TRIANGULAR CREW RACE.

The crew management is to be congratulated on securing a revival of the Triangular crew race between Pen-sylvania, Columbia and Princeton for the Chidlo Trophy.

Up to the time of the discontinuance of the Chidlo Trophy race, nearly thirty years ago, the triangular meet was one of the biggest events in rowing. The teams were invited from the eastern, midwestern, and western con-tries, and there is an opportunity for renewal this year, not only because it removes rowing relations with Princeton and Columbia from certain of its university colleges in rowing circles, but also because it will come added interest to be attached to the already prominent place crew holds in the athletic activities of the University.

Arrangements have been made to hold the crew races immediately following the base ball game with Princeton, and this should assure the success of the effects of the Princeton Day Commitee at the annual spring meet.

May 15. Needless to say that every undergraduate in the University will be so on that train to give his outside support for Pennsylvania.

The Flunkers' punch bowl makes its appearance on the campus this morning. This issue is bound with tickets, illusttrations devoted to the "Flunkers" and his friends.

There are two travesties, "The Crow," according to Shakespeare's "Blue Bird," and the "University of the Blue Gingham," a poem. Both of these are witty, although the prints of some of the witticisms are rather involved and few.

With the arrival of the Flunkers in college feeding rows in circles, but also because it will come added interest to be attached to the already prominent place
crew holds in the athletic activities of the University.

Suez Canal.

Already the Chinese Government has three medical schools under government control, and the young men are trained in the modern methods of medical treatment. In the city of Peking alone there are two very large hospitals run by the republic, each hospital treating from three to four hundred patients each day. They use a tremendous amount of drugs in a year, and there is no reason why that supply should not be furnished by American druggists instead of being imported from England and Germany.

"Again, especially in the oriental towns the Chinese are beginning to construct macadamized roads, and it is only a question of a very short time until the Chinese will be using automobiles in their large cities. Not one of the five automobiles in the city of Peking is of an American make, yet I see no reason why the American manufacturers should undersell American products, especially when they have to ship their automobiles and other goods all the way around the Horn Canal.

"If we are to become a real vital factor in moulding the spirit and heart of the East, we must protect our national commerce at once and introduce our products. And there is no reason why we should not do so, for there is no nation and no people on such friendly terms with China to-day as the Americans."
