia Dramatic Club was adopted for the organization.

Letters have been obtained from the Yale Dramatic Association and the Harvard Dramatic Society. Both of these well-known clubs sent their best wishes for the success of the University undertaking.

Efforts to secure alumni "funds" in increased the student body, and Dr. J. P. Wickersham Crawford and Mr. Rudolph Allrocchi, of the Language Department, and Dr. J. H. Quine and Mr. T. A. O'Brien, of the English Department, were present. Dr. Quinn told of a somewhat similar society which he had seen at Madison, and Mr. O'Brien spoke on the technical phases of the actual work.

The Dramatic Club's activities will be directed in two channels on which several artists will be laid. One is the writing of plays by undergraduates, and the other, the production of plays.

The production will be written by, if the offers are viable.
If not, the work of undergraduates will be assisted, and if these submitted are not satisfactory, outside sources will be called upon. The writings of contemporary playwrights are strongly urged. The Pennsylvania Dramatic Club was the first society of its kind. In 1912, a "Garrett Club" was organized sim-ly for the production of plays.
Nothing
from contemporary dramatics that after two plays had been staged, and the club elected newly as a broader range. It has been organized for many years, and the members have been most successful in the front of college drama.

ALUMNI SUPPORT.

The strength and efficiency of any University depends upon the loyalty of its undergraduates and alumni. Real college spirit does not end with the graduation exercises. Men who love their Alma Mater will not forget her everywhere. They will always try to appeal to them to support. Pennsylvania is need of support and she appeals to her sons who have won time and fame in the world. The first response from the members of the President's Committee was prompt and generous, and with each man directing the movement for the society is in need of support and sho-crystallization of Pennsylvania spirit among them, the prospects are more encouraging than anything that has ever been before in the history of the University.

Efforts to secure alumni "funds" in

Masks and Wig Line Started Marauders' Crowd of Students and Skaters in Line for Patrons' Sale on Saturday—Boxes Allotted.

The Most Beautiful Venue in the City
The handsome new college auditorium, with its spacious orchestra, is the perfect setting for the opening night of the school year's entertainment. The line already extends quite a distance along Quince street and is being rapidly augmented by ever-increasing students.

Since yesterday at noon, freshmen from the various fraternity, underclassmen in general and the employees of the ticket scalpers have been standing in line at the Mask and Wig Club house. The patronage sale of tickets for the Easter Week performance starts at 7 o'clock today morning, which gives those days and nights of waiting on your conscience.

Last year finding between students in line and the representatives of the various ticket offices became so serious that the police were necessary to avert a pitched battle. From present indications this year's fare will be in the same condition, as for the most part the places are filled with great enthusiasm from the south section of the city, who are not handicapped by 5 o'clock hours.

The line extends quite a distance along Quince street and in being rapidly augmented by ever-increasing students.

The scenes in the Chestnut Street Opera House have been taken for Easter Week parties and celebrations. In addition to several fraternal holding boxes, many people have engaged the square for box parties and a brilliant throng will attend every performance.

The list of box holders is as follows:
Monday evening, April 4—Protestant Episcopalian Church, Smith, Mrs. John B., Miss F. A. Weit; Mrs. E. W. Clark, Jr., Phi Kappa Psi Fraternity, Mask and Wig Club, Mrs. Samuel P. Houston.
Tuesday evening, April 5—J. E. Meier, Mrs. J. B. Bickel, George H. Sail, Charles T. Robinson, Miss Rosanne Miller.
Wednesday evening, April 6—William A. Starr, Thomas J. Clark, Miss Mary E. Johnson.
Thursday evening, April 7—Miss A. M. Bickel, Mrs. John Price Wetherell, Miss Clementina Bower, Miss Norma Gray.
Friday evening, April 8—Oscar A. Miller, Mrs. Frank E. Elkins, Miss Howard Fairmont, Mrs. Lewis Tolson.
By Saturday evening, R. W. Wading.
