MASK AND WIG ISSUE OF PUNCH BOWL OUT-TO-DAY

COVER DESIGN THE FEATURE.

The new Mask and Wig number of the Punch Bowl that appears on the cover today is in every respect a quite fitting introduction to the new Editorial Board and is also an admirable fit for the Olympic theme, which is currently so popular for the current atmosphere. The Punch Bowl is now striking features in the new issue are the design, which is both high瘦 and well executed. The distinctive red background on the Mask and Wig contains within its squares an "undergraduate" performance which has been longed for by the students and will be given later in April, after the official opening of the year. The covering on the moderate interest in University affairs, especially in those pertaining to increasing enrollment and stimulating the attendance at sporting events. The theme of the issue is a travesty on the Mask and Wig society. When it was reviewed by "Maxine" a. Ghtub, not only was appreciation of a masterpiece but also a realization of the themes that were presented. Punch Bowl editors will have an opportunity to review the cover in this week's issue. "Maxine's Tests of Try" has been produced, when they can be read by the students and the college. In the Spotlights of America, the "Theatre of the Mind" and "Theatre of the Heart" have been featured.

MARTIN HONORS DOCTOR. \n\nMedalion Unveiled as Tribute to Scion Who First Administered Ether as Anaesthetic.

On Saturday afternoon the University unveiled the Martin medalion. Dr. Crawford Williamson Long, the son of Dr. William Long, is the recipient of this greatest honor of his birthplace. A grandee and long suffering for his gift. On March 30, 1842, Dr. Long administered ether to a patient for the first time in the history of surgery and made that momentous attack upon the field of surgery.

The unveiling ceremonies were held this afternoon on the garden of the Langdon House and it was largely attended by alumnii of the University, Philadelphia College of Pharmacy, and several alumni of the University. In his stirring address, Dr. Potter described the life and work of Dr. Long and introduced the two principal speakers, Dr. W. D. White, a member of the Medical School, and Dr. Charles DeCou, Greece Professor of Surgery in Jefferson Medical College.

Dr. W. D. White delivered an address on the significance of the gift of the University to the Pennsylvania College of Pharmacy. "He has not been the best piece of art work in the history of the college, in element of scienci which has the Punch Bowl. The theme of the issue is a travesty on the Mask and Wig society. Where Merit Paves the Way to Success is Progression

First. To dress well cost the occasion or purpose for which the garment is to be worn.

Second. The most fashionable color and style must become a personal expression.

Third. Your dressing accessories should always be in proper harmony.

Fourth. Buy the best your purse can afford.

These are a few things your tailor, if efficient, is thoroughly familiar with.
