TO CHANGE TIME OF MEETING.
Phi to Abandon Usual Friday Night Games.

On account of the military order which confines men to their barracks Friday night, the Pennsylvania Literary Society will be forced to change the date of its meetings from Friday night to some other suitable time. This is the first time, it is alleged, that such a restriction of the society, that Friday night meeting has been desired by the students.

The results of the selections the earlier have not been public, but it is known that eight candidates have been chosen. The men who have been selected will be notified of the announcement of the new date of the popular meeting, which will be made within two days.

MEETINGS QUIZED BY BOARD.

Good results shown by candidates for Daily Paper.

As part of their intensive training, daily for the editorial department of The Pennsylvania took a thorough course in weekend business.

Questions testing the candidate's knowledge of the campus and his ability to solve specific problems were given. As a whole the reporters were quite good showing, the results being up to the standards set by the former years.

No cuts will be made as a direct result of the quiz, but these papers, to qualify for the work of the candidates will be prepared to serve as editors. Twenty-four will be retained for further competition.

Yale May Oppose Princeton.

Although standing debate has been decided concerning the matter, it seems that Yale and Princeton will be placed opposite each other, and every in the coming season. These two old rivals have always proved a great game on the turf. This interest in this game should be high.

NEW SELECTIONS OF OFFICERS.

Radical Change Gives Rise to Plan
of Choosing Officers from Civil Life.

Separate recruiting by individual staff corps is to be discontinued and centralization of the general staff substituted, according to a new plan of procuring officers for the Army from civil life. All applications are to be made through the recruiting subsection of the personnel branch of the general staff.

It is expected through the new plan
to fill the Army's requirements for officers in a more efficient way than previously. No longer will it be necessary to write to Washington to obtain information or fill out applications.
Through the local press full information will be given. Complete information will be published by the Military Training Camp Association.

Those who think themselves qualified to be officers can apply to any branch of the Army may write application. The application should be turned in uniform office, without waiting for information as to the need for men. If found generally qualified to be an officer, upon interview and examination, he will be recommended as an available candidate for a commission. His application will then be forwarded to the personal branch. If needed, he will be consigned to active duty at once. The headquarters of the Military Training Camp Association is in Room 117 of the Commercial Trust Building.

Need Ordinances at Hospital.

Blockley Hospital is still greatly in need of volunteers for service in the wards, to relieve the nurses who are fighting the epidemic. Although the disease is well under control on the campus, patients are needed in order to secure as many as possible to the chief nurse or University Christian Association.

Many Letters in College Hall.

Small response has been made to the request of the College authorities
that students in the College who wish lockers preserve them at once. Proc-enance of the matriculation card in Room 101, College Hall, is all that is necessary. It is desired that this be done immediately, so that the remaining lockers can be turned over to Wharton School students.

Tailored by the Kirschbaum Shops of Philadelphia

The same uniforms which are being worn by thousands upon thousands of army officers wherever American battle flags are today unfurled... These uniforms are made of fine all-wool fabrics. They owe their shapeliness to the tailor's needle—not the pressing iron... They combine the soldierly look of a West Pointer with the endurance of a bronzed campaigner.

FITT to Oppose W. and J.
After a week's workout in daily drills, the Pittsburgh squad was given a change yesterday in the form of defensive play. In preparation for the Washington and Jefferson game. This will probably be the first contest for the Panther steer, as the influenza epidemic will keep the team idle next Saturday, causes the ban is lifted before that date.

Army Classes to Use Armories.
In communities where the commonwealth owns armories, such places not in use as emergency hospitals are being turned over to the U.S. Government for use of students' training classes. Where armories are in use for hospitals, arrangements will be made later for their use by the students in army classes.

Society Continues Work.
Beta had one of the largest meetings of the year. Everyone had an enjoyable time. There were fourteen applications for membership and one honorary election. New officers will be elected at the next meeting to replace those who have been called into the service.

Former Student at M. I. T.
David McChesney, '20 Wh., is in the Naval Aviation School at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. He was an active member of Phi Beta Kappa and was interested in debating, while studying at the University. McChesney expects to be at a flying school in Florida shortly.

Well-known Athlete Falls.
"Harvard Eddie," an Crimson star and the first big leaguer to fall in the service, has made the supreme sacrifice and fell while leading a unit to the aid of the famous "lost battalion." Captain Edward Grant, Harvard '08, who was a sprinter on the Crimson squad, and a member of the Phillies for four seasons under "Billy" Murray in 1911, was a sensational leader. He was attached to the 307th Infantry. He was one of the first professional athletes to enlist, and received his commission as lieutenant in the Officers Training Camp at Pittsburgh.

Football at Camp Crane.
Following the unqualified approval of Lieutenant-Colonel Snyder, Camp Crane's new commander, it was decided that football would be given a place in the Army's program. First practice was held Saturday. Merton Clevitt, the Y. M. C. A. chief, is confident that a good team will be formed.

Lehing to Meet Rutgers.
Lehing's Varsity eleven will oppose the Rutgers aggregation on Saturday. Coach Ready of Lehing gave the men a light workout in preparation for the contest. Although several members of the team are injured, an interesting game is looked for.

F. and M. Pivot Man Sick.
Collinger, Franklin and Marshall's center, is ill with influenza. His sickness was a blow to the hopes of the already diminished football squad, which is now holding light practice under Coach Walter's direction.
