SOCIETY BEGINS SESSIONS.

University Professors to Read Papers at Meeting of Philosophers.

The annual convention of the American Philosophical Society will begin this morning at the society's headquarters, 1119 North Fifth street, and will continue through Friday and Saturday. Saturday night the annual dinner of the organization will be held in the Bellevue-Stratford Hotel. Thursday evening the session will be held under the auspices of the Philosophical Society of the Franklin Institute, American Chemical Society and the American Gas Institute, in the auditorium of the Franklin Institute.

Several of the University Faculty members will read papers at the various sessions. Dr. William R. Newbold, Professor of Philosophy at the University, will read a paper on "Becquerel and the Odes of Solomon" at the afternoon session today. Many other papers of historical nature will be read at this session, all by distinguished men of various universities and historical institutions.

The centenary of the introduction of gas as an illuminant will be observed on Thursday evening. Several papers will be read and a general discussion will be maintained on the manufacture of gas, and its progress will be described down to the present period.

Among the speakers of international fame who will speak on biology, botany and medicine Friday afternoon will be Dr. John W. Harbarger, Professor of Biology at the University. His subject will be "The Sargassum Sea."

Condition for membership in the American Philosophical Society will be balloted upon Sunday afternoon. After the paper on gas, a general feature will be read, among them being a paper on "Chemical Relations of Solutions," by Dr. Horace C. Richards, Professor of Mathematical Physics at the University.

Saturday afternoon wealthy amateurs will discuss problems of the science, the whole discussion receiving itself a symposium on stellar, spectroscopy. During the entire convention all latest discoveries of systematic research will be described and an impromptu discussion given for a further search into the mysteries of the departments of science.

THE COSMOPOLITANS.

Dress Rehearsal for Performance Friday in Houston Hall Last Night.

In the auditorium of Houston Hall last night the Cosmopolitan Club held their final rehearsal of the "Cosmopolitan," preparatory to the final production in the New Century Drawing Rooms on Friday night.

S. C. de Silva, who wrote the piece and who is also taking the leading part, was, however, not aware of what was going on and promised to see two or more novelties that ought to make the piece rival the Mask and the Automaton. There will be fifteen nationalities represented on the stage.

The money realized from this production will be used to help defray the expenses of the delegates of the Cosmopolitans of the different colleges and universities, who have formed themselves into a national organization.

The president of this association, John Hart, is a member of the Cosmopolitan Club of the University of Pennsylvania, and the national organization will meet in Philadelphia in December of this year.

Already the sale of tickets has assuaged the anxiety of the piece, and many prominent names appear on the list of patrons. The cast finally selected is as follows:

Mr. Chamberlain, Mr. F. G. Gabriel, Miss Harper, Miss Harper, Half Chapman.

Hitting the Dirt—requires the quick brain, the keen eye and the clear judgment which can only come of a healthy body and steady nerves. The fellow who "beats out" infiel hits and "stretches" singles into two baggers is the man whose brain, brain and nervous system are properly nourished.

Shredded Wheat
is the all-around food for the all-around athlete because it contains the food elements which build up the entire body.
Served with fresh fruits or simply with milk
and cream, SHREDDED WHEAT is unexcelled in deliciousness and digestibility. It is the perfectly balanced food for student and athlete alike.
