Gotham Press Hails Mask and Wig

"Miss Helen of Troy," the twenty-fourth annual production of the Mask and Wig Club, which opened last night at the New Amsterdam Theatre, New York, received such an enthusiastic reception that it achieved the greatest success and won the admiration of the New York newspaper critics that is the glory of any musical production in New York City.

The lengthy and extremely favorable reviews that appeared in all of the papers came as a joyous surprise to the "Wiggers" themselves and to the undergraduates at the University, for, while they had great faith in the merit of "Miss Helen of Troy," they had been afraid it might be ignored by the general public. In fact, much money had been raised solely in order to get the New York papers to pay attention to the production. Yesterday, however, all fears were laid to rest.

Two performances were given yesterday from New City, Wilkes-Barre, Washington papers came as a joyous surprise to the best show of the faculty of the Belfry at the University, for, week, have been heard of the Mask and Wig's reception.

"Miss Helen of Troy's" Valetudinary University Night at Garrick Theatre This Evening Marks Close of Season

Tonight is University Night at the Garrick Theatre, where the last Mask and Wig performance of the year will be held. The final footlight appearance of the Mask and Wig Club will be presented before an audience composed of the entire faculty, students, and friends of the University, and the alumni. The Mask and Wig Club will give a special farewell to the music of "Miss Helen of Troy." The last night of the season will have the University Night on record.

It is not quite true of New York, where two performances were given, but the chorus and cast are in fine trim to put on the best show of the year. Special criticisms of songs in the show which made such hits in the New City, Wilkes-Barre, New York and here during Koster week have been improved.

certain speeches will be called for as Mask and Wig shows for seven more performances.

E. H. Buc, who has played in Kask and Wig showed seventeen years ago, has returned to the University of the show, in which he was a leader in any previous production. Town and country, it is asserted, are some of the chorus stars; and songs and dances of the show are expert dancers and have attended to the above shows entire.

With such a number of actors, it would seem strange to find a mask and Wig production, the performance a real hit, and a success without being regarded as a "Miss Helen of Troy." The show may still be obtained at the Garrick Theatre before the end of the season.

After the first relay it was a race between Princeton and Pennsylvania, and the two teams ran neck and neck until one hundred yards from the finish, when Bredin splintered past Hayes, the Princeton anchor man, and crossed the line first.
The one-mile race brought together the pick of the college running in the finals. In the last race, Reidelbach showed a wonderful display of endurance, to the surprise of many. He developed from the start, leading for the last one hundred yards. He was so sure of his victory that he started to run, but was forced to stop, and the finish was given to Reynolds, last for Pennsylvannia. In a fast quarter, but could gain nothing on the leaders.
McCullough won the 1,000 yards for Pennsylvania when he defeated Halsey, Michigan's last man, on the last lap. McCullough, who won in 4:27, probably won with a record.
The summaries:

YALE WINS SOCCER TITLE

Hard-Fought Game Goes to Elia by 2-0 Score—Contest Even Until Goal Is Made on Penalty Kick.

Yale won the Intercollegiate soccer championship Saturday afternoon by defeating Pennsylvania at New Haven by the score of 2-0. A light rain fell throughout the contest and made the ball extremely difficult to handle, although the ground was not heavy. The game was closely contested and it was not until late in the second half that Yale scored the points that gave the Elia the title.

Pennsylvania played a close combination game throughout, and during the first half had its opponents completely at sea. The ball was constantly in Yale territory and forwards could not follow up their opportunities and the Yale goalie averted a score. Yale made several attacks on the Pennsylvania goal, but had no real opportunity to score. Things became tougher in the second half, although penalties were imposed. Yale was awarded a penalty kick because the ball touched Penney's hand while it was in the air. At 4:15, Penney tried the try into a goal. Yale followed this advantage with another force attack and Hill scored the only field goal of the contest with a beautiful shot from inside left. After this Yale was content to keep its goal out of danger and there was no further scoring. The score was 2-0.
